Narratives of Nostalgia, Gender, and Nationalism Jean Pickering, Suzanne Kehde, 1996 Most Americans think of Betsy Ross as she was depicted in Charles Weisberger's popular painting The Birth of Our Nation's Flag a motherly figure sewing at the hearth In fact as Jo Ann Menezes's analysis in Nostalgia Gender and Nationalism points out Ross was a widowed businesswoman who ran an upholstery shop out of her house In Weisberger's painting all signs of economic industry are erased and Ross's house is transformed into a home rather than the site of cottage industry Ross is constructed as the perfect heroic mother worthy of sacred creation thus our flag was born Ross's transformation into an icon neatly illustrates the conjunction of soaring nationalism and the establishment of woman as a fixed domestic presence and serves as an excellent example of the master narratives revealed in Nostalgia Gender and Nationalism The essays in this provocative anthology explore the connections between nation and gender and the ways in which nostalgia functions to bind these two presumably unrelated constructions together Collectively they suggest that women pay a special fee on behalf of the nation even though it is traditionally represented as an honorarium given to them and that in fact the nation state takes as a foundational principle the subordination of women outside observers tension is relatively absent or invisible Watson also reveals how the boundaries between the public and private are being negotiated and redrawn and how public and private spaces are mutually constitutive Through her investigation of the more ordinary and less dramatic forms of encounter and contestation in the city Watson is able to conceive an urban public realm and urban public space that is heterogeneous and potentially progressive With numerous photographs and drawings City Publics not only throws new light on encounters with others in public space but also destabilizes dominant sometimes simplistic universalized accounts and helps us re imagine urban public space as a site of potentiality difference and enchanted encounters

Radicals on the Road Bernard Schweizer, 2001 Schweizer an independent scholar explores the travel writing of George Orwell Evelyn Waugh Graham Greene and Rebecca West The observations made by these westerners of the lands they visited Catalonia Africa Mexico and Yugoslavia provide a range of views perhaps typical for the period Schweizer s reading concentrates on each authors politics and their psychological apprehension of the world around them The psychological theme is explored in the book s second half where Schweizer notes the inherently dualistic construction of national and international politics to be found in the writings as well as the authors anxiety of foreign places and their sense of the uncanny c Book News Inc

Gendering Walter Scott C.M. Jackson-Houlston, 2017-04-21 Employing gender as a unifying critical focus Caroline Jackson Houlston draws on the full range of Walter Scott s novels to propose new links between Scott and Romantic era authors such as Sophia Lee Jane Porter Jane Austen Sydney Owenson Elizabeth Hands Thomas Love Peacock and Robert Bage In Scott Jackson Houlston suggests sex and violence are united in a central feature of the genre of romance the trope of raptus the actual or threatened kidnapping of a woman and her subjection to physical or psychic violence Though largely favouring the Romantic period drive towards delicacy of subject matter and expression Scott also exhibited a residual sympathy for frankness and openness resisted by his publishers especially towards the end of his career when he increasingly used the freedoms inherent in romance as a mode of narrative to explore and critique gender assumptions. Thus while Scott's novels inherit a tradition of chivalric protectiveness towards women they both exploit and challenge the assumption that a woman is always essentially definable as a potential sexual victim. Moreover he consistently condemns the aggressive male violence characteristic of older models of the hero in favour of restraint and domesticity that are not exclusively feminine but compatible with the Scottish Enlightenment assumptions of his upbringing. A high proportion of Scott's female characters are consistently more rational than their male counterparts illustrating how he plays conflicting concepts of sexual difference off against one another. Jackson Houlston illuminates Scott's ambivalent reliance on the attractions of sex and violence demonstrating how they enable the interrogation of gender convention throughout his fiction.

A Curious Peril Lara Vetter, 2019-09-09 Choice Outstanding Academic Title A Curious Peril examines the prose penned by modernist writer H. D. in the aftermath of World War II, a little known body of work that has been neglected by scholars and argues that the trauma H. D. experienced in London during the war profoundly changed her writing. Lara Vetter reveals a shift in these writings from classical escapist settings to politically aware explorations of gender, spirituality, nation and imperialism. Impelled by the shocking political crises of the early 1940s and increasingly sensitive to imperialist logics, H. D. began to write about the history of modern Europe using innovative forms and genres. She directed her well known interest in mysticism and otherworldly themes toward the material world of empire building and perpetual war. Vetter contends that H. D.'s postwar work is essential to understanding the writer's entire career, marking her entrance into late modernism and even foretelling crucial aspects of postmodernism.

Dwelling in the Archive Antoinette Burton, 2003-01-30 Dwelling in the Archives uses the writing of three 20th century Indian women to interrogate the status of the traditional archive, reading their memoirs, fictions and histories as counter narratives of colonial modernity. Janaki Majumdar was the daughter of the first president of the Indian National Congress. Her unpublished Family History (1935) stages the story of her parents' transnational marriage as a series of homes the family inhabited in Britain and India, thereby providing a heretofore unavailable narrative of the domestic face of 19th century Indian nationalism. Cornelia Sorabji was one of the first Indian women to qualify for the bar. Her memoirs (1934 and 1936) demonstrate her determination to rescue the zenana women's quarters and purdahashin secluded women from the recesses of the orthodox home in order to counter the emancipationist claims of Gandhian nationalism. Last but not least, Attia Hosain's 1961 novel Sunlight on Broken Column represents the violence and trauma of partition through the biography of a young heroine called Laila and her family home. Taken together, their writings raise questions about what counts as an archive, offering us new insights into the relationship of women to memory and history, gender to fact and fiction, and feminism to nationalism and postcolonialism.

Urban Enlightenment and the Eighteenth-Century Periodical Essay R. Squibbs, 2014-01-20 Urban Enlightenment offers the first literary history of the British periodical essay, spanning the entire eighteenth century and the first to study the genre's development and cultural impact in a transatlantic context      Transnational Narration John Dolis, 2015-05-12 This book examines American literary texts whose portrayal of American identity involves the incorporation of a foreign body as the precondition for a comprehensive understanding of itself This nexus of disconcerting textual dynamics arises precisely insofar as both citizen subject and national identity depend upon a certain alterity an other which constitutes the secondary term of a binary structure American identity thus finds itself ironically confused and interwoven with another culture or another nation double crossed in the enactment of itself Individual chapters are devoted to Benjamin Franklin Washington Irving Frederick Douglass Louisa May Alcott Nathaniel Hawthorne and Mark Twain
