Global Student Mobility in the Asia Pacific Peter Kell, Gillian Vogl, 2010-02-19 Over 2.7m students study in a country other than their own Most of those students come from the Asia Pacific region and undertake study in universities in the developed world This trend is predicted to grow exponentially but features many dilemmas In the post 9/11 global environment international students experience hostility and harassment as well as ambivalence about their value to the academy Some live an uncertain life of poverty and alienation Many also struggle to come to terms with living and studying in a foreign land where there are concerns about international students eroding academic standards having poor English language proficiency and being unable to integrate and contribute to their new communities But some also seek to make new homes in their host countries The contributions in this book explore the complex and diverse aspects of transnational education and propose some pragmatic approaches to these dilemmas These contributions explore new ways of looking at the phenomena of international students their social and cultural needs as well as the challenges for teaching and learning research supervision and English language in the academy The book presents case studies and documents initiatives that are positive responses to the dilemmas of global student mobility

A Narratology of Drama Christine Schwanecke, 2022-01-19 This volume argues against Gérard Genette's theory that there is an insurmountable opposition between drama and narrative and shows that the two forms of storytelling have been productively intertwined throughout literary history Building on the idea that plays often incorporate elements from other genres especially narrative ones the present study theorises drama as a fundamentally narrative genre Guided by the question of how drama tells stories the first part of the study delineates the general characteristics of dramatic narration and zooms in on the use of narrative forms in drama The second part proposes a history of dramatic storytelling from the Renaissance to the twenty first century that transcends conventional genre boundaries Close readings of exemplary British plays provide an overview of the dominant narrative modes in each period and point to their impact in the broader cultural and historical context of the plays Finally the volume argues that throughout history highly narrative plays have had a performative power that reached well beyond the stage dramatic storytelling not only reflects socio political realities but also largely shapes them

Narratives of Women and Murder in England, 1680-1760 Kirsten T. Saxton, 2009 Arguing for the centrality of the female criminal subject to the rise of the British novel Kirsten Saxton compares representations of homicidal women in legal documents with those in the early novels of Behn Manley Defoe and

Fielding She demonstrates that legal narratives informed the novel's evolution and fictional texts shaped the development of legal narratives and suggests that Augustan configurations of the murderess continue to influence our legal and social conceptions of femininity

Language Narratives and Shifting Multilingual Pedagogies Belinda Mendelowitz, Ana Ferreira, Kerry Dixon, 2022-12-15 Winner of the UKLA Academic Book Award 2024 This book challenges monoglossic ideologies traditional language pedagogies and dominant forms of knowledge construction by foregrounding multilingual and multicultural students language narratives repertoires and identities The research is based on a sixteen year longitudinal study of a sociolinguistics course at an English language university and the language narratives produced by the first year education students The study was borne out of a need to create a critically inclusive course that would engage a cohort of students from socially and linguistically diverse backgrounds in contemporary South Africa Drawing on data from over 5 000 students who have journeyed through this course this book shows how a narrative heteroglossic pedagogy harnesses students multilingual strengths A close analysis reveals complex identity work by students located in the Global South The authors argue that decolonising language education is about reconceptualising language reconfiguring what knowledges are valued in the classroom and reshaping pedagogy

Writing the Character-Centered Screenplay, Updated and Expanded edition Andrew Horton, 2000-02-23 We need good screenwriters who understand character Everywhere Andrew Horton traveled in researching this book from Hollywood to Hungary he heard the same refrain Yet most of the standard how to books on screenwriting follow the film industry's earlier lead in focusing almost exclusively on plot and formulaic structures With this book Horton a film scholar and successful screenwriter provides the definitive work on the character based screenplay Exceptionally wide ranging covering American international mainstream and off Hollywood films as well as television the book offers creative strategies and essential practical information Horton begins by placing screenwriting in the context of the storytelling tradition arguing through literary and cultural analysis that all great stories revolve around a strong central character He then suggests specific techniques and concepts to help any writer whether new or experienced build more vivid characters and screenplays Centering his discussion around four film examples including Thelma Louise and The Silence of the Lambs and the television series Northern Exposure he takes the reader step by step through the screenwriting process starting with the development of multi dimensional characters and continuing through to rewrite Finally he includes a wealth of information about contests fellowships and film festivals Espousing a new character based approach to screenwriting this engaging insightful work will prove an essential guide to all of those involved in the writing and development of film scripts

Dungeons, Dragons, and Digital Denizens Gerald A. Voorhees, Joshua Call, Katie Whitlock, 2012-02-16 Dungeons Dragons and Digital Denizens is a collection of scholarly essays that seeks to represent the far reaching scope and implications of digital role playing games as both cultural and academic artifacts As a genre digital role playing games have undergone constant and radical revision pushing not only multiple boundaries of game development but also the playing strategies and experiences of players Divided into three distinct sections this premiere volume captures the distinctiveness of different game types the forms of play they engender and their social and cultural implications Contributors examine a range of games from classics like Final Fantasy to blockbusters like World of Warcraft to obscure genre bending titles like Lux Pain Working from a broad range of disciplines such as ecocriticism rhetoric performance gender and communication these essays yield insights that enrich the field of game studies and further illuminate the cultural psychological and philosophical implications of a society that increasingly produces plays and discourses about role playing games Avatars of Story Marie-Laure Ryan,2006 Since its inception narratology has developed primarily as an investigation of literary narrative fiction By grappling with semiotic media other than language and technology other than print the text reveals how digital media convey meaning and create stories Materialisations of a Woman Writer Maria Wikse,2006 Janet Frame s literary career was inextricably woven into the fabric of the twentieth century New Zealand literary scene However she also became New Zealand s best known international writer and her great literary influence in both fields has not been charted before now This study also seeks to redress the excessive commitment in scholarship to maintaining even celebrating Frame s reputation as a psychologically disturbed writer This book surveys all aspects of Janet Frame s biographical legend by considering her later literary and autobiographical works Jane Campion s film adaptation of the autobiographies An Angel at my Table as well as biographies and literary histories that both rely on and contribute to her well known legend In doing so the author hopes to offer novel perspectives on Frame s literary production on Frame scholarship on auto biographical theories and on New Zealand literary history Narration and Hero Victor Millet,Heike Sahm,2014-07-28 By the early middle ages vernacular aristocratic traditions of heroic narration were firmly established in Western and Northern Europe Although there are regional linguistic and formal differences one can observe a number of similarities Oral literature disseminates a range of themes that are shared by narratives in most parts of the continent In all the European regions this tradition of heroic narration came into contact with Christianity which led to modifications Similar processes of adaptation and transformation can be traced everywhere in this field of early European vernacular narrative But with the increasing specialization of academic fields over the last half century inter disciplinary dialogue has become increasingly difficult The volume is a contribution to renew the inter disciplinary dialogue about common themes topics and motifs in Nordic Roman Anglo Saxon and Germanic literature and about the different methodologies to explore them A Study of Narrative Structures in southern Indian Stories Dr. Anjali Ramaria,2025-05-23 The research delves into the narrative styles of Mauni R K Narayan and D Jayakanthan examining common and divergent patterns in their short stories While Mauni and Narayan focus on Tamil culture simple domestic life and philosophical musings with minimal social or political agendas Jayakanthan adopts a critical approach addressing Brahmanical orthodoxy and the struggles of the downtrodden The study emphasizes how each writer's unique narrative techniques and cultural focus reflect their individual worldviews contributing to the richness of South Indian storytelling traditions The research also highlights how these writers despite differences in language and style share a deep sense of human values and cultural identity The Slave's Narrative Charles T. Davis, Henry Louis Gates Jr., 1991-02-21

These autobiographies of Afro American ex slaves comprise the largest body of literature produced by slaves in human history The book consists of three sections selected reviews of slave narratives dating from 1750 to 1861 essays examining how such narratives serve as historical material and essays exploring the narratives as literary artifacts

Narrative Thought and Narrative Language Bruce K. Britton, Anthony D. Pellegrini, 2014-02-25 Since before the dawn of history people have been telling stories to each other and to themselves Thus stories are at the root of human experience This volume describes empirical investigations by Jerome Bruner Wallace Chafe David Olson and others on the relationship between stories and cognition Using philosophical linguistic anthropological and psychological perspectives on narrative the contributors provide a definitive highly diversified portrait of human cognition Handbook of Research on Contemporary

Storytelling Methods Across New Media and Disciplines Mih?e?, Lorena Clara, Andreescu, Raluca, Dimitriu, Anda, 2021-01-15 Stories are everywhere around us from the ads on TV or music video clips to the more sophisticated stories told by books or movies Everything comes wrapped in a story and the means employed to weave the narrative thread are just as important as the story itself In this context there is a need to understand the role storytelling plays in contemporary society which has changed drastically in recent decades Modern global society is no longer exclusively dominated by the time tested narrative media such as literature or films because new media such as videogames or social platforms have changed the way we understand create and replicate stories The Handbook of Research on Contemporary Storytelling Methods Across New Media and Disciplines is a comprehensive reference book that provides the relevant theoretical framework that concerns storytelling in modern society as well as the newest and most varied analyses and case studies in the field The chapters of this extensive volume follow the construction and interpretation of stories across a plethora of contemporary media and disciplines By bringing together radical forms of storytelling in traditional disciplines and methods of telling stories across newer media this book intersects themes that include interactive storytelling and narrative theory across advertisements social media and knowledge sharing platforms among others It is targeted towards professionals researchers and students working or studying in the fields of narratology literature media studies marketing and communication anthropology religion or film studies Moreover for interested executives and entrepreneurs or prospective influencers the chapters dedicated to marketing and social media may also provide insights into both the theoretical and the practical aspects of harnessing the power of storytelling in order to create a cohesive and impactful online image A Narrative Compass Betsy Gould
