have encountered angels both seen and unseen Positivism and Christianity K.H. Klein, 2012-12-06 This essay is conceived as a critical exposition of the central issues that figure in the ongoing conversation between Logical Positivists and neo-Positivists on the one hand and Christian apologists on the other My expository aim is to isolate and to describe the main issues that have emerged in the extended discussion between men of Positivistic turn of mind and men sympathetic to the claims of Christianity My critical aim is to select typical influential stands that have been taken on each of these issues to assess their viability and to isolate certain dilemmas which discussion of these issues has generated I am convinced that the now commonly rejected verifiability theory of meaning is very commonly misunderstood and has been rejected by and large for the wrong reasons Before it is cast off if it is to be cast off what is needed is a reconsideration of that theory and of the objections that its several formulations have elicited Furthermore at least partially because of a misconstruing of the verifiability doctrine there have been some interesting though in my opinion unsuccessful claims advanced about the testability status of sentences expressive of Christian belief Moreover in their haste to vindicate Christianity some apologists have been fairly cavalier in my opinion about what Christianity involves This volume offers what I hope will be a clear statement and analysis of the principle points at issue between Positivism and Christianity together with my own assessment of where the argument stands now

American Christianities Catherine A. Brekus, W. Clark Gilpin, 2011-12-01 From the founding of the first colonies until the present the influence of Christianity as the dominant faith in American society has extended far beyond church pews into the wider culture Yet at the same time Christians in the United States have disagreed sharply about the meaning of their shared tradition and divided by denominational affiliation race and ethnicity they have taken stances on every side of contested public issues from slavery to women's rights This volume of twenty-two original essays contributed by a group of prominent thinkers in American religious studies provides a sophisticated understanding of both the diversity and the alliances among Christianities in the United States and the influences that have shaped churches and the nation in reciprocal ways American Christianities explores this paradoxical dynamic of dominance and diversity that are the true marks of a faith too often perceived as homogeneous and monolithic Contributors Catherine L Albanese University of California Santa Barbara James B Bennett Santa Clara University Edith Blumhofer Wheaton College Ann Braude Harvard Divinity School Catherine A Brekus University of Chicago Divinity School Kristina Bross Purdue University Rebecca L Davis University of Delaware Curtis J Evans University of Chicago Divinity School Tracy Fessenden Arizona State University Kathleen Flake Vanderbilt University Divinity School W Clark Gilpin University of Chicago Divinity School Stewart M Hoover University of Colorado at Boulder Jeanne Halgren Kilde University of Minnesota David W Kling University of Miami Timothy S Lee Brite Divinity School Texas Christian University Dan McKanan Harvard Divinity School Michael D McNally Carleton College Mark A Noll University of Notre Dame Jon Pahl The Lutheran Theological Seminary at Philadelphia Sally M Promey Yale University Jon H Roberts Boston University Jonathan D Sarna Brandeis University The Shift to Modernity

Robert J. Sherman, 2005-04-12 The general goal of this book is to add one more voice to the growing chorus of opinion that the theologies of Friedrich Schleiermacher and Karl Barth may have far more in common than the many insistent assertions of the latter or the partisans of either would lead one to believe. While there can be no easy reconciliation of the differences which do in fact exist between these two figures, the book will argue that these differences do not always stem from irreconcilable starting points. This book will investigate one aspect of their theologies: the doctrine of Creation. The thesis of the book asserts that both Barth and Schleiermacher take a Christological orientation to the doctrine of Creation. Approaching their theologies in this fashion allows them to solve the problem of maintaining dogmatic coherence and continuity with the Church's historic confessions while also meeting certain modern external intellectual demands confronting those systems. To put it more sharply, this study claims that each uses Christ as the hermeneutical key for interpreting Creation and that each does so in an effort to remain true to the faith handed down from the past while maintaining intellectual integrity in the present. This underlying connection, perceptible in both Barth's and Schleiermacher's work, forges one continuity between them and suggests that there may be certain fundamental similarities in their respective theologies in spite of other well-known differences. Cultural and Theological Reflections on the Japanese Quest for Divinity

John J. Keane, 2016-11-07 In Cultural and Theological Reflections on the Japanese Quest for Divinity, John J. Keane offers an explanation of Japanese divinity (kami) using sociology, anthropology, linguistics, literature, and history. He presents an overview of how the Japanese have sought to love and serve their kami, a quest that rivals the interest that the West gives to God. The principles of interreligious dialogue are applied to the meaning of kami, and a plea is made for a dialogue that respectfully accepts differences between the cultures and theologies of Eastern and Western thought. Important cultural themes are discussed as a part of this quest, such as the emperors of Japan and the Japanese Tea Ceremony. The work also challenges the understanding of kami as highlighted by Akutagawa Ryunosuke and Endo Shusaku. Fundamental Theology Matthew L. Becker, 2024-01-25 Encyclopedic in scope, this book offers wide-ranging coverage of the foundational teachings and practices within the mainstream of the classical Christian tradition. It begins with their roots in the Scriptures and also branches out into Eastern and Western Christianity, ancient, medieval, and modern, to the present day. Part I provides an overview of some of these routes, then presents an historical survey of Christianity's major traditions. Part II unpacks some of the character of that revelation, focusing particularly on epistemological and procedural questions. Finally, Part III looks at Christian theology in a university setting, the possibility and shape of theology as a university discipline, its major subfields, and its relations with humanities and the sciences, respectively. Fundamental Theology: A Protestant Perspective, 2nd edition, includes a wide range of pedagogical features: each chapter begins with an outline, thesis statement, highlighted in bold, charts, and graphs, relevant headings and subheadings employed throughout the book, keywords, provides a survey of pertinent reference literature, questions for review, and discussion, annotated suggestions for further reading. Reason & the

Contours of Faith Richard Rice, 2013-05-17 Can reason and religion get together Should believers think Can thinking people believe Does religion have to make sense Does careful thinking help or hinder religious experience People have wrestled with such questions for hundreds of years and they are just as perplexing today as ever Reason the Contours of Faith explores the wide ranging issues these questions raise from biblical interpretation and proofs for God's existence to the nature of religious conversion Its central purpose is to find an alternative to both fideism the idea that reason has nothing to do with faith and rationalism the conviction that reason has everything to do with it Part One Reason and the Contents of Faith argues that reason contributes in important but limited ways to our understanding of religion Part Two Reason and the Experience of Faith shows that reason can support religious commitment but never produces it No Other Gospel Carl E. Braaten, 2000-08-31 With increasing awareness of the permanence of religious pluralism and increasing acceptance of other religions as valid ways to God some theologians have argued that Christianity needs to abandon its traditional biblical claim that Jesus is the unique normative decisive and final self revelation of God and the salvation of the world Braaten's response is an unequivocal reassertion of the exclusive claim of the gospel To do so he surveys the range of current options and dives into questions of the uniqueness of Christ the absoluteness of Christianity and the universality of salvation Working with concepts of justification eschatology and Trinity Braaten affirms that the gospel relativizes other religions The gospel however also relativizes Christianity Thus Christianity's strong claims for Christ need to be tempered by acknowledging that Christians do not know beforehand the final outcome of God's unfolding plan for the world Although not all will agree this book is an important call to Christian conscience from a theologian who sees Christian theology teetering on the brink of confusion Created and Led by the Spirit Mary Sue Dehmlow Dreier, 2013-07-07 This fifth Missional Church Series volume seeks to bring historical clarity biblical and theological substance and practical guidance to church planting The nine contributors many of them experienced church planting pastors offer diverse yet cohesive perspectives on the Spirit's missional church planting in our time Section One presents three essays which address missional church planting as a theological practice with particular attention given to the activity of the Holy Spirit within the context of God's Trinitarian life Section Two grounds church planting initiatives in the generative soil of story The two essays in this section narrate how specific congregations provide glimpses of the Holy Spirit in action supplying the reader with hints for how history might lead to future expectations of the Holy Spirit's ongoing church planting activity Three essays in Section Three focus on new frontiers appearing on the church planting horizon and an epilogue provides a sermon which orients church planting efforts in witness that flows from the heart of God In this book readers will find fresh insights into an exciting new future created and led by the Spirit Contributors Daniel Anderson Leith Anderson Paul Chung Mary Sue Dehmlow Dreier Todd Hobart Harvey Kwiyani Lois Malcolm Susan Tjornehoj Miroslav Volf Evangelical Dictionary of Theology Walter A. James, 2011-04-01 This study of the work of noted liberal theologian Gordon Kaufman tracks his career from his first published book Relativism Knowledge and Faith 1960 through his 2006 book Jesus and Creativity in light of recent conversations about divine action and modern scientific knowledge James interprets Kaufman's mature position as a sophisticated reconstruction of divine activity that makes use of recent scientific theory and its naturalistic assumptions in order to revitalize a theocentric frame of reference rooted in classical theological tradition Though there are costs to be paid in the construction of a theology of radical naturalism particularly with respect to the relation between divine action and the human good Kaufman's program offers a distinctive way forward After developing a critical analysis of the limitations and possibilities of Kaufman's mature position James suggests that a christological reconsideration of the meaning of human flourishing offers the prospect of an even more radically naturalistic and theocentric theology Moral Creativity John Wall, 2005-08-11 In Moral Creativity John Wall argues that moral life and thought are inherently and radically creative Human beings are called by their own primordially created depths to exceed historical evil and tragedy through the ongoing creative transformation of their world This thesis challenges ancient Greek and biblical separations of ethics and poetic image making as well as contemporary conceptions of moral life as grounded in abstract principles or preconstituted traditions Taking as his point of departure the poetics of the will of Paul Ricoeur and ranging widely into critical conversations with Continental narrative feminist and liberationist ethics Wall uncovers the profound senses in which moral practice and thought involve tension catharsis excess and renewal In the process he draws new connections between sin and tragedy practice and poetics and morality and myth Rather than proposing a complete ethics Moral Creativity is a meta ethical work investigating the creative capability as part of what it means morally to be human This capability is explored around four dimensions of ontology teleology deontology and social practice In each case Wall examines a traditional perspective on the relation of ethics to poetics critiques it using resources from contemporary phenomenology and develops a conception of a more original poetics of moral life In the end moral creativity is a human capability for inhabiting tensions among others and in social systems and in the image of a Creator creating together an ever more radically inclusive moral world Theology from the Great Tradition Steven D. Cone, 2018-02-22 This textbook provides complete and comprehensive coverage of the theological tradition of Aquinas Maximus Luther Irenaeus Lonergan von Balthasar Schmemmann Meyendorff and Barth Each section of this textbook explores a wide variety of questions who are we Is there a God and if so what is his nature Who is Jesus What does it mean that we live both in sin and righteousness It consists of 15 modules that are comprised of 46 chapters Each module has two parts there are systematic chapters that discuss and explain

Suffering and Salvation Aloysius Rego, 2006

Suffering especially that of the innocent and those unjustly treated is a universal experience which has perplexed and agonised humanity. This reality is especially a challenge to believers in an all powerful good and loving God. Within the Christian tradition in particular because of the centrality of the cross and the crucified and risen One there has been a tradition which has hallowed suffering. In this perspective suffering per se whatever its origin is mystified as a necessary prelude to salvation. Is suffering salvific? Are all experiences of suffering saving? What is God's attitude and involvement with suffering? In this work these questions are explored through the lens of Edward Schillebeeckx's later theology which is primarily concerned with the development of a contemporary soteriology.
