Gallant, Jolanda van der Noll, 2024-02-27 This book uses a comparative research design to analyze the reporting on the Jewish minority and the Muslim minority in German newspapers from 2010-2019 asking whether minorities are truly treated as equals in the reporting of the mainstream German media After providing historical and socio political context for both groups as minority populations in Germany the authors make use of qualitative and quantitative methods to examine sentiment and determine whether the media demonstrates a unifying or a well differentiated portrayal of the two groups The findings show that reporting on these groups is not as unbiased as many in Germany believe Drawing on frameworks including the needs based model of reconciliation the revised integrated threat theory and the model of acculturation strategies the book then discusses the implications for both journalistic reporting and broader social policies in support of a constructive encounter of dominant and non dominant groups in a diverse society This book will be of interest to scholars and students in the field of migration integration and intergroup relations as well as those in communication media studies and discourse analysis Just the Facts David T.Z. Mindich, 1998-11 If American journalism were a religion then its supreme deity would be objectivity Although it has remained the orbital sun of all journalistic ethics objectivity until now has had no biographer David Mindich here journeys back to the nineteenth century to recover the lost history and meaning of this central tenet of American journalism His book draws on a number of high profile cases that show the degree to which journalism and the evolving journalistic commitment to objectivity altered and in some cases limited the public's understanding of events and issues Through this subtle combination of history and cultural criticism Mindich provides a profound meditation on the structure promise and limits of objectivity in the age of cybermedia Journalism in the Digital Age John Herbert, 1999-11-03 Provides the practical techniques and theoretical knowledge that underpin the fundamental skills of a journalist It also takes a highly modern approach as the convergence of broadcast print and online media require the learning of new skills and methods The book is written from an international perspective with examples from around the world in recognition of the global marketplace for today's media This is an essential text for students on journalism courses and professionals looking for a reference that covers the skill technology and knowledge required for a digital and converged media age The book's essence lies in the way essential theories such as ethics and law are woven into practical newsgathering and reporting techniques as well as advice on management skills for journalists providing the wide intellectual foundation which gives credibility to reporting International Sports Press Survey 2011 Thomas Horky, Jörg-Uwe Nieland, 2013-10-08 The International Sports Press Survey 2011 is a comparative study on the quality of sports reporting in print media The editors Thomas Horky and Jörg Uwe Nieland present an analysis of data from 22 countries and add more specific research in 14 selected country studies The world's largest study of its kind helps to identify similarities and differences in sports reporting The results are placed in the context of the print media crisis and conclusions are drawn to deal with the new challenges for sports journalism Sustainability Reporting in Central and Eastern European Companies Péter Horváth, Judith M.
