Realist Responses to Post-Human Society: Ex Machina Ismael Al-Amoudi, Jamie

Morgan, 2018-07-27 This volume is the first of a trilogy which investigates from a broadly realist perspective the place and challenges of the human in contemporary social orders The authors all members of the Centre for Social Ontology ask what is specific about humanity's nature and worth and what are their main challenges in contemporary societies Examining the ways in which recent advances in technology threaten to blur and displace the boundaries constitutive of our shared humanity Realist Responses to Post Human Society Ex Machina explores the philosophical and ethical questions raised by these developments and discusses the dangers posed by the combination of transhumanism with post humanist social theories and antihumanist practices institutions and ideologies

Time and Social Theory Barbara Adam, 2013-03-01

Time is at the forefront of contemporary scholarly inquiry across the natural sciences and the humanities Yet the social sciences have remained substantially isolated from time related concerns This book argues that time should be a key part of social theory and focuses concern upon issues which have emerged as central to an understanding of today's social world Through her analysis of time Barbara Adam shows that our contemporary social theories are firmly embedded in Newtonian science and classical dualistic philosophy She exposes these classical frameworks of thought as inadequate to the task of conceptualizing our contemporary world of standardized time computers nuclear power and global telecommunications

Unhastening Science Dick Pels, 2003-01-01

This book offers a new account of what makes science special among other human pursuits critically engaging with a variety of approaches especially constructivist and relativist studies of science and technology It focuses on the studied lack of haste of science its relative freedom from stress and its socially sanctioned withdrawal from the swift pace of ordinary life Unhastening Science offers a balanced and thoughtful argument which emphasizes the dangers of cossetting science from the scourge of internal competition while at the same time highlighting the need for distance between the process of scientific thought and the faster machinery of politics business sports and the media

Time Helga

Nowotny, 2018-03-12 Helga Nowotny's exploration of the forms and meaning of time in contemporary life is panoramic without in any way partaking of the blandness of a survey From the artificial time of the scientific laboratory to the distinctively modern yearning for one's own time she regards every topic in this wide ranging book from a fresh angle of vision one which reveals unsuspected affinities between the bravest newest worlds of global technology and the most ancient worlds of myth Lorraine Daston University of Chicago This book represents a major contribution to the understanding of time giving particular attention to time in relation to modernity The development of industrialism the author points out was based upon a linear and abstract conception of time Today we see that form of production and the social institutions associated with it supplanted by flexible specialization and just in time production systems New information and communication technologies have made a fundamental impact here But what does all this mean for temporal regimes How can we understand the transformation of time and space involved in the bewildering variety of options on offer in a postmodern world The author provides an incisive analysis of the temporal implications of modern communication She considers the implications of worldwide simultaneous experience made possible by satellite technologies and considers the reorganization of time involved in the continuous technological innovation that marks our era In this puzzling universe of action how does one achieve a time of one's own The discovery of a specific time perspective centred in the individual she shows expresses a yearning for forms of experience that are subversive of established institutional patterns This brilliant study became a classic in Germany will be of interest to students and professionals working in the areas of social theory sociology politics and anthropology

City of Remembering Susan Tucker, 2016-05-19 City of Remembering represents a rich testament to the persistence of a passionate form of public history In exploring one particular community of family historians in New Orleans Susan Tucker reveals how genealogists elevate a sort of subterranean foundation of the city sepia photographs of the Vieux Carré sturdy pages of birth registrations from St Louis Cathedral small scraps of the earliest French Superior Council records elegant and weighty leaves of papers used by notaries and ledgers from the judicial deliberations of the Illustrious Spanish Cabildo They also explore coded letters left by mistake accounts carried over oceans and gentle prods of dying children to be counted and thus to be remembered Most of all the family historians speak of continual beginnings both in the genesis of their own research processes but also of American dreams that value the worth of every individual life The author an archivist who has worked for over thirty years asking questions about how records figure in the lives of individuals and cultures also presents a national picture of genealogy's origins uses changing forms and purposes Tucker examines both the past and the present and draws from oral history interviews ethnographic fieldwork and archival research Illustrations come from individuals archives and libraries in New Orleans Richmond Washington DC and Salt Lake City as well as Massachusetts and Wisconsin demonstrating the contrasts between regions and how those practitioners approach their work in each setting Ultimately Tucker shows that genealogy is more than simply tracing lineage the pursuit becomes a fascinating window into people neighborhoods and the daily life of those individuals who came before us

Political Traditions and UK Politics M. Hall, 2011-08-16 An exploration of political traditions and their usage in explanations of British politics This book includes an evaluation of both classical and critical approaches to the British Political Tradition It also analyses more recent uses of political tradition by Bevir Rhodes and Marquand

The Perception of the Environment Tim Ingold, 2021-11-29 In this work Tim Ingold offers a persuasive new approach to understanding how human beings perceive their surroundings He argues that what we are used to calling cultural variation consists in the first place of variations in skill Neither innate nor acquired skills are grown incorporated into the human organism through practice and training in an environment They are thus as much biological as cultural To account for the generation of skills we have therefore to understand the dynamics of development And this in turn calls for an ecological approach that situates practitioners in the context of an active engagement with the constituents of their surroundings The twenty three essays comprising this book focus in turn on the procurement of livelihood on what it means to dwell and on the nature of skill weaving together approaches from social anthropology ecological psychology developmental biology and phenomenology in a way that has never been attempted before The book is set to revolutionise the way we think about what is biological and cultural in humans about evolution and history and indeed about what it means for human beings at once organisms and persons to inhabit an environment The Perception of the Environment will be essential reading not only for anthropologists but also for biologists psychologists archaeologists geographers and philosophers This edition includes a new Preface by the author

Timespace Jon May, Nigel Thrift, 2003-08-29 Timespace argues that the old dimensions of time and space do not exist singly but only as a hybrid process term the contributors introduce the concepts of time and space together across a range of disciplines

What is a Disaster? E.L. Quarantelli, 2005-06-27 Are conflict situations such as the ethnic clashes in Yugoslavia or Rwanda terrorist attacks and riots the same kind of social crises as those generated by natural and technological happenings such as earthquakes and chemical explosions In What is a Disaster social science disaster researchers from six different disciplines advance their views on what a disaster is Clashes in conceptions are highlighted through the book's unique juxtaposition of the authors separately advanced views A reaction paper to each set of views is presented by an experienced disaster researcher in turn the original authors provide a response to what has been said about their views What is a Disaster sets out the huge conceptual differences that exist concerning what a disaster is and presents important implications for both theory study and practice Challenging Codes Alberto Melucci, 1996-09-12 In Challenging Codes Melucci brings an original perspective to research on collective action which both emphasizes the role of culture and makes telling connections with the experience of the individual in postmodern society The focus is on the role of information in an age which knows both fragmentation and globalisation building on the analysis of collective action familiar from the author's Nomads of the Present Melucci addresses a wide range of contemporary issues including political conflict and change feminism ecology identity politics power and inequality Trust and Honesty Tamar Frankel, 2008-08-14 America's culture is moving in a new and dangerous direction as it becomes more accepting and tolerant of dishonesty and financial abuse Tamar Frankel argues that this phenomenon is not new in fact it has a specific traceable past During the past thirty years temptations and opportunities to defraud have risen legal moral and theoretical barriers to abuse of trust have fallen She goes on to suggest that fraud and the abuse of trust could have a widespread impact on American economy and prosperity and argues that the way to counter this disturbing trend is to reverse the culture of business dishonesty Finally she presents the following thesis If Americans have had enough of financial abuse they can demand of their leaders of themselves and of each other more honesty and trust and less cynicism Americans can reject the actions attitudes theories and assumptions that brought us the corporate scandals of the 1990s Though American society can have bad apples and its constituents hold differing opinions about the precise meaning of trust and truth it can remain honest as long as it aspires to honesty History without Chronology Stefan Tanaka, 2019-01-01 Although numerous disciplines recognize multiple ways of conceptualizing time Stefan Tanaka argues that scholars still overwhelmingly operate on chronological and linear Newtonian or classical time that emerged during the Enlightenment This short approachable book implores the humanities and humanistic social sciences to actively embrace the richness of different times that are evident in non modern societies and have become common in several scientific fields throughout the twentieth century Tanaka first offers a history of chronology by showing how the social structures built on clocks and calendars gained material expression Tanaka then proposes that we can move away from this chronology by considering how contemporary scientific understandings of time might be adapted to reconceive the present and pasts This opens up a conversation that allows for the possibility of other ways to know about and represent pasts A multiplicity of times will help us broaden the historical horizon by embracing the heterogeneity of our lives and world via rethinking the complex interaction between stability repetition and change This history without chronology also allows for incorporating the affordances of digital media Handbook of Equality of Opportunity, 2024-07-12 This Handbook provides an authoritative exposition of equality of opportunity It presents the different concepts most commonly associated with equality of opportunity and discusses the many problems dominating the controversies on equality of opportunity at the theoretical policy or practical level The chapters give a concise exposition of the different conceptions and basic concepts of equal opportunities They clarify variables that are part of the algorithm of equal opportunities e.g. opportunity equality non discrimination fairness responsibility chance and choice excellence qualifications effort talent merit desert inequality and risk

The idea of equality of opportunity has traditionally been associated with a set of largely unquestioned ideals and over the last 50 years it has been at the very centre of the major progressive social changes and firmly entrenched in political rhetoric. Yet the idea of equality of opportunity is far from unquestionable or unproblematic as the only solid assumption different conceptions have in common is their rejection of fixed social relations but not hierarchy itself. Disagreements over the fundamental principles criticism over the inefficiency of policies aiming to ensure equal opportunities and objections to their unfairness all pose questions that current conceptions answer in different ways. This Handbook examines a wide variety of questions about issues of motivation procedures genealogy taxonomy and compensation Cities, Railways, Modernities Carlos López Galviz, 2019-01-10 Cities Railways Modernities chronicles the transformation that London and Paris experienced during the nineteenth century through the lens of the London Underground and the Paris Métro. By highlighting the multiple ways in which the future of the two cities was imagined and the role that railways played in that process it challenges and refines two of the most dominant myths of urban modernity: A planned Paris and an unplanned London. The book recovers a significant body of work around the ideas, the plans, the context and the building of metropolitan railways in the two cities to provide new insights into the relationship of transport technologies and urban change during the nineteenth century Learning, Curriculum and Life Politics Ivor Goodson, 2005 Having spent the last thirty years researching, thinking and writing about some of the key issues in education Professor Ivor Goodson presents twenty of his most important writings in this single volume The Sociology of Speed Judy Wajcman, Nigel Dodd, 2016-11-24 There is a widespread perception that life is faster than it used to be. We hear constant laments that we live too fast, that time is scarce and that the pace of everyday life is spiraling out of our control. The iconic image that abounds is that of the frenetic technologically tethered iPhone/iPad addicted citizen. Yet weren't modern machines supposed to save and thereby free up time? The purpose of this book is to bring a much needed sociological perspective to bear on speed: it examines how speed and acceleration came to signify the zeitgeist and explores the political implications of this. Among the major questions addressed are: when did acceleration become the primary rationale for technological innovation and the key measure of social progress? Is acceleration occurring across all sectors of society and all aspects of life or are some groups able to mobilise speed as a resource while others are marginalised and excluded? Does the growing centrality of technological mediations of both information and communication produce slower as well as faster times, waiting as well as busyness, stasis as well as mobility? To what extent is the contemporary imperative of speed as much a cultural artefact as a material one? To make sense of everyday life in the twenty-first century we must begin by interrogating the social dynamics of speed. This book shows how time is a collective accomplishment and that temporality is experienced very differently by diverse groups of people, especially between the affluent and those who service them The Benefits of Learning Tom Schuller, John Preston, Cathie

Hammond,Angela Brassett-Grundy,John Bynner,2004-02-26 Presenting the findings of the first large scale study on the social consequences of participation in various forms of adult and lifelong learning this book investigates the relationships between education and key social concerns such as health
