The Formation of Nabataean Art Joseph Patrich,1990-01-01 Unlike the common practice both in the Greco Roman West and in the Parthian East to accord the gods a human form the Nabateans represented their gods in the form of stelae A systematic survey of Nabatean art indicates that the negation of figurative representation is also evident in all other domains of their creativity such as rock carved facades of tombs painted pottery oil lamps coins and jewellery The archaeological artefacts inscriptions and literary sources described and discussed in this book reveal a fascinating cultural and religious phenomenon unique within the surrounding milieu and surprisingly in its persistence and durability This phenomenon should interest not only the student of Nabatean culture as its implications transcends the boundaries of the time and space in which it appeared and are valid for the study of both ancient religions and history of art

Cotton,2022-03-07 Hannah M Cotton s collected papers focus on questions which have fascinated her for over four decades the concrete relationships between law language administration and everyday life in Judaea and Nabataea in particular and in the Roman world as a whole Many of the papers especially those devoted to the Judean Desert documents of the 2nd century CE have been widely cited Others having appeared in less accessible publications may not have received the attention they deserve On the whole rather than addressing the grand narratives of world or national history they look at the texture of life seeking to provide tentative answers to historical questions and interpretations by paying fine attention to the details of literary and especially documentary evidence Taken together they illuminate fundamental often legal questions concerning daily life and the exercise of Roman rule and administration in the early imperial period and especially their impact on life as it was lived in the province and the period where Roman and Jewish history fatefully intersected The volume includes a complete bibliography of her publications

The Oxford Handbook of Arabic Linguistics Jonathan Owens, 2013-10-03 Until about 60 years ago linguistic research on the Arabic language in the West was restricted to inquiries on Classical Arabic and the Classical tradition and spoken Arabic dialects with historical studies embedded within the broader field of Semitic languages This situation is changing quickly not only through the continuation of older research traditions but also with the integration of new research fields and perspectives With this expansion comes the danger of specialists in Arabic losing an overview of the field and of leaving non specialists without basic resources for evaluating domains of research which they may be interested in for comparative purposes The Oxford Handbook of Arabic Linguistics will confront this problem by combining state of the art overviews with essays on issues of perspective controversy and point of view In twenty four chapters leading experts from around the world will lay out their own stances on controversial issues The book not only evaluates ways in which questions and theories established in general linguistics and its sub fields elucidate Arabic but also challenges approaches which might result in accommodating Arabic to non Arabic interpretations and brings out the Arabic specificity of individual problems The Handbook in one compact volume gives critical expression to a language which covers large populations and geographical areas has a long written tradition and has been the locus of major intellectual fervor and debate

Life in a Cave in Petra with the Bdoul

Judith McKenzie, 2022-09-15 From 1981 until 1986 the archaeologist Judith McKenzie then a graduate student at the University of Sydney traveled to the ancient site of Petra in Jordan living in a cave there for extended periods in order to survey and measure architectural moldings on the rock cut monuments It was a critical time in the history of Petra where for centuries its local inhabitants known as the Bdoul had lived and worked But that tradition was coming to a close In 1985 the Bdoul began a move to the nearby village of Umm Sayhoun as directed by the Jordanian government This first hand account of life in a cave at Petra based on diaries Judith kept at the time she lived among the Bdoul is therefore important as a record of a lifestyle now largely vanished As she writes in her introduction I spent so much time socializing with the Bdoul I came to observe many aspects of Bdoul life in a series of visits over three main field seasons As women we had access to the world of young girls and women which men from outside did not while we were also sometimes treated as honorary men This memoir thus stands as a reminder of life at Petra before the arrival of modern day tourism at the site But this book is not only a memoir Observations are made on the ways in which the Bdoul have adapted to their new environment Changes at the site that have taken place since 1981 because of weathering and erosion are recorded through comparisons between photographs taken forty years ago and more recent images Ramifications of the expansion of the tourist industry at Petra in the 21st century are also considered Life in a Cave in Petra with the Bdoul 1981 1986 is therefore an important and essential volume on the archaeology and history of one of the best known ancient sites in the world Literacy and Identity in Pre-Islamic Arabia M.C.A. Macdonald, 2022-02-23 In these studies Michael Macdonald examines the extraordinary flowering of literacy in both the settled and nomadic populations of western Arabia in the 1500 years before the birth of Islam when a larger proportion of the population could read and write than in any other part of the ancient Near East and possibly any other part of the ancient world Even among the nomads there seems to have been almost universal literacy in some regions The scores of thousands of inscriptions and graffiti they left paint a vivid picture of the way of life social systems and personal emotions of their authors information which is not available for any other non literate population in the ancient Near East outside Egypt This abundance of inscriptions has enabled Michael Macdonald to explore in detail some of the often surprising ways in which reading and writing were used in the literate and non literate communities of ancient Arabia He describes the many different languages and the distinct family of alphabets used in ancient Arabia and discusses the connections between the use of particular languages or scripts and expressions of personal and communal identity The problem of how ancient perceptions of ethnicity in this region can be identified in the sources is another theme of these papers more specifically they deal from several different perspectives with the question of what ancient writers meant when they applied the term Arab to a wide variety of peoples throughout the ancient Near East The Tacitus Encyclopedia Victoria Emma Pagán, 2023-05-24 The Tacitus Encyclopedia ist das einzige vollst ndige Referenzwerk seiner Art im Bereich der Tacitus Studien Das zweib ndige Werk enth lt mehr als 1 000 Eintr ge zu jeder Person und jedem Ort die in den erhaltenen Werken des r mischen Historikers und Politikers Tacitus ca 56 120 n Chr Erw hnung finden In den von einem internationalen Autorenteam verfassten Beitr gen werden die bei Tacitus genannten Personen und Orte in den Kontext
