Alternative Learning Environments Gary J. Coates, 2023-09-22 Originally published in 1974 this volume presents viable alternatives to traditional attitudes and practices in environmental design and education It contains 29 selections that reflect the thought and actions of leaders from many diverse disciplines and professions Architects landscape architects urban planners teachers and administrators psychologists and social theorists address themselves to controversial and important issues facing our post industrial society The range of subjects explored in the volume is far reaching Environmental education in which the art of planning and designing itself becomes the curriculum Advocacy planning and community participation in both educational and design decision making Alternative educational institutions ranging from community centered schools and mobile schools to non school learning networks that distribute the learning activity throughout the fabric of the city and the lifetime of the learner New developments in systematic design methods and evaluation research that promise to make the design process more public and responsive to the user client Negotiating Latinidades, Understanding Identities within Space Kathryn Quinn-Sánchez, 2015-02-05 Preconceived ideas attached to space limit the ways in which the concept can be envisioned This edited collection explores many different types of space including exile which prohibits one's ability to return home transnationalism which encourages movement between national borders typically due to dual citizenship the borderlands which implies legal and illegal crossings and finally the open road as metaphor for normative heterosexual masculinity At issue in all of these representations is the role of freedom to self define and travel freely across barriers that exist to deter entry The World Is Always Coming to an End Carlo Rotella, 2019-04-26 An urban neighborhood remakes itself every day and unmakes itself too Houses and stores and streets define it in one way But it's also people the people who make it their home some eagerly others grudgingly A neighborhood can thrive or it can decline and neighbors move in and move out Sometimes they stay but withdraw behind fences and burglar alarms If a neighborhood becomes no longer a place of sociability and street life but of privacy indoors and fearful distrust outdoors is it still a neighborhood In the late 1960s and 1970s Carlo Rotella grew up in Chicago's South Shore neighborhood a place of neat bungalow blocks and desolate commercial strips and sharp sometimes painful social contrasts In the decades since the hollowing out of the middle class has left residents confronting or avoiding each other across an expanding gap that makes it ever harder for them to recognize each other as neighbors Rotella tells the stories that reveal how that happened stories of deindustrialization and street life stories of gorgeous apartments with vistas onto Lake Michigan and of Section 8 housing vouchers held by the poor At every turn South Shore is a study in contrasts shaped and reshaped over the past half century by individual stories and larger waves of change that make it an exemplar of many American urban neighborhoods Talking with current and former residents and looking carefully at the interactions of race and class persistence and change Rotella explores the tension between residents' deep investment of feeling and resources in the physical landscape of South Shore and their hesitation to make a similar commitment to the community of neighbors living there Blending journalism memoir and archival research The World Is Always Coming to an End uses the story of one American neighborhood to challenge our assumptions about what neighborhoods are and to think anew about what they might be if we can bridge gaps and commit anew to the people who share them with us Tomorrow is another ending NEMO X, 2018-05-18 Over a thousand ditties of love and despair Tragic Pleasures Elizabeth S. Belfiore, 2014-07-14 Elizabeth Belfiore offers a striking new interpretation of Aristotle's Poetics by situating the work within the Aristotelian corpus and in the context of Greek culture in general In Aristotle's Rhetoric the Politics and the ethical psychological logical physical and biological works Belfiore finds extremely important but largely neglected sources for understanding the elliptical statements in the Poetics The author argues that these Aristotelian texts and those of other ancient writers call into question the traditional view that katharsis in the Poetics is a homeopathic process one in which pity and fear affect emotions like themselves She maintains instead that

Aristotle considered katharsis to be an allopathic process in which pity and fear purge the soul of shameless antisocial and aggressive emotions While exploring katharsis Tragic Pleasures analyzes the closely related question of how the Poetics treats the issue of plot structure In fact Belfiore s wide ranging work eventually discusses every central concept in the Poetics including imitation pity and fear necessity and probability character and kinship relations Originally published in 1992 The Princeton Legacy Library uses the latest print on demand technology to again make available previously out of print books from the distinguished backlist of Princeton University Press These editions preserve the original texts of these important books while presenting them in durable paperback and hardcover editions The goal of the Princeton Legacy Library is to vastly increase access to the rich scholarly heritage found in the thousands of books published by Princeton University Press since its founding in 1905

The Natural Environment of the Mid-Atlantic Ridge Teresa

Radziejewska, Jan Marcin Węśławski, Michał Tomczak, 2024-06-10 The book presents the first comprehensive description of parts of the Mid Atlantic ridge subject to a contract for polymetallic sulphide exploration between the International Seabed Authority and the Ministry of Environment of the Republic of Poland The state of the art of the study area presented here takes into account a variety of aspects including hydrological and meteorological conditions hydrography optical properties of water seafloor morphology geology sediments and sedimentation processes pelagic environment and its biocoenosis benthic organisms seabed communities deep sea environmental protection as well as many other Also the research methods and tools are enumerated and the studies advised for the future are outlined The Atlantic seabed area described in this monograph is situated near the central part of the Mid Atlantic Ridge MAR one of the major geological formations on Earth featuring like other mid oceanic ridges active and inactive hydrothermal vent fields with their unusual and unique ecosystems The commercial interest in MAR exploration is due to the deposits of massive polymetallic sulphides formed as a result of hydrothermal fluid precipitation

Cinematic Journeys in Latin America Richard Francaviglia, 2023-09-05

This book critically examines how movies that feature real or imagined explorers and expeditions creatively feature the geography of Latin America It focuses on how locales are scripted into film plots and artistically depicted and demonstrates that place is as important as any character in a film especially in this genre Nineteen key films are analyzed Some like Aguirre the Wrath of God Fitzcarraldo The Other Conquest Embrace of the Serpent and The Lost City of Z are based on the exploits of real explorers Others are fictional including Apocalypto Indiana Jones and the Kingdom of the Crystal Skull and Dora and the Lost City of Gold The author also discusses the evolution of exploration discovery films including trends that will likely be found in forthcoming movies
