Self And Sensibility In Contemporary American Poetry:

Self and sensibility in contemporary American poetry Charles Altieri, 1984 The Utopian Moment in Contemporary American Poetry Norman Finkelstein, 1993 This second edition includes all of the material from the first in depth analyses of the work of such poets as George Oppen John Ashbery Robert Duncan and William Bronk as well as a new Preface and a lengthy chapter on the younger language poets William Carlos Williams and Alterity Barry Ahearn, 1994-02-25 Many critics have noticed the paradoxes and contradictions in the work of William Carlos Williams but few have analyzed them in detail Professor Ahearn argues that Williams criticism has not gone far enough in recognizing the uses Williams saw for contradiction He contends that Williams began to acquire his own voice as a poet when he recognized that he could be a vehicle for contending voices His reading departs from previous examinations of the early poetry in the emphasis it places on the poems as expressions of Williams social position We find a Williams whose contribution to modernism came not through a radical break with tradition or a rejection of inherited poetic norms alone but rather in a cultivation of tension conflict and a kind of poetic crisis that could be held forth as the metier of the modernist writer

What Is A Poet? Hank Lazer, 2009-10-25 This book discusses the extent of distrust and the extent of the misunderstandings that exist in the poetry world Salem Story Bernard Rosenthal, 1993 Salem Story engages the story of the Salem witch trials by contrasting an analysis of the surviving primary documentation with the way events of 1692 have been mythologised by our culture Resisting the temptation to explain the Salem witch trials in the context of an inclusive theoretical framework the book examines a variety of individual motives that converged to precipitate the witch hunt Of the many assumptions about the Salem witch trials the most persistent is that they were instigated by a circle of hysterical girls Through an analysis of what actually happened by perusal of the primary materials with the close reading approach of a literary critic a different picture emerges one where hysteria inappropriately describes the logical rational strategies of accusation and confession followed by the accusers males and females alike Frank O'Hara and the Poetics of Saying 'I' Micah Mattix, 2011-03-03 While recent works of criticism on Frank O Hara have focused on the technical similarities between his poetry and painting or between his use of language and poststructuralism Frank O Hara and the Poetics of Saying I argues that what is most significant in O Hara s work is not such much his borrowing from painters or his proto Derridean use of language but his preoccupation with self exploration and the temporal effects of his work as artifacts Following Pasternak s understanding of artistic inspiration as an act of love for the material world O Hara explores moments of experience in an effort to both complicate and enrich our experience of the material world On the one hand in poems such as Second Avenue for example O Hara works to muddy language through which experience is in part mediated with the use of parataxis allusions and absurd metaphors and similes On the other in his I do this I do that poems he names the events of his lunch hour in an effort among other things to experience time as a moment of fullness rather than as a moment of loss

The book argues furthermore that O Hara's view of the self as both an expression of the creative force at work in the world and as the temporal aggregate of finite experiences places him between so called Romantic and postmodern theories of the lyric. While it is often argued that O Hara is a forerunner of a new critically informed materialist poetics this study concludes that O Hara's work is somewhat less radical in its understanding of poetic meaning than is often claimed. Moreover while O Hara is preoccupied with his experience in his poems the book argues that he espouses in some respects a rather traditional view of love. In addition to being a metaphor for the creative act love for O Hara is the chance coming together of two entities. Yet one of the ironies of this is that while love is for O Hara a feeling that is the result of movement or the unexpected coming together of two otherwise separ

Opposing Poetries Hank Lazer, 1996-08-12 Begins a series presenting collections of survey articles pivoting around the notion of computation. The inaugural topics include generalized rational approximation subject to linear constraints matrix exponential approximations in the numerical solution of differential equations unbounded fan in circuits and fixpoint semantics for a Petri net model of definite clause logic programs. Each article is self contained and all assume a high sophistication in mathematics. Future volumes may focus on a special subfield such as computational graph theory approximation or computability. Intimate Conflict Brian G. Caraher, 1992-08-17 In a comprehensive introduction and six tightly argued essays the authors demonstrate how rich and suggestive the notion of contradiction in discourse can be. Henry Johnstone on Hesiod Charles Altieri on Plato and Socrates Mili Clark on Milton and his God Marc Shell on Kant and Hegel Brian Caraher on Wordsworth and I A Richards and Richard Kuhns on Melville Freud and Bertrand Russell contribute provocative analyses of how rhetorical and conceptual contradictions produce rather than disable constructive discourse. Along the way strife among competing truth claims the ethos of self evasive irony the generative nature of paradox the dialectical sublation of opposites the experiential structure of poetic metaphor and the fictional implications of the liar's paradox are engaged.
