Screen Tastes From Soap Opera To Satellite Dishes:

Screen Tastes Charlotte Brunsdon, 2005-07-26 Charlotte Brunsdon's key writings on film and television are brought together with new introductions which contextualise and update the arguments. The focus is on the tastes and pleasures of the female consumer as she is produced by popular film and television.

Prime Time Soap Operas on Indian Television Shoma Munshi, 2012-07-26 This book focuses on urban family soaps on television and analyses them as an important resource for anthropological insights into contemporary social issues and practices. It studies the popular and everyday while also concentrating on the middle class.

REDESIGNING WOMEN Amanda D. Lotz, 2010-10-01 In the 1990s American television audiences witnessed an unprecedented rise in programming devoted explicitly to women. Cable networks such as Oxygen Media Women's Entertainment Network and Lifetime targeted a female audience and prime time dramatic series such as Buffy the Vampire Slayer, Judging Amy, Gilmore Girls, Sex and the City and Ally McBeal empowered heroines, single career women and professionals struggling with family commitments and occupational demands. After establishing this phenomenon's significance, Amanda D. Lotz explores the audience profile, the types of narrative and characters that recur and changes to the industry landscape in the wake of media consolidation and a profusion of channels. Employing a cultural studies framework, Lotz examines whether the multiplicity of female-centric networks and narratives renders certain gender stereotypes uninhabitable and how new dramatic portrayals of women have redefined narrative conventions. Redesigning Women also reveals how these changes led to narrowcasting or the targeting of a niche segment of the overall audience and the ways in which the new sophisticated portrayals of women inspire sympathetic identification while also commodifying viewers into a marketable demographic for advertisers.

A Taste for Gardening Lisa Taylor, 2016-03-16 Is the garden a consumption site where identities are constructed? Do gardeners make aesthetic choices according to how they are positioned by class and gender? This book presents the first scholarly analysis of the relationship between media interest in gardening and cultural identities. With an examination of aesthetic dispositions as a symbolic mode of communication closely aligned to people's identities and drawing on ethnographic data gathered from encounters with gardeners, this book maps a typology of gardening taste, revealing that gardening, how plants are chosen, planted and cared for, is a classed and gendered practice manifested in specific types of visual aesthetics. This timely and original book develops a new area within cultural studies while contributing to debates about lifestyle and lifestyle media consumption, class and methodology. A must read for anybody concerned with or intrigued by the cultural construction of identification practices.

Television Studies Jonathan Gray, Amanda D. Lotz, 2012 Major short introduction to the field of television studies. Clearly lays out the birth of this discipline, shows its links with other fields of study and explains key concepts and theoretical debates. Includes interview material with scholars whose work has defined the field.

The Routledge Companion to Global Television Shawn Shimpach, 2019-10-29 Featuring scholarly perspectives from around the globe and drawing on a legacy of television studies but with an eye toward the future this authoritative collection examines both the thoroughly global nature of television and the multiple and varied experiences that constitute television in the twenty first century Companion chapters include original essays by some of the leading scholars of television studies as well as emerging voices engaging television on six continents offering readers a truly global range of perspectives. The volume features multidisciplinary analyses that offer models and guides for the study of global television with approaches focused on the theories, audiences, content, culture, and institutions of television. A wide array of examples and case studies engage the transforming practices, technologies, systems, and texts constituting television around the world today, providing readers with a contemporary and multi-faceted perspective. In this volume, editor Shawn Shimpach has brought together an essential guide to understanding television in the world today, how it works, and what it means, perfect for students, scholars, and anyone else interested in television, global media studies, and beyond. Adapting Television Drama Christopher Hogg, 2022-01-01. This book explores adaptation in its various forms in contemporary television drama. It considers the mechanics of adaptation as an ever more prevalent form of production, most notably in the reworking of literary sources for television. It also explores the broader process through which the television industry as a whole is currently making necessary adaptations in how it tells stories, especially in relation to important concerns of equality, diversity, and inclusion. Offering and analysing 16 original interviews with leading British television producers, writers, directors, production designers, casting directors, and actors, and with a particular focus on female and/or minority ethnic industry perspectives, the book examines some of the key professional and creative approaches behind television adaptations today. The book connects these industry insights to the existing conceptual and critical frameworks of television studies and adaptation studies, illuminating the unique characteristics of television adaptation as a material mode of production and revealing television itself as an inherently adaptive artform. Framing Celebrity Su Holmes, Sean Redmond, 2012-11-12. Celebrity culture has a pervasive presence in our everyday lives, perhaps more so than ever before. It shapes not simply the production and consumption of media content, but also the social values through which we experience the world. This collection analyses this phenomenon, bringing together essays which explore celebrity across a range of media, cultural, and political contexts. The authors investigate topics such as the intimacy of fame, political celebrity, stardom in American quality television, Sarah Jessica Parker, celebrity reality TV, I'm a Celebrity, Get Me Out of Here, the circulation of the porn star, the gallery film, David Beckham, the concept of cartoon celebrity, The Simpsons, fandom, and celebrity, k.d. lang, NSYNC, celebrity in the tabloid press, celebrity magazines, heat, Celebrity Skin, the fame of the serial killer, and narratives of mental illness in celebrity culture. The collection is organized into four themed sections: Fame Now, broadly examines the contemporary contours of fame as they course through new media sites such as reality TV and the internet, and different social, cultural, and political spaces; Fame Body, attempts to situate the star or celebrity body at the centre of the production, circulation, and consumption of contemporary fame; Fame Simulation, considers the increasingly strained relationship between celebrity and artifice and authenticity; Fame Damage, looks at the way the representation of fame is bound up with auto-destructive tendencies or dissolution. Something Ain't Kosher Here Vincent Brook, 2003. In this humorous work, Brook explores the cultural significance of the recent unprecedented explosion in Jewish sitcoms Television for Women Rachel Moseley, Helen Wheatley, Helen Wood, 2016-11-10 Television for Women brings together emerging and established scholars to reconsider the question of television for women In the context of the 2000s when the potential meanings of both terms have expanded and changed so significantly in what ways might the concept of programming addressed explicitly to a group identified by gender still matter The essays in this collection take the existing scholarship in this field in significant new directions They expand its reach in terms of territory looking beyond for example the paradigmatic Anglo American axis and also historical span Additionally whilst the influential methodological formation of production text and audience is still visible here the new research in Television for Women frequently reconfigures that relationship The topics included here are far reaching from television as material culture at the British exhibition in the first half of the twentieth century women's roles in television production past and present to popular 1960s television such as The Liver Birds and in the twenty first century highly successful programmes including Orange Is the New Black Call the Midwife One Born Every Minute and Wanted Down Under This book presents ground breaking research on historical and contemporary relationships between women and television around the world and is an ideal resource for students of television media and gender studies From Happy Homemaker to Desperate Housewives Rebecca Feasey, 2012-11-01 From Happy Homemaker to Desperate Housewives Motherhood and Popular Television is a comprehensive and accessible introduction to key debates concerning the representations of motherhood motherwork and the maternal role in contemporary television programming The volume looks at the construction of motherhood in the ostensibly female genre of soap opera the mother as housewife in the domestic situation comedy deviant desiring and delinquent motherwork in the teen drama the single working mother in the contemporary dramedy the fragile and failing mother of reality parenting television the serene and selfless celebrity motherhood profile and the new mother in reality pregnancy and childbirth television Motherhood and Popular Television examines the depiction of motherhood in this wide range of popular television genres in order to illustrate how the maternal role is being constructed circulated and interrogated in contemporary factual and fictional programming paying particular attention to the ways in which such images can be seen to challenge or conform to the ideal image of the good mother that dominates the contemporary cultural landscape
