Poland Alone Jonathan Walker, 2011-08-26 Poland was the tripwire that brought Britain into the Second World War but it was largely the fear of the new Nazi Soviet Pact rather than the cementing of an old relationship that created the formal alliance. But neither Britain nor Poland's older ally France had the material means to prevent Poland being overrun in 1939. The broadcast Poland is no longer alone had a distinctly hollow ring. During the next four years the Polish Government in exile and armed forces made a significant contribution to the allied war effort in return the Polish Home Army received a paltry 600 tons of supplies. Poland Alone focuses on the bloody Warsaw Uprising of 1944 when the Polish Resistance attempted to gain control of their city from the German Army. They expected help from the Allies but received none and they were left helpless as the Russians moved in. The War ended with over five million Poles dead, three million of whom died in the concentration camps. Jonathan Walker examines whether Britain could have done more to save the Polish people in their crisis year of 1944, dealing with many different aspects such as the actions of the RAF and SOE, the role of Polish Couriers, the failure of British Intelligence and the culpability of the British Press. Aviation News, 2005. Nachtjäger David P. German Night Fighter Force 1917-1945 Gebhard Aders, 2016-05-19 The German Night Fighter force had its origins in the First World War to repel night raids and to fly long range intruder sorties They developed operational procedures which became largely forgotten a few years after the Armistice The Western Allies Britain and France maintained and improved night fighting tactics but the creators of the new Luftwaffe did not at first think about night fighting at all and during the building up of the service and it received only cursory attention in the first large scale war games held in November 1934 This changed in 1936 and the results of some exercises were set down in a secret study prepared for the Air District school in November of that year After the onset of War and the British and French night attacks on the western area of the Reich night fighting became more of a priority As a consequence of the urgent necessity the Luftwaffe developed sophisticated techniques including basic cooperation and coordination and the increased use of electronic systems Gebhard Aders study of the History of the German Night Fighter Force is a highly detailed analysis with numerous appendices which provides a comprehensive account of the Luftwaffe s thoroughness right up to the end when the hunters became the hunted History of the German Night Fighter Force, 1917-45 Gebhard Aders, 1992
