Takatoshi Ito,Andrew K. Rose,2007-11-01 The practice of trading across international borders has undergone a series of changes with great consequences for the world trading community the result of new trade agreements a number of financial crises the emergence of the World Trade Organization and countless other less obvious developments In International Trade in East Asia a group of esteemed contributors provides a summary of empirical factors of international trade specifically as they pertain to East Asian countries such as China Japan Korea and Taiwan Comprised of twelve fascinating studies International Trade in East Asia highlights many of the trading practices between countries within the region as well as outside of it The contributors bring into focus some of the region s endemic and external barriers to international trade and discuss strategies for improving productivity and fostering trade relationships Studies on some of the factors that drive exports the influence of research and development the effects of foreign investment and the ramifications of different types of protectionism will particularly resonate with the financial and economic communities who are trying to keep pace with this dramatically altered landscape China and the World Trading System Deborah Z. Cass,Brett G. Williams,George

Barker,2003-03-06 China the world s sixth largest economy has recently joined the rules based international trading system What are the implications of this accession Leading scholars and practitioners from the US Europe China Australia and Japan argue that China s membership will affect the WTO s decision making dispute resolution and rule based structures It will also spur legal and economic reform have far reaching social political and distributional consequences in China facilitate a new role for China in international geo political affairs and alter the shape structure and content of the international trading system as a whole Of interest to scholars of China as well as trade lawyers and economists Measurement of Nontariff Barriers Alan Verne Deardorff,Robert Mitchell Stern,2010-05-25 As tariffs on imports of manufactures have been reduced as a result of multi lateral trade negotiations interest in the extent to which existing nontariff barriers may distort and restrict international trade is growing Accurate and reliable measures are needed in order to address the issues involving the use and impacts of nontariff barriers This study assesses currently available methods for quantifying such barriers and makes recommendations as to those methods that can be most effectively employed The authors focus both on the conceptual issues arising in the measurement of the different types of nontariff barriers and on the applied research that has been carried out in studies prepared by country members of the OECD Pilot Group and others seeking to quantify the barriers Nontariff barriers include quotas variable levies voluntary export restraints government procurement regulations domestic subsidies and antidumping and countervailing duty measures The authors discuss the many different methods available for measuring the effects of these and other nontariff barriers Illustrative results are presented for industrial OECD countries including Australia Canada Germany Norway the European Union the United Kingdom and the United States Finally the authors offer guideline principles and recommend procedures for measuring different types of nontariff barriers Economists political scientists government officials and lawyers involved in international trade will find this an invaluable resource for understanding and measuring NTBs Alan V Deardorff and Robert M Stern are Professors of Economics and Public Policy University of Michigan

Export Success and Industrial Linkages S.
