The Structure of Digital Partner Choice Andreas Schmitz,2016-11-01 This work approaches the modern phenomenon of online dating examining the ways people make use of its technical and social potential In particular the users mate preferences choices strategies and interactions are analyzed using the innovative method of click stream observations and web questionnaire data For the purpose of these analyses two major theories are used an explicit theory of individual mate choice and the more general relational theory developed by Pierre Bourdieu which helps to highlight the social structures both underlying and resulting from mating online Results show that online dating is not a partner market free from social structure but that the traditional social conditions found offline are also reproduced in this virtual setting In contrast to the picture drawn by media discourse and advertising online dating represents a partner market which fulfills the promise of happiness in a socially differential way

Paludi,2012-03-09 From arranged marriages to online dating this four volume work presents everything from personal accounts to empirical evidence to document what creates love in our culture as well as around the world The field of biology views love as a hard wired mammalian drive akin to thirst and hunger In contrast psychology views love from a social and cultural perspective where our drive to find love and our responses to it are highly dependent on societal norms In The Psychology of Love esteemed author and educator Michele A Paludi examines love through all lenses thereby providing readers a deeper understanding of the ways we can express caring sensitivity empathy and respect toward one another Each chapter in this comprehensive four volume work includes a scholarly overview of empirical research and theories about the psychology of love In addition individuals own definitions of love are included Special attention is paid to accepted standards of love across a variety of cultures the ways individuals express liking and love across the lifecycle and patterns in dissolutions of friendships and romantic relationships making note of gender and race differences

Compensated Dating Cassini Sai Kwan Chu,2018-01-16 This book considers a burgeoning social phenomenon compensated dating in Hong Kong that facilitates direct commercial sex exchange between consenting females from their mid teens through the late 20s and males from their early 20s to mid adulthood Informed by the transformation of intimacy the breakdown of institutional constraints the emergence of a new female sexual autonomy and the advancement of information technology this book moves beyond stereotypes of sex work to look at the complexities of compensated dating The phenomenon of compensated dating is distinctive from most other sex trades in that it involves intense emotional interactions and often extends beyond the commercial boundary Given the dynamic flexible and ambiguous nature of compensated dating it has become more of a space for sexual explorations and less of a rigid model of commercial sex at least in the eye of the participants This book walks through how men become involved in compensated dating and also sheds lights on how gender relations are negotiated with important implications on what it means to be a man and a woman in contemporary Hong Kong society It also speaks to the broader transformations of some of the key social structures and elements particularly gender and sexualities in the era of late modernity

Cold Intimacies Eva Illouz,2013-04-23 It is commonly assumed that capitalism has created an a emotional world dominated by bureaucratic rationality that economic behavior conflicts with intimate authentic relationships that the public and private spheres are irremediably opposed to each other and that true love is opposed to calculation and self interest Eva Illouz rejects these conventional ideas and argues that the culture of capitalism has fostered an intensely emotional culture in the workplace in the family and in our own relationship to ourselves She argues that economic relations have become deeply emotional while close intimate relationships have become increasingly defined by economic and political models of bargaining exchange and equity This dual process by which emotional and economic relationships come to define and shape each other is called emotional capitalism Illouz finds evidence of this process of emotional capitalism in various social sites self help literature women s magazines talk shows support groups and the Internet dating sites How did this happen What are the social consequences of the current preoccupation with emotions How did the public sphere become saturated with the exposure of private life Why does suffering occupy a central place in contemporary identity How has emotional capitalism transformed our romantic choices and experiences Building on and revising the intellectual legacy of critical theory this book addresses these questions and offers a new interpretation of the reasons why the public and the private the economic and the emotional spheres have become inextricably intertwined
