

lini disappear, it was predicted, their doctrines would soon follow. After all, it was added, Fascism is only nationalism in a new guise.

The spirit of nationalism is one of the results of democracy itself, said Mr. Slocumbe. Nationalism was unknown before the American and French revolutions. America produced the first national army. Hitler's nationalism was held to be the menace of Europe today, the greatest threat to peace, bringing, as he has, under one flag, a great national army. His phobia against Russia was said to have a historic precedent in the blind hatred of William II against that country.

Newspapers And Nationalism:

Newspapers and Nationalism Marie-Louise Legg,1999 This book places the provincial press in context and provides information about the newspapers themselves the people who ran them and the people who read them Newspapers and Nationalism Marie-Louise Legg,1992 Newspapers and Newsmakers Ann Andrews,2014 In an era of mass mobilisation the Great Famine and rebellion this book shows how the writers of the mid 19th century Dublin nationalist press were at the heart of Irish nationalist activities and evaluates the consequences for the development of Irish nationalism

Twentieth-Century China Jeffrey N. Wasserstrom,2013-10-14 Twentieth Century China New Approaches is an important revisionist study of China s recent past The chapters throw light on a variety of subjects within the field which has recently undergone considerable change The three major parts of this reader take into account the historical shape of the century local perspectives on national history and reflections on cultural history The chapters in this volume reflect a move away from a Western centred analysis of Chinese history as well as the new wealth of archival material made accessible over the last decade They highlight in challenging ways important topics that have generated considerable excitement among historians Subjects discussed include the watershed date of 1949 feminism the revolutions the discourse of the communist party and political theatre in modern China A Newspaper for China? Barbara Mittler,2020-03-23 In 1872 in the treaty port of Shanghai British merchant Ernest Major founded one of the longest lived and most successful of modern Chinese language newspapers the Shenbao His publication quickly became a leading newspaper in China and won praise as a department store of news a forum for intellectual discussion and moral challenge and an independent mouthpiece of the public voice Located in the International Settlement of Shanghai it was free of government regulation Paradoxically in a country where the government monopolized the public sphere it became one of the world s most independent newspapers As a private venture the Shenbao was free of the ideologies that constrained missionary papers published in China during the nineteenth century But it also lacked the subsidies that allowed these papers to survive without a large readership As a purely commercial venture the foreign managed Shenbao depended on the acceptance of educated Chinese who would write for it read it and buy it This book sets out to analyze how the managers of the Shenbao made their alien product acceptable to Chinese readers and how foreign style newspapers became alternative modes of communication acknowledged as a powerful part of the Chinese public sphere within a few years In short it describes how the foreign Shenbao became a newspaper for China Global Media, Culture, and Identity Rohit Chopra,Radhika Gajjala,2012-10-02 This edited volume examines the ways that global media shapes relations between place culture and identity Through the included essays Chopra and Gajjala offer a mix of theoretical reflections and empirical case studies that will help readers understand how the media can shape cultural identities and conversely how cultural formations can influence the political economy of global media The interdisciplinary international scholars gathered here push the discussion of what it means to do global media studies beyond uncritical celebrations of the global media technologies or globalization as well as beyond perspectives that are a priori dismissive of the possibilities of global media. Some of the key questions and themes that the international contributors explore within the text include: Is the global audience of global television the same as the global audience of the internet? Can we conceptualize the global culture media identity dynamic beyond the discourse of postcolonialism? How does the globalization of media affect feelings of nationalism? How is the growth of a consumer global middle class spread and resisted through media? Global Media Identity and Culture takes a comparative media approach to addressing these and other issues across media forms including print, television, film, and new media.

Nationalism and Internationalism

Intertwined Pasi Ihalainen, Antero Holmila, 2022-03-11 It is commonplace that the modern world is more international than at any point in human history. Yet the sheer profusion of terms for describing politics beyond the nation state including international, European, global, transnational, and cosmopolitan among others is but one indication of how conceptually complex this field actually is. Taking a wide view of internationalism in Europe since the eighteenth century, Nationalism and Internationalism: Intertwined explores discourses and practices to challenge nation-centered histories and trace the entanglements that arise from international cooperation. A multidisciplinary group of scholars in history, discourse studies, and digital humanities asks how internationalism has been experienced, understood, constructed, debated, and redefined across different European political cultures as well as related to the wider world.

Popular Magazines and Fiction in Shanghai, 1914-1925 Peijie Mao, 2021-12-02 This book explores the rise of Shanghai-based popular magazines produced by the Mandarin Ducks and Butterflies School in early twentieth-century China. It examines the national, gender, family, and social imaginaries constructed and negotiated through a complex network of relationships between popular writers, magazine editors, and their intended readers, which were represented in various forms of popular narratives including patriotic stories, war, military stories, family narratives, domestic fiction, utopian writings, and industrial business stories. The author argues that the national imagination, social ideals, and the notions of ideal womanhood and the new family were intrinsically linked and integral to the search for cultural identity of the emerging Chinese middle society and an expression of their collective sensibilities, experiences, and aspirations. This book suggests that the cultural imaginaries configured in these magazine stories articulated a shared quest for modernity, one that emphasized sentiment, quotidian experience, the pursuit of the modern family, and individual success, strengthening of the nation, and the reinvention of cultural tradition. Popular magazines and fiction therefore became uniquely instrumental in catalyzing the process of Chinese modernity, which emerged and developed along the symbiotic interrelations between the private and the public, the traditional and the modern, and the real and the imaginary.

Digitised Newspapers - A New Eldorado for

Historians? Estelle Bunout, Maud Ehrmann, Frédéric Clavert, 2022-12-31 The application of digital technologies to historical newspapers has changed the research landscape. Historians were used to an Eldorado. Despite undeniable advantages, the new digital affordance of historical newspapers also transforms research practices and confronts historians with new challenges Drawing on a growing community of practices the impresso project invited scholars experienced with digitised newspaper collections with the aim of encouraging a discussion on heuristics source criticism and interpretation of digitized newspapers This volume provides a snapshot of current research on the subject and offers three perspectives how digitisation is transforming access to and exploration of historical newspaper collections how automatic content processing allows for the creation of new layers of information and finally what analyses this enhanced material opens up impresso Media Monitoring of the Past is an interdisciplinary research project that applies text mining tools to digitised historical newspapers and integrates the resulting data into historical research workflows by means of a newly developed user interface The question of how best to adapt text mining tools and their use by humanities researchers is at the heart of the impresso enterprise

The Long Nineteenth Century, 1750-1914 Trevor R. Getz, 2018-10-04 The Long Nineteenth Century 1750 1914 is a global history textbook with a difference It is a guide for students to the actions and experiences by which communities and individuals in different parts of the world constructed contested and were affected by major trends and events in the global past The book explores the global history of the 19th century holistically Its content is framed in chapters that tackle themes rather than geographic regions or chronological sub divisions Moreover in order to connect human experiences and perspectives with global trends and events each chapter whether it focuses on politics or religion economics or environment is underpinned by an approach emphasizes social and cultural history Through its pages students critically encounter important global trends and key events from the Industrial Revolution to the Taiping Heavenly Kingdom The book ends with an epilogue on the First World War that brings all of the themes of the volume together in one place and also provides a segue into the mid 20th century

The Black Newspaper and the Chosen Nation Benjamin Fagan, 2016-06-15 The Black Newspaper and the Chosen Nation shows how antebellum African Americans used the newspaper as a means for translating their belief in black chosenness into plans and programs for black liberation During the decades leading up the Civil War the idea that God had marked black Americans as his chosen people on earth became a central article of faith in northern black communities with black newspaper editors articulating it in their journals Benjamin Fagan shows how the early black press helped shape the relationship between black chosenness and the struggles for black freedom and equality in America in the process transforming the very notion of a chosen American nation Exploring how cultures of print helped antebellum black Americans apply their faith to struggles grand and small The Black Newspaper and the Chosen Nation uses the vast and neglected archive of the early black press to shed new light on many of the central figures and questions of African American studies
