Representation Of Place:

Representing Place Edward S. Casey, 2002-01-01 You are here a map declares but of course you are not any more than you truly occupy the vantage point into which a landscape painting puts you How maps and paintings figure and reconfigure space as well as our place in it is the subject of Edward S Casey s study an exploration of how we portray the world and its many places Casey s discussion ranges widely from Northern Sung landscape painting to nineteenth century American and British landscape painting and photography from prehistoric petroglyphs and medieval portolan charts to seventeenth century Dutch cartography and land survey maps of the American frontier From these culturally and historically diverse forays a theory of representation emerges Casey proposes that the representation of place in visual works be judged in terms not of resemblance but of reconnecting with an earth and world that are not the mere content of mind or language a reconnection that calls for the embodiment and implacement of the human subject Book jacket

Place/Culture/Representation James S. Duncan, David Ley, 2013-04-15 Spatial and cultural analysis have recently found much common ground focusing in particular on the nature of the city Place Culture Representation brings together new and established voices involved in the reshaping of cultural geography The authors argue that as we write our geographies we are not just representing some reality we are creating meaning Writing becomes as much about the author as it is about purported geographical reality The issue becomes not scientific truth as the end but the interpretation of cultural constructions as the means Discussing authorial power discourses of the other texts and textuality landscape metaphor the sites of power knowledge relations and notions of community and the sense of place the authors explore the ways in which a more fluid and sensitive geographer s art can help us make sense of ourselves and the landscapes and places we inhabit and think about

Representation in Cognitive Science Nicholas Shea, 2018-10-04 Our thoughts are meaningful We think about things in the outside world how can that be so This is one of the deepest questions in contemporary philosophy Ever since the cognitive revolution states with meaning mental representations have been the key explanatory construct of the cognitive sciences But there is still no widely accepted theory of how mental representations get their meaning Powerful new methods in cognitive neuroscience can now reveal information processing in the brain in unprecedented detail They show how the brain performs complex calculations on neural representations Drawing on this cutting edge research Nicholas Shea uses a series of case studies from the cognitive sciences to develop a naturalistic account of the nature of mental representation His approach is distinctive in focusing firmly on the subpersonal representations that pervade so much of cognitive science The diversity and depth of the case studies illustrated by numerous figures make this book unlike any previous treatment It is important reading for philosophers of psychology and philosophers of mind and of considerable interest to researchers throughout the cognitive sciences

The Oxford Handbook of Numerical Cognition Roi Cohen Kadosh, Ann Dowker, 2015 Numbers are vital to so many areas of life in science economics sports education and many aspects of everyday life from infancy onwards This handbook brings together the different research areas that make up the vibrant field of numerical cognition in one comprehensive and authoritative volume

Visual and Linguistic Representations of Places of Origin Maria Pia Pozzato, 2017-12-05 This book is about the representations both visual and linguistic which people give of their own places of origin It examines the drawings of interviewees who were asked to draw their own place of origin on a white A3 sheet using pencil or colour according to their choice If they were born in a place they did not remember because they moved in when they were very small they could draw the place they did remember as the scenario of their early childhood The drawings are examined from three different perspectives semiotics cognitive psychology and geography The semiotic instruments are used to describe how each person reconstructs a complex image of his/her childhood place and how they translate their own memories from one language to another e.g. from drawing to verbal story trying to approach what they want to express in the best possible way The cognitive psychological point of view helps clarify the emotional world of the interviewees and their motivations during the process of reconstruction and expression of their childhood experiences The geographical conceptualizations concern a cultural level and provide insight into the cartographic models that inspire the maps people drew One of the main findings was the influence from cultural codes as demonstrated in the fact that most of the US students interviewed drew their maps showing considerable cartographic expertise in comparison to their European counterparts

Researching Human Geography Anna Davies, Keith Hoggart, Loretta Lees, 2014-04-04 Researching Human Geography is an essential new text for any geography student about to embark on a research project An understanding of how different theories of knowledge have influenced research methodologies is crucial in planning and designing effective research this book makes this link clear and explores how various philosophical positions from positivism to post structuralism have become associated with particular methodologies The book gives an overview of a wide range of methods and data collection both quantitative and qualitative and explores their strengths and weaknesses for different kinds of research Researching Human Geography also looks at the various techniques available for the analysis of data which is presented as an integral and ongoing part of the research process Clearly written with extensive use of examples from previous research to show methodology in action this new text is an invaluable addition to both the theory and method of research in human geography

Neural Dynamics of World-centered Spatial Representations Kechen Zhang,1996      Queer Temporalities in Gay Male Representation Dustin Bradley Goltz,2009-12-04 Through the analysis of over seventy films and thirty television series ranging from Shortbus Sweet Home Alabama and Poseidon to Noah s Arc Brothers Sisters and Dawson s Creek Goltz examines reoccurring narrative structures in popular media that perpetuate the extreme value placed upon young gay male bodies while devaluing health aging and longevity Alienated from the future outside of limited and exclusionary systems of marriage and procreation the gay male is narrated within a circular tragedy that draws upon cultural mythologies of older gay male predation the absence of gay intergenerational mentorship and the gay male as sacrificial victim Using a Burkean framework Goltz makes a theoretical rhetorical and cultural investigation of how the increased visibility of positive gay representation in dominant media shapes contemporary meanings of gay aging heteronormative future homonormative future and queer potential
