representations fit neatly into existing conceptions of colonial discourse and that their messages about the Good Indian have become part of viewers' understandings of Native Americans. In this study FitzGerald offers close examinations of such series as The Lone Ranger, Daniel Boone, Broken Arrow, Hawk, Nakia, and Walker Texas Ranger. By examining the traditional role of stereotypes and their functions in the rhetoric of colonialism, the volume ultimately offers a critical analysis of images of the Good Indian, minority figures that enforce the dominant group's norms. A long overdue discussion of this issue, Native Americans on Network TV will be of interest to scholars of television and media studies but also those of Native American studies, subaltern studies, and media history.

Media & Minorities Stephanie Greco Larson, 2006 Media Minorities looks at the media's racial tendencies with an eye to identifying the system's supportive messages conveyed and offering challenges to them. The book covers all major media, including television, film, newspapers, radio, magazines, and the Internet, and systematically analyzes their representation of the four largest minority groups in the U.S.: African Americans, Native Americans, Latinos, and Asian Americans. Entertainment media are compared and contrasted with news media, and special attention is devoted to coverage of social movements for racial justice and politicians of color.

Learning Culture through Sports Sandra Spickard Prettyman, Brian Lampman, 2010-09-16 In today's culture, sports wield a weighty influence; this influence, however, is rarely examined. Similar to the first edition, this second edition of Learning Culture Through Sports provides coaches, educators, parents, and others dealing with students and athletes with an engaging and critical context for probing the sociological basis of this influence. The book's sections each address a particular issue in sport: youth and sport, gender and sexuality, race and ethnicity, sport media and big business, and international perspectives on sport and participation. Leading experts in the field present new and exciting avenues for exploring sport in our world, allowing us to recognize its tremendous influence, both positive and negative, in our lives and in our world. This new edition also includes cutting-edge research examining contemporary issues and controversies surrounding sport today. These issues, analyzed from multiple perspectives, will inspire readers to change the game in positive ways.

Black Oscars Frederick Gooding Jr., 2020-05-24 A timely exploration of Oscar-nominated Black actors and the complicated legacy of the Academy Awards. In Black Oscars: From Mammy to Minny, What the Academy Awards Tell Us about African Americans, Frederick W. Gooding Jr. draws on American, African American, and film history to reflect on how the Oscars have recognized Black actors from the award's inception to the present. Starting in the 1920s, the chapters provide a thorough overview and analysis of Black actors nominated for their Hollywood roles during each decade, with special attention paid to the winners. Historical patterns are scrutinized to reveal racial trends and open the question of whether race relations have truly changed substantively or only superficially over time. Given the Oscars' presence and popularity, it begs the question of what these awards reflect and reinforce about larger society. In the meticulously researched Black Oscars, we see how the Academy Awards are an indispensable guide to understanding race in mainstream Hollywood and beyond.

The Politics of Race and Ethnicity in Matthew's Passion Narrative Wongi Park, 2019-01-21 In Matthew's passion narrative the ethnoracial identity of Jesus comes into sharp focus. The repetition of the title King of the Judeans foregrounds the politics of race and ethnicity. Despite the explicit use of terminology, previous scholarship has understood the title curiously in non-ethnoracial ways. This book takes the peculiar omission in the history of interpretation as its point of departure. It provides an expanded ethnoracial reading of the text and poses a fundamental ideological question that interrogates the pattern in the larger context of modern biblical scholarship. Wongi Park issues a critique of the dominant narrative and presents an alternative reading of Matthew's passion narrative. He identifies a critical vocabulary and framework of analysis to decode the politics of race and ethnicity implicit in the history of interpretation. Ultimately, the book lends itself to a broader research agenda: the destabilization of the dominant narrative of early Christianity's non-ethnoracial origins.

Visual Economies Of/in Motion C. Richard King, David J. Leonard, 2006 Sport films have been central to American cinema, playing an increasingly important role in the communication of a commonsense understanding of race, gender, class, history, and social relations. Oddly, scholars have neglected sport films and their significance. Offering a comparative, theoretically grounded, and interdisciplinary approach, Visual Economies of in Motion marks a novel and important point of departure in sport studies and cultural studies. It brings together a dozen essays on feature films and documentaries to probe the articulation of ideologies and identities, play and power, and sporting worlds and social fields.

Amazon.com Feeling White Cheryl E. Matias, 2016-03-22 Discussing race and racism often conjures up emotions of guilt, shame, anger, defensiveness, denial, sadness, dissonance, and discomfort. Instead of suppressing those feelings, coined emotionalities of whiteness, they are nonetheless important to identify, understand, and deconstruct. If one ever hopes to fully commit to racial equity, Feeling White: Whiteness, Emotionality, and Education delves deeper into these white emotionalities and other latent ones by providing theoretical and psychoanalytic analyses to determine where these emotions stem from, how they operate, and how they perpetuate racial inequities in education and society. The author beautifully weaves in creative writing with theoretical work to artistically illustrate how these emotions operate while also engaging the reader in an emotional experience in and of itself, claiming one must feel to understand. This book does not rehash former race concepts; rather, it applies them in novel ways that get at the heart of humanity, thus revealing how feeling white ultimately impacts race relations. Without a proper investigation on these underlying emotions that can both stifle or enhance one's commitment to racial justice in education and society, the field of education denies itself a proper emotional preparation so needed to engage in prolonged educative projects of racial and social justice. By digging deep to what impacts humanity most, our hearts, this book dares to expose one's daily experiences with race, thus individually challenging us all to self-investigate our own racialized emotionalities. Drawing on her deep wisdom about how race works, Cheryl Matias directly interrogates the emotional arsenal white people use as shields from the pain of confronting racism, peeling back its layers to unearth a core of love that can open us up. In Feeling White: Whiteness, Emotionality, and Education

Matias deftly names and deconstructs distancing emotions prodding us to stay in the conversation in order to become teachers who can reach children marginalized by racism Christine Sleeter Ph D Professor Emeritus California State University Monterey Bay In Feeling White Cheryl E Matias blends astute observations analyses and insights about the emotions embedded in white identity and their impact on the racialized politics of affect in teacher education Drawing deftly on her own classroom experiences as well as her mastery of the methodologies and theories of critical whiteness studies Matias challenges us to develop what Dr King called the strength to love by confronting and conquering the affective structures that promote white innocence and preclude white accountability George Lipsitz Ph D Professor University of California Santa Barbara and author of The Possessive Investment in Whiteness Cheryl E Matias Ph D is an assistant professor in the School of Education and Human Development at the University of Colorado Denver She is a motherscholar of three children including boy girl twins

A Moral Economy of Whiteness Steve Garner, 2015-08-14 A Moral Economy of Whiteness presents a working model for understanding the main ways in which white UK people make race through talking about immigration in the twenty first century Based on extensive empirical interviews Steve Garner establishes four overlapping frames through which white English people understand immigration This comprises a narrative of unequal treatment where equality is a dirty word because it is seen as an agenda for redistributing resources to undeserving ethnic minorities non integrating migrants and unproductive white people Political correctness is seen as the ideological glue binding this unfair system People are thus retreating from Britishness into a more exclusive Englishness Garner explores the context of these understandings the dominance of neoliberal market rationales in which the State deprioritises anti discrimination work He concludes that these frames only make sense in a social world where Britain's imperial past has no bearing on the present and where racism in popular and media culture becomes purely a story of individual deviancy This book generates numerous international points of comparison that deepen our understanding of the backlash against multiculturalism in the West It will appeal to scholars and students of sociology social policy anthropology political science immigration multiculturalism nationalism and British studies
