

A vintage movie poster for the film 'Screaming Mimi'. The central figure is a woman with blonde, wavy hair, wearing a vibrant red, two-piece outfit with a long, flowing skirt and a matching top. She is posed in a dynamic, almost dancing manner with her arms outstretched and one leg raised. The background is a light, neutral color. To the right of the woman, the text 'Suspense around every curve!' is written in a bold, sans-serif font. A large, black, diagonal banner with the title 'SCREAMING MIMI' in white, stylized capital letters cuts across the middle of the poster. Below the banner, a small, detailed line drawing depicts a scene from the movie, showing a group of people in a room. At the bottom of the poster, the names of the stars are listed: 'Anita EKBERG', 'Phil CAREY', and 'Gypsy Rose LEE', with the first letter of each last name in red. Below the names, smaller text provides production details, including the names of the producers, director, and the production company, Columbia Pictures.

African Film and Literature Lindiwe Dovey, 2009 Analyzing a range of South African and West African films inspired by African and non African literature Lindiwe Dovey identifies a specific trend in contemporary African filmmaking one in which filmmakers are using the embodied audiovisual medium of film to offer a critique of physical and psychological violence Against a detailed history of the medium s savage introduction and exploitation by colonial powers in two very different African contexts Dovey examines the complex ways in which African filmmakers are preserving mediating and critiquing their own cultures while seeking a united vision of the future More than merely representing socio cultural realities in Africa these films engage with issues of colonialism and postcolonialism updating both the history and the literature they adapt to address contemporary audiences in Africa and elsewhere Through this deliberate and radical re historicization of texts and realities Dovey argues that African filmmakers have developed a method of filmmaking that is altogether distinct from European and American forms of adaptation Murder in White Sands
