Screen World 1996:

The Virtual Window Anne Friedberg, 2009-02-13 From the Renaissance idea of the painting as an open window to the nested windows and multiple images on today's cinema television and computer screens a cultural history of the metaphoric literal and virtual window As we spend more and more of our time staring at the screens of movies televisions computers and handheld devices windows full of moving images texts and icons how the world is framed has become as important as what is in the frame In The Virtual Window Anne Friedberg examines the window as metaphor as architectural component and as an opening to the dematerialized reality we see on the screen In De pictura 1435 Leon Battista Alberti famously instructed painters to consider the frame of the painting as an open window Taking Alberti's metaphor as her starting point Friedberg tracks shifts in the perspectival paradigm as she gives us histories of the architectural window developments in glass and transparency and the emerging apparatuses of photography cinema television and digital imaging Single point perspective Alberti's metaphorical window has long been challenged by modern painting modern architecture and moving image technologies And yet notes Friedberg for most of the twentieth century the dominant form of the moving image was a single image in a single frame The fractured modernism exemplified by cubist painting for example remained largely confined to experimental avant garde work On the computer screen however where multiple windows coexist and overlap perspective may have met its end In this wide ranging book Friedberg considers such topics as the framed view of the camera obscura Le Corbusier's mandates for the architectural window Eisenstein's opinions on the shape of the movie screen and the multiple images and nested windows commonly displayed on screens today The Virtual Window proposes a new logic of visuality framed and virtual an architecture not only of space but of time

Gordon,2003-01-21 Screen Savors studies how the self of whites is imagined in Hollywood movies by white directors

featuring white protagonists interacting with people of another color This collaboration by a sociologist and a film critic using the new perspective of critical white studies offers a bold and sweeping critique of almost a century s worth of American film from Birth of Nation 1915 through Black Hawk Down 2001 Screen Savors studies the way in which the social relations that we call race are fictionalized and pictured in the movies It argues that films are part of broader projects that lead us to ignore or deny the nature of the racial divide in which Americans live Even as the images of racial and ethnic minorities change across the twentieth century Hollywood keeps portraying the ideal white American self as good looking powerful brave cordial kind firm and generous a natural born leader worthy of the loyalty of those of another color The book invites readers to conduct their own analyses of films by showing how this can be done in over 50 Hollywood movies Among these are some films about the Civil War Birth of a Nation Gone with the Wind and Glory some about white messiahs who rescue people of another color Stargate To Kill a Mockingbird Mississippi Burning Three Kings and The Matrix the three versions of Mutiny on the Bounty 1935 1962 and 1984 and interracial romance Guess Who's Coming to Dinner Forty years of Hollywood fantasies of interracial harmony from The Defiant Ones and In the Heat of the Night through the Lethal Weapon series and Men in Black are examined This work in the sociology of knowledge and cultural studies relates the movies of Hollywood to the large political agendas on race relation in the United States Screen Savors appeals to the general reader interested in the movies or in race and ethnicity as well as to students of communication American studies critical white studies American film cultural studies and the sociology of race relations
