Dynamics of Molecular Collisions W. Miller, 2013-11-11 Activity in any theoretical area is usually stimulated by new experimental techniques and the resulting opportunity of measuring phenomena that were previously inaccessible. Such has been the case in the area under consideration here beginning about fifteen years ago when the possibility of studying chemical reactions in crossed molecular beams captured the imagination of physical chemists for one could imagine investigating chemical kinetics at the same level of molecular detail that had previously been possible only in spectroscopic investigations of molecular structure. This created an interest among chemists in scattering theory, the molecular level description of a bimolecular collision process. Many other new and also powerful experimental techniques have evolved to supplement the molecular beam method and the resulting wealth of new information about chemical dynamics has generated the present intense activity in molecular collision theory. During the early years when chemists were first becoming acquainted with scattering theory it was mainly a matter of reading the physics literature because scattering experiments have long been the staple of that field. It was natural to apply the approximations and models that had been developed for nuclear and elementary particle physics and although some of them were useful in describing molecular collision phenomena many were not.

God Bless America Kathleen E.R. Smith, 2021-10-21 After Pearl Harbor Tin Pan Alley songwriters rushed to write the Great American War Song and Over There for World War II. The most popular songs however continued to be romantic ballads, escapist tunes or novelty songs. To remedy the situation the federal government created the National Wartime Music Committee, an advisory group of the Office of War Information (OWI) which outlined proper war songs along with tips on how and what to write. The music business also formed its own Music War Committee to promote war songs. Neither group succeeded. The OWI hoped that Tin Pan Alley could be converted from manufacturing love songs to manufacturing war songs just as automobile plants had retooled to assemble planes and tanks. But the OWI failed to comprehend the large extent by which the war effort would be defined by advertisers and merchandisers. Selling merchandise was the first priority of Tin Pan Alley and the OWI never swayed them from this course. Kathleen E. R. Smith concludes the government's fears of faltering morale did not materialize. Americans did not need such war songs as Goodbye Mama, I'm Off To Yokohama, There Are No Wings On a Foxhole or even The Sun Will Soon Be Setting On The Land Of The Rising Sun to convince them to support the war. The crusade for a proper war song was misguided from the beginning and the music business then and now continues to make huge profits selling love not war songs.
