An End To Murder Colin Wilson, Damon Wilson, 2015-09-24 Creatively and intellectually there is no other species that has ever come close to equalling humanity s achievements but nor is any other species as suicidally prone to internecine conflict We are the only species on the planet whose ingrained habit of conflict constitutes the chief threat to our own survival Human history can be seen as a catalogue of cold hearted murders mindless blood feuds appalling massacres and devastating wars but with developments in forensic science and modern psychology and with raised education levels throughout the world might it soon be possible to reign in humanity s homicidal habits Falling violent crime statistics in every part of the world seem to indicate that something along those lines might indeed be happening Colin and Damon Wilson who between them have been covering the field of criminology for over fifty years offer an analysis of the overall spectrum of human violence They consider whether human beings are in reality as cruel and violent as is generally believed and they explore the possibility that humankind is on the verge of a fundamental change that we are about to become truly civilised As well as offering an overview of violence throughout our history from the first hominids to the twenty first century touching on key moments of change and also indicating where things have not changed since the Stone Age they explore the latest psychological forensic and social attempts to understand and curb modern human violence To begin with they examine questions such as Were the first humans cannibalistic Did the birth of civilisation also lead to the invention of war and slavery Priests and kings brought social stability but were they also the instigators of the first mass murders Is it in fact wealth that is the ultimate weapon They look at slavery and ancient Roman sadism but also the possibility that our own distaste for pain and cruelty is no more than a social construct They show how the humanitarian ideas of the great religious innovators all too quickly became distorted by organised religious structures The book ranges widely from fifteenth century Baron Gilles de Rais Bluebeard the first known and possibly most prolific serial killer in history to Victorian domestic murder and the invention of psychiatry and Sherlock Holmes and the invention of forensic science from the fifteenth century Taiping Rebellion in China in which up to 36 million died to the First and Second World Wars and more recent genocides and instances of ethnic cleansing and contemporary terrorism They conclude by assessing the very real possibility that the internet and the greater freedom of information it has brought is leading gradually to a profoundly more civilised world than at any time in the past

Cawthorne, 2011-09-01 Reason to be afraid over 50 unsolved cases of serial murder Fact murderers and serial killers do not always get caught Behind every headline of a newsworthy conviction lie other cases of vicious murderers who got away and who remain somewhere among us Here in one giant volume are more than 50 of the most serious serial killings and other murder cases that continue to remain unsolved The cases covered in this alarming book include Argentina's crazed highway killer responsible for mutilating and killing at least five people since 1997 and dumping their bodies along remote highways The Green River Killer believed to be a middle aged white man who has claimed at least 49 lives to date in the Seattle Tacoma area South Africa's Phoenix Strangler suspected of killing 20 women in the province of KwaZulu Natal The Twin Cities Killer either one or several people responsible for a series of over 30 murders on the streets of Minneapolis and St Paul where the victims were mostly prostitutes Costa Rica's elusive El Psicopata The Psychopath thought to have murdered at least 19 people in this small quiet Central American country The Monster of Florence responsible for a series of 15 sexual slayings just outside Florence In each case it is not just the crimes that are horrifying and fascinating but the response of local police and authorities to the lack of a conviction Local authorities may fear to admit the continued existence of a serial killer at large whilst police bodies face the temptation to tidy up loose unsolved murders under the aegis of other admitted crimes
