Loveday's Letters Domestick and Forrein Robert Loveday,1659 Robert Love's Warnings Cornelia H. Dayton,Sharon V. Salinger,2014-03-04 In colonial America the system of warning out was distinctive to New England a way for a community to regulate those to whom it would extend welfare Robert Love's Warnings animates this nearly forgotten aspect of colonial life richly detailing the moral and legal basis of the practice and the religious and humanistic vision of those who enforced it Historians Cornelia H Dayton and Sharon V Salinger follow one otherwise obscure town clerk Robert Love as he walked through Boston's streets to tell sojourners in His Majesty's Name that they were warned to depart the town in fourteen days. This declaration meant not that newcomers literally had to leave but that they could not claim legal settlement or rely on town poor relief. Warned youths and adults could reside, work, marry or buy a house in the city. If they became needy, their relief was paid for by the province treasurer. Warning thus functioned as a registration system encouraging the flow of labor and protecting town coffers. Between 1765 and 1774 Robert Love warned four thousand itinerants including youthful migrant workers, demobilized British soldiers, recently exiled Acadians and women following the redcoats who occupied Boston in 1768. Appointed warner at age sixty-eight owing to his unusual capacity for remembering faces, Love kept meticulous records of the sojourners he spoke to, including where they lodged and whether they were lame, ragged, drunk, impudent, homeless or begging. Through these documents Dayton and Salinger reconstruct the biographies of travelers exploring why so many people were on the move throughout the British Atlantic and why they came to Boston. With a fresh interpretation of the role that warning played in Boston's civic structure and street life, Robert Love's Warnings reveals the complex legal, social and political landscape of New England in the decade before the Revolution.

Relationship Obits Kathleen Horan, 2009-06-23. Because We All Have a Relationship We Need to Put to Rest. From your basic lying, cheating, no good scum to those relationships that were doomed from the start, they were married to different people to a man who faked his death. Relationship Obits is a voyeuristic romp through the unexplored underbelly of love and life. Kathleen Horan founded relationshipobit.com when a big breakup was followed two weeks later by the death of her father. Writing her father's obituary made her wonder what it would be like to write one for the end of her relationship. The Web site was born and thousands began to put their love to rest online. This collection is at times hilarious, raw, shocking and poignant, a true celebration of love in all its manifestations.

Journalism in a Culture of Grief Carolyn Kitch,Janice Hume,2012-08-21 This book considers the cultural meanings of death in American journalism and the role of journalism in interpretations and enactments of public grief which has returned to an almost Victorian level A number of researchers have begun to address this growing collective preoccupation with death in modern life few scholars however have studied the central forum for the conveyance and construction of public grief today news media News reports about death have a powerful impact and cultural authority because they bring emotional immediacy to matters of fact telling stories of real people who die in real circumstances and real people who mourn them Moreover through news media a broader audience mourns along with the central characters in those stories and in turn news media cover the extended rituals Journalism in a Culture of Grief examines this process through a range of types of death and types of news media It discusses the reporting of horrific events such as September 11 and Hurricane Katrina it considers the cultural role of obituaries and the instructive work of coverage of teens killed due to their own risky behaviors and it assesses the role of news media in conducting national patriotic memorial rituals Nicholas Love's Mirror and Late Medieval Devotio-Literary Culture David J.
