1. Introduction

According to the National English Curriculum Standard for Senior High school(2017 edition, 2020 revised), the purpose of assessment is to improve English learning and teaching, complete course design and supervise the learning quality. The assessment need to be centered by the key competence of English learning, throughout the whole process of teaching. Different people give different definition of assessment. Rod Ellis define assessment as assessment is a feedback to the information conveyed by the learner. He hold the idea that assessment can give learners more information and plays an indispensable role in writing teaching. Weigle pointed out that the assessment of students' writing ability is an important task for teachers, and designing fair and effective methods to assess their students' progress and achievements is an essential skill. Many scholars have done researches about writing assessment. Zeng and Xu talk about the effective feedback in writing assessment. They point out that teachers need to use various ways to give feedback to students' writing, so that to improve students' writing ability[1]. Su talks about junior high school English writing assessment based on the integration of teaching, learning and assessing. She analyzed the problems which exist in writing assessment during junior high school and gave some advice on how to assess writing[2]. Zhang and Yang made a case study on exploring the status quo of high school English teachers' writing assessment literacy. The research found the complexity and contextualization of teacher's writing assessment[3]. Shao and Lin made a study on the construction of a learning-oriented college English writing assessment system. This study constructs a learning-oriented college English writing assessment system, which aims to promote writing learning as its primary goal by incorporating multiple assessment methods and providing diverse feedback[4]. Yao made a research about the backwash effect and its application in evaluation of secondary school English writing. She put forward the specific measures of the backwash effect[5]. Xu analyzed the problems and solutions in the evaluation of middle-school English writing. Based on the analysis, she gave some suggestions to the process of writing assessment[6].

Exploring Composition Studies Kelly Ritter, Paul Kei Matsuda, 2010-05-20 Kelly Ritter and Paul Kei Matsuda have created an essential introduction to the field of composition studies for graduate students and instructors new to the study of writing. The book offers a careful exploration of this diverse field focusing specifically on scholarship of writing and composing. Within this territory the authors draw the boundaries broadly to include allied sites of research such as professional and technical writing, writing across the curriculum programs, writing centers, and writing program administration. Importantly, they represent composition as a dynamic, eclectic field influenced by factors both within the academy and without. The editors and their sixteen seasoned contributors have created a comprehensive and thoughtful exploration of composition studies as it stands in the early twenty-first century. Given the rapid growth of this field and the evolution of its research and pedagogical agendas over even the last ten years, this multi-vocal introduction is long overdue.

First Year Composition: From Theory to Practice is a combination of theory and practice that provides readers an opportunity to hear twelve of the leading theorists in composition studies answer in their own voices the key question of what it is they hope to accomplish in a first-year composition course. The fundamental contributions of Professor Maz'ya to the theory of function spaces and especially Sobolev spaces are well known and often play a key role in the study of different aspects of the theory, which is demonstrated in particular by the presented new results and reviews from world-recognized specialists. Sobolev-type spaces, extensions, capacities, Sobolev inequalities, pseudo-Poincaré inequalities, optimal Hardy-Sobolev-Maz'ya inequalities, Maz'ya's isocapacity inequalities in a measure-metric space setting, and many other actual topics are discussed.

Research on Written Composition George Hillocks (Jr.), 1986. Handbook of Research on Contemporary Storytelling Methods Across New Media and Disciplines Mihăe?, Lorena Clara, Andreescu, Raluca, Dimitriu, Anda, 2021-01-15. Stories are everywhere around us, from the ads on TV or music video clips to the more sophisticated stories told by books or movies. Everything comes wrapped in a story, and the means employed to weave the narrative thread are just as important as the story itself. In this context, there is a need to understand the role storytelling plays in contemporary society, which has changed drastically in recent decades. Modern global society is no longer exclusively dominated by the time-tested narrative media such as literature or films, because new media such as videogames or social platforms have changed the way we understand, create, and replicate stories. The Handbook of Research on Contemporary Storytelling Methods Across

New Media and Disciplines is a comprehensive reference book that provides the relevant theoretical framework that concerns storytelling in modern society as well as the newest and most varied analyses and case studies in the field. The chapters of this extensive volume follow the construction and interpretation of stories across a plethora of contemporary media and disciplines. By bringing together radical forms of storytelling in traditional disciplines and methods of telling stories across newer media, this book intersects themes that include interactive storytelling and narrative theory across advertisements, social media, and knowledge sharing platforms among others. It is targeted towards professionals, researchers, and students working or studying in the fields of narratology, literature, media studies, marketing, and communication, anthropology, religion, or film studies. Moreover, for interested executives and entrepreneurs or prospective influencers, the chapters dedicated to marketing and social media may also provide insights into both the theoretical and the practical aspects of harnessing the power of storytelling in order to create a cohesive and impactful online image.

Under Construction Christine Farris, Chris M. Anson, 1998. Few composition scholars two decades ago would have imagined the rate at which their field is now developing, expanding beyond its boundaries, creating new alliances, and locating new sites for research and generation of knowledge. In their introduction to this volume, Farris and Anson argue that faced with a welter of competing models, compositionists too quickly dichotomize and dismiss. The contributors to Under Construction therefore address themselves to the need for commerce among competing visions of the field. They represent diverse settings and distinct points.

Women and Health Research Institute of Medicine, Committee on Ethical and Legal Issues Relating to the Inclusion of Women in Clinical Studies, 1994-02-01. In the nineteenth century, some scientists argued that women should not be educated because thinking would use energy needed by the uterus for reproduction. The proof? Educated women had a lower birth rate. Today's researchers can only shake their heads at such reasoning. Yet professional journals and the popular press are increasingly criticizing medical research for ignoring women's health issues. Women and Health Research examines the facts behind the public's perceptions about women participating as subjects in medical research. With the goal of increasing researchers' awareness of this important topic, the book explores issues related to maintaining justice in its ethical sense in clinical studies. Leading experts present general principles for the ethical conduct of research on women, principles that are especially important in the light of recent changes in federal policy on the inclusion of women in clinical research. Women and Health Research documents the historical shift from a paternalistic approach by researchers toward women and a disproportionate reliance on certain groups for research to one that emphasizes proper access for women as subjects in clinical studies in order to ensure that women receive the benefits of research. The book addresses present day challenges to equity in four areas Scientific Do practical aspects of scientific research work at cross purposes to gender equity Focusing on drug trials the authors identify rationales for excluding people from research based on demographics Social and Ethical The authors offer compelling discussions on subjectivity in science the evidence for male bias and issues related to race and ethnicity as well as the recruitment retention and protection of research participants Legal Women and Health Research reviews federal research policies that affect the inclusion of women and evaluates the basis for researchers fears about liability citing court cases Risk The authors focus on risks to reproduction and offspring in clinical drug trials exploring how risks can be identified for study participants who should make the assessment of risk and benefit for participation in a clinical study and how legal implications could be addressed This landmark study will be of immediate use to the research community policymakers women s health advocates attorneys and individuals The
