Restructuring Asian Economies For The New Millennium Volume 9b:

Asian Economic Cooperation in the New Millennium Calla Wiemer, Heping Cao, 2004 This volume is the outgrowth of a conference held at Peking University in May 2002 jointly sponsored by the American Committee on Asian Economic Studies the Peking University School of Economics and the China Reform Forum The contributors include leading scholars from Asia as well as specialists on Asia from the US Europe and Australia Methodology for Impact Assessment of Free Trade

Agreements Asian Development Bank, 2011-02-01 This publication displays the menu for choice of available methods to evaluate the impact of Free Trade Agreements FTAs It caters mainly to policy makers from developing countries and aims to equip them with some economic knowledge and techniques that will enable them to conduct their own economic evaluation studies on existing or future FTAs or to critically re-examine the results of impact assessment studies conducted by others at the very least Gender Disparities in Africa's Labor Market Jorge Saba Arbach, Alexandre Kolev, Ewa

Filipiak, 2010-08-05 Women's earnings are a fraction of male's earnings in several African countries It is tempting to conclude that this wage gap is a sign of discrimination against women in the labor market Yet this book uses new datasets to show that the gap is not simply the result of discrimination in the labor markets but rather the result of multiple factors including access to education and credit cultural values and household duties and above all labor market conditions It shows that gender disparities grow when economies are not functioning well and labor markets are tiny More than the effect of discrimination it seems that job rationing causes those with better human capital and those with more power in the household usually the men to take the few jobs that are available It is hardly surprising then that in a region where only a fraction of the labor force finds jobs in the formal sector gender disparities in earnings are so high The book further documents that firm level and sector characteristics are additional powerful factors in explaining the gender disparities in the labor market As the causes are not simple neither are the solutions multifaceted strategies are needed By providing environments that support economic growth and more importantly job creation as well as by promoting equal access for women to education and rethinking the attitudes that limit what women may achieve governments in the region will substantially improve the well-being of all their peoples Gender Disparities in Africa's Labor Market helps to fill the knowledge gap and identify the links between gender disparities and poverty reduction The work was implemented in collaboration with a range of poverty and labor market studies to maximize its usefulness for policy dialogue in specific countries This book will be of interest to policy makers students academics gender experts and all those interested in gender issues and development Research in Asian Economic Studies, 1989* Enhancing Investment Cooperation in

The Years of Living Dangerously Stephen Vines, 2000 Is the financial crisis in Asia really over In this study of the Asian financial crisis Vines argues that the 1997 collapse of Asia's economy could be repeated because many Asian companies remain fundamentally weak

Business Groups in East Asia Sea-Jin Chang, 2006-03-02 The 1997 Asian Crisis principally affected Thailand Indonesia Malaysia and Korea as well as other East Asian countries heavily dependent on intra regional trade Banks and other financial institutions quickly become insolvent and heavily indebted industrial firms went bankrupt Many of these firms were affiliated with the business groups of this region yet most groups did not immediately collapse indeed they proved remarkably robust some surviving and even prospering This book examines these East Asian business groups and their subsequent restructuring following the Asian Crisis East Asian nations embarked on very different trajectories to this common external shock The Asian Crisis affected the inter relationships among the socio cultural environment the state and the market of each country quite differently and had distinct effects on the operations of these countries business groups This slow yet divergent pattern of development provides evidence against theories of rapid global convergence Yet East Asian business groups face an uncertain future Foreign investors influence has increased substantially since the crisis as East Asian governments had to accommodate their demands to keep attracting foreign capital Governments supervise banks more closely and have loosened restrictions on mergers and hostile takeovers further strengthening the discipline of the market Various entry barriers that had inhibited foreign multinationals from competing in national markets were lifted exposing business groups to intensified foreign competition Under these new conditions business groups in East Asia should reconfigure their business structures and adjust their corporate governance systems to regain momentum for further growth Business groups will continue to be important vehicles for the sustained future growth of this region and this book presents a substantial amount of new data on this which will be of interest to academics researchers and advanced students of East Asian business and business practitioners working within the region
