Ernest Rutherford: a Short Biography Doug West, 2018-12-16 In the movies we often see a scientist portrayed as a quiet and pious man or woman dressed in a white lab coat engrossed in deep thought This image surely fits some however not the twentieth century New Zealander Ernest Rutherford or Lord Rutherford as he would be known later in life He was born into a large family living in the frontier country of New Zealand with the nearest town thirteen miles away by horseback This young man would earn a scholarship and travel to Great Britain to study at the world famous Cambridge University There this boisterous country boy would come into his own in the hallowed halls of Cambridge and study under one of Europe's most prominent scientists J J Thomson Over his long and fruitful career as a physicist he would create the science we call today nuclear physics thus shattering the concept of the atom that had held sway since the time of the ancient Greek philosophers In his time Rutherford was considered the greatest experimental physicist in the British Empire No other experimentalist had been such a pivotal figure in science since Michael Faraday the discoverer of electromagnetic induction Ernest Rutherford A Short Biography reveals the life and times of one of the greatest scientific minds of the twentieth century 30 Minute Book Series This is the 34th book in the 30 Minute Book Series Books in this series are fast paced accurate and cover the story in as much detail as a short book possibly can Most people complete each book in less than an hour which makes the books in the series a perfect companion for your lunch hour or a little down time About the Author Doug West is a retired engineer and an experienced non fiction writer with several books to his credit His writing interests are general with special expertise in history science

Royal Commission on Historical Manuscripts, 1938 The Harvest of a Century Siegmund Brandt, 2009 Physics was the leading science of the twentieth century and the book retraces important discoveries made between 1895 and 2001 in 100 self-contained Episodes Each is a short story of the scientists involved their time and their work The book is richly illustrated by about 600 portraits photographs and figures The Scottish Nation; or the Surnames, Families, Literature, Honours, and Biographical History of the People of Scotland William Anderson, 2021-10-29 Reprint of the original first published in 1867 Otto Hahn and the Rise of Nuclear Physics W.R. Shea, 2012-12-06 and less as the emanation underwent radioactive decay and it became motionless after about 30 seconds Since this process was occurring very rapidly Hahn and Sackur marked the position of the pointer on a scale with pencil marks As a timing device they used a metronome that beat out intervals of approximately 1.3 seconds This simple method enabled them to determine that the half-life of the emanations of actinium and emanium were the same Although Giesel's measurements had been more precise than Debierne's the name of actinium was retained since Debierne had made the discovery first Hahn now returned to his sample of barium chloride He soon conjectured that the radium-enriched preparations must harbor another radioactive substance The liquids resulting from fractional crystallization which were supposed to contain radium only produced two kinds of emanation One was the long-lived emanation of radium the other had a short life similar to the emanation produced by thorium Hahn tried to separate this substance by adding some iron to the solutions that should have been free of radium but to no avail Later the reason for his failure became apparent The element that emitted the thorium emanation was constantly replenished by the element believed to be radium Hahn succeeded in enriching a preparation until it was more than 100 000 times as intensive in its radiation as the same quantity of thorium
