

PHILOSOPHY WITH(IN) THEOLOGY: RAHNER'S PHILOSOPHY OF RELIGION

VINCENT HOLZER*

Institut Catholique de Paris

Rahner's work on the relation between philosophy and theology, in view of the subsequent unfolding of these disciplines, only gains in relevance. Often credited only to Kant, Rahner's transcendental theology is more complex, his sources more varied, as he appropriates a tradition that was in the process of bringing about a metamorphosis in the very notion of the transcendental.² In the following I argue that Rahner's conception of the 'transcendental' is closer to Fichte's life philosophy and its recent revival in Michel Henry's Phénoménologie de la Vie. Rahner's conception of the 'transcendental' is not therefore to be reduced to only the conditions for the possibility of knowledge, nor can it be taken as simply a heuristic notion; on the contrary, it surpasses altogether the abstract, formal framework of epistemology.

Rahner's theology of the reductio in Mystrium reveals an unsuspected harmony between philosophy and theology achieved by his re-conception of their relationship. Interpreting Rahner in this way does not distort his thought by inventing an unprecedented, contrived synthesis for this connection; it is rather a more nuanced view that differs significantly from dogmatic interpretations that misconstrue Rahner by wedding him to the Kantian system, when in actuality his thought evolved through unremitting questioning and culminated with the discovery of a need to elaborate both a philosophia negativa and theologia negativa. These last two indicate the direction of later developments in Rahner's thought. Largely congruent with his earlier writings on this relation, in 1972 Rahner coined the term 'philosophizing theology' (die philosophierende Theologie), that picks up a similar concept from 1967.³ Philosophizing theology, which is not the same as a philosophical theology, seeks the 'universality of theology' (Universalität der Theologie) not by extending its sphere of influence or its status as a legitimate science, but rather by pushing on through itself to reach finally an adequate grasp of the human. Seeing it as an originary science in this second sense secures its autonomy in a way other than understanding it as a secondary or derivative science that relies excessively on philosophy for its deepest principles. Rahner turns this problem over endlessly:

Another question at once involved is how philosophy and theology can co-exist since both claim to be basic sciences (Grundwissenschaften), that is, to throw light scientifically, methodically and consciously on existence as such (Dasein) and as a whole and hence to be universal.⁴

Paradoxically, this assertion presupposes the fragmentary and disperse nature of knowledge per se, which prompts one to explore the possibility of a more primal unity – a unity that comes from comprehension and not from a distant, if privileged, observation point [point de surplomb]. It is here that the Rahnerian 'transcendental' metaphorphoses and grows into a stronger ontological framework. It is at the furthest remove from simply a heuristic or auxiliary (Hilfsbegriff) concept. It must rather be specified as possible knowledge of that which is originary, and thus the need to 'return . . . to the original domain on which everything depends but which itself depends on nothing', to retrieve the elegant formula of Michel Henry.⁵
