Making A Difference For Students At Risk:

Making a Difference for Students at Risk Margaret C. Wang, Maynard C. Reynolds, 1994-11-16 The contributors to this forward looking book examine the various programmes and approaches which have been implemented in inner city schools in the United States to address the special needs of disadvantaged non English speaking gifted and dropout students The book suggests that the primary reason such programmes have been largely unsuccessful is that they have not been properly coordinated Making a Difference for Students at Risk offers thoughtful practical suggestions for new approaches aimed at not only reforming but transforming urban schools in order to achieve the inclusion of all students into general school programmes Culturally and Linguistically Diverse Classrooms Jennifer Miller, Alexander Kostogriz, Margaret Gearon, 2009 The growing cultural racial and linguistic diversity in schools has changed the face of language teaching in many countries This book presents theory and research by a group of internationally recognised scholars who address the issues and challenges for teachers and their students in increasingly plurilingual and multicultural classrooms The Caring Teacher: How to make a positive difference in the classroom Rob Potts, 2021-12-01 Whether you re new to the profession or an experienced practitioner teaching can be the most rewarding career imaginable but it has never been more demanding This book is filled with practical advice relating to pastoral care and classroom management with a firm focus on building effective relationships If you re wondering how to get the most impact from school reports and parents evenings struggling with prickly home school relationships or simply want to bring the best out of those around you this book will guide you towards the most practical solutions It provides invaluable insights to guide you through your teaching journey and to help make your classroom a place where both you and your students enjoy being Teaching to Change the World Jeannie Oakes, Martin Lipton, Lauren Anderson, Jamy Stillman, 2015-11-17 This is an up to the moment engaging multicultural introduction to education and teaching and the challenges and opportunities they present Together the four authors bring a rich blend of theory and practical application to this groundbreaking text Jeannie Oakes is a leading education researcher and former director of the UCLA teacher education program Martin Lipton is an education writer and consultant and has taught in public schools for 31 years Lauren Anderson and Jamy Stillman are former public school teachers now working as teacher educators This unique comprehensive foundational text considers the values and politics that pervade the U S education system explains the roots of conventional thinking about schooling and teaching asks critical questions about how issues of power and privilege have shaped and continue to shape educational opportunity and presents powerful examples of real teachers working for equity and justice Taking the position that a hopeful democratic future depends on ensuring that all students learn the text pays particular attention to inequalities associated with race social class language gender and other social categories and explores teachers role in addressing them The text provides a research based and practical treatment of essential topics and it situates those topics in relation to democratic values issues of diversity and cognitive sociocultural and constructivist perspectives on learning The text shows how knowledge of education foundations and history can help teachers understand the organization of today's schools the content of contemporary curriculum and the methods of modern teaching It likewise shows how teachers can use such knowledge when thinking about and responding to headline issues like charter schools vouchers standards testing and bilingual education to name just a few Central to this text is a belief that schools can and must be places of extraordinary educational quality and institutions in the service of social justice Thus the authors address head on tensions between principles of democratic schooling and competition for always scarce high quality opportunities Woven through the text are the voices of a diverse group of teachers who share their analyses and personal anecdotes concerning what teaching to change the world means and involves Click Here for Book Website Pedagogical Features Digging Deeper sections referenced at the end of each chapter and featured online include supplementary readings and resources from scholars and practitioners who are addressing issues raised in the text Instructor's Manual offers insights about how to teach course content in ways that are consistent with cognitive and sociocultural learning theories culturally diverse pedagogy and authentic assessment New to this Edition International Journal on School Disaffection, 2006
