Reproductive Freedom, Torture and International Human Rights Ronli Sifris, 2013-12-13 This book contributes to a feminist understanding of international human rights by examining restrictions on reproductive freedom through the lens of the right to be free from torture and other cruel inhuman or degrading treatment Ronli Sifris challenges the view that torture only takes place within the traditional paradigm of interrogation punishment or intimidation of a detainee arguing that this traditional construction of the concept of torture prioritises the experiences of men over the experiences of women given that the pain and suffering from which women disproportionately suffer frequently occurs outside of this context She does this by conceptualising restrictions on women's reproductive freedom within the framework of the right to be free from torture The book considers the gendered nature of international law and the gender dimensions of the right to be free from torture It examines the extension of the prohibition of torture to encompass situations beyond the traditional detainee context in recent years to encompass situations such as rape and female genital mutilation It goes on to explore in detail whether denying access to abortion and involuntary sterilization constitutes torture or other cruel inhuman or degrading treatment under international law The book looks at whether limitations on reproductive freedom meet the determining criteria of torture which are severe pain or suffering being intentionally inflicted being based on discrimination linked in some way to a State official whether they constitute lawful sanctions and the importance of the concept of powerlessness In doing so the book also highlights how this right may be applicable to other gender based abuses including female genital mutilation and how this right may be universally applied to allow women worldwide the right to reproductive freedom

Reproductive Politics and the Making of Modern India Mytheli Sreenivas, 2021-06-04 Finalist for the inaugural ACLS Open Access Book Prize Calculating the cost of life in a transnational context Beginning in the late nineteenth century India played a pivotal role in global conversations about population and reproduction In Reproductive Politics and the Making of Modern India Mytheli Sreenivas demonstrates how colonial administrators postcolonial development experts nationalists eugenicists feminists and family planners all aimed to reform reproduction to transform both individual bodies and the body politic Across the political spectrum people insisted that regulating reproduction was necessary and that limiting the population was essential to economic development This book investigates the often devastating implications of this logic which demonized some women's reproduction as the cause of national and planetary catastrophe To tell this story Sreenivas explores debates about marriage family and contraception She also demonstrates how concerns about reproduction surfaced within a range of political questions about poverty and crises of subsistence migration and claims of national sovereignty normative heterosexuality and drives for economic development Locating India at the center of transnational historical change this book suggests that Indian developments produced the very grounds over which reproduction was called into question in the modern world The open access edition of Reproductive Politics and the Making of Modern India is freely available thanks to the TOME initiative and the generous support of The Ohio State University Libraries DOI 10.6069/9780295748856
