Research On Children:

Research With Children Pia Christensen, Allison James, 2012-10-02 Research with Children is a unique resource book on the methodology of childhood research. Leading and new researchers within the social studies of childhood discuss central questions of epistemology and methodology, demonstrating the links between theory and practice. The theoretical and practical questions are set out in a clear and well argued fashion and will therefore appeal both to the newcomer to childhood studies and to experienced researchers in the field.

Understanding Research with Children and Young

People Alison Clark, Rosie Flewitt, Martyn Hammersley, Martin Robb, 2013-12-10 How do views about children shape research concerned with their lives? What different forms can research with children take? What ethical issues does it involve? How does it impact on policy and practice and on the lives of children themselves? This book helps you to understand how research is designed and carried out to explore questions about the lives of children and young people. It tackles the methodological, practical and ethical challenges involved and features examples of actual research that illustrate different strategies for carrying out research. Common challenges that arise in the research process. Varying modes of engagement that researchers can adopt with participants and audiences and The impact that research can have on future studies, policy and practice.

Practical Research with Children Jess Prior, Jo Van Herwegen, 2016-06-03 Practical Research with Children is designed to help the reader understand techniques for research with children based on real world experience. The book describes a wide range of research methods, focusing equally on quantitative and qualitative approaches and considers how different methods can be integrated. It highlights the benefits and challenges of each method and gives emphasis to best practice with expert guidance on how to avoid potential pitfalls in order to obtain valuable insights into how children develop. The volume includes fifteen chapters arranged over three sections. Each chapter explores a particular method or combination of methods and discusses both theoretical and practical issues using a diversity of domains including different ages, cultures, populations and settings. Uniquely, the book includes newer methods such as eye tracking and digital technologies alongside well established behavioural methods which are used for research with children. With contributions from internationally renowned researchers and practitioners from a range of disciplines, the book will be indispensable reading for a wide audience including for students in psychology, education and nursing undertaking research projects with children and also for anyone looking to understand the research behind current theories in child development.

The Reality of Research with Children and Young People

People Vicky Lewis, Mary Kellett, Chris Robinson, Sandy Fraser, Sharon Ding, 2012-06-21 The Reality of Research with Children and Young People illustrates the process of carrying out research through thirteen research stories. Each story includes a piece of published research accompanied by a commentary from the author of the research explaining the origins of the research, how research questions were formed, factors influencing the choice of methodology and data collection techniques, problems that arose and how these were dealt with, personal reflections on the project. The research
