Veale, 2017-07-12 All the Brownies had promised to help and when a Brownie undertakes a thing he works as busily as a beaver until it is accomplished Now this is what they determined to do Brownies chopping wood The Fairy Queen's palace had been destroyed a wind that had swept through the forest carrying trees before it and spreading ruin as it traveled had lifted up the Fairy Queen's home and dashed it all to pieces Poor little Queen how sorrowful she felt to lose the pretty house where the royal family of Fairyland had so long lived Illustration of the paint incident described below But true to their nature the Brownies came to the rescue promising to build a palace far more beautiful than the one that was lost Such helpful little creatures as the Brownies never lived No chance of doing good to one in trouble ever escapes these generous little fellows and certainly this was a work to be hailed with much joy For a long while before they commenced you could see them gathered in groups discussing how and where they should begin and how they could make the palace more beautiful They were a funny looking set when they started out for the place where the house was to be built Each one carried something One little fellow had an axe another hammer and nails one the mortar hod and still another the plane while the master worker could be seen with the square in his hand giving directions to the whole crowd They commenced their work one beautiful moonlight night Brownies you know work when the darkness has put all the world to sleep What a time they had getting all the things together Arriving at the spot some fell to chopping wood while others mixed the mortar and rigged up the pulleys by which they were to raise the stuff to the roof How the hammers rang out as they struck the bright little nails

Fragments and Figments John Thomas Rickert, 2003-07-08 Alfred Lord Tennyson in his poem Ulysses has the aging hero say "I am a part of all that I have met." To this the poet might have added, and of all that I have thought. Storytellers find their stories among the broken fragments of their lives, things they have done, seen, or heard. They also find them among the scattered figments of their minds, things that they have deduced, dreamed, or imagined. Their tales are crafted of these fragments and figments, with the mix varying widely. In the following stories that mix fact over fancy, three of the stories are taken from my experiences during the Korean War, two are drawn from my childhood, and one from the courtship of my grandparents.
