

● The first Australian girl chosen to sing at the Christmas Show in Vietnam, pretty teenage singing star Lynne Fletcher, will be billed as "the Sweetheart of the Australian troops."

FOR, with her typical girl-next-door looks and a sweet personality to match, Lynne was chosen because the organisers consider she typifies the young Australian soldier's "girl back home."

"I was very honored when they told me that," said Lynne. "I don't know if it's true, but I'll do my best to make the soldiers a little less homesick."

Lynne, 18, of Brisbane, has appeared on most television variety shows including "Bandstand," "Sing, Sing, Sing," and "The Don Lane Show," and she has made many interstate television, dance and club appearances and recently cut her first record.

Lynne's singing career began about two years ago when she decided she was tired of working at a receptionist.

Audition

"I'd always liked singing and would sing at home, just as other teenagers might read a book," she said. "I was sure she had decided to moved to Sydney to join the "Bandstand" family and has made many appearances on the show, as well as doing quite a lot of club and dance work and recently recording "You Say Pretty Words."

Lynne goes home to Brisbane to visit her parents about six times a year.

"We're a very close family and that's why my parents were so worried about my trip to Vietnam," said Lynne.

In fact, when Lynne was first chosen to appear in the Christmas Show her parents didn't want her to go.

"When I rang to ask permission they said no," said Lynne. "They thought it would be far too dangerous."

But when Lynne got off that she'd be worried about her mother being worried!

"I rang Dad back again, but he still said no," said Lynne. "Then after I'd shown "That did it. I got out a pile of pictures and gave them each one with a special message. You never know, perhaps I'll meet them again when I'm up there."

One condition her parents made was that Lynne spend a week at home before she leaves Sydney.
