The Road from Eden John Barber,2008 Wreck Tom de Freston,2022-03-03 Artist Tom de Freston has long had an obsession with Gricault s painting The Raft of the Medusa and the troubling story behind its creation The monumental canvas which hangs in the Louvre depicts a 19th century tragedy in which 150 people were drowned at sea on a raft lost in a stormy sea when the ship Medusa was wrecked on shallow ground When de Freston began making an artwork with Ali a Syrian writer blinded by a bombing The Raft s depiction of pain and suffering resonated powerfully with him as did Gricault s awful life story It spoke not only to Ali s story but to Tom s family history of trauma and anguish offering him a passage out of the dark waters in which he found himself In spellbinding visceral prose de Freston opens a window onto the magnetic frisson that runs between a past masterpiece and contemporary artistic endeavours He asks powerful questions about how we might translate violence fear and trauma into art how we try to make sense of seemingly unthinkable acts and the value in facing and depicting the darkest horrors Encyclopedia of the Romantic Era, 1760-1850 Christopher John Murray,2004 Review Written to stress the crosscurrent of ideas this cultural encyclopedia provides clearly written and authoritative articles Thoughts themes people and nations that define the Romantic Era as well as some frequently overlooked topics receive their first encyclopedic treatments in 850 signed articles with bibliographies and coverage of historical antecedents and lingering influences of romanticism Even casual browsers will discover much to enjoy here The Top 20 Reference Titles of the Year American Libraries May 2004 Art in an Age of Counterrevolution, 1815-1848 Albert Boime,2004-08-18 Publisher Description The Raft of the Medusa Robert M. Hertzberg,2003 The Raft of the Medusa is a novel based on the life of Th odore G ricault the great 19th Century French Romantic painter and on the historical events surrounding one of the most scandalous disasters in French naval history In particular the book focuses on G ricault s creation of his celebrated masterpiece The Raft of the Medusa and on his passionate and tragic love affair with his aunt As author Robert M Hertzberg states in a note that precedes the main text his book is a novel not history or biography

but he has made extensive use of historical and biographical sources He has remained faithful to the facts so far as they are known but has taken the novelist's liberty to interpret those facts to provide motives and to imagine states of mind but never in matters of substance has he strayed from the realm of possibility nor to his knowledge invented anything that might not plausibly have been the case After a Prologue that sets the scene of Géricault's Paris studio where The Raft of the Medusa is being painted the reader is transported to the present day Louvre gallery where the picture is seen today The painting is described its place in the course of France's art is defined and its changing impact on critics and the public is noted The reader is introduced to the sculptor who created Géricault's tomb in Père Lachaise cemetery in Paris he has received an unexpected bequest from one Georges Hippolyte whom he recalls meeting years before and who is revealed as the son born in virtual secrecy to Géricault and the wife of his brother Thus we learn of the central and bitter secret of a turbulent life lived in a turbulent time Born in Rouen in 1791 to a wealthy couple young Théodore grows up as a sensitive introspective and restless country loving boy most at home on the peaceful family estate carefully shielded from the rigors and violence of life in France that have accompanied the replacement of the royal House of Bourbon by Revolution and creation of the First Republic Moving to Paris at the age of five Géricault is now introduced to more formal education as well as to the joys of horseback riding which will play a vital part in his life and work His teenage years are filled with more than school and riding he discovers a talent for drawing leading to painting which becomes a dedication Admitted to the studios of conservative Classical painters he revels in the company of fellow students and exploits his rebellious tendencies to push himself beyond the practices of traditional academic expression He advances beyond his teachers the painters Carle Vernet and Pierre Guérin and studies on his own in the Musée Napoléon By 1812 when Napoleon's disastrous invasion of Russia precipitates the invasion of France by British and Prussian allies Géricault enlists in the Gray Musketeers in a futile gesture of loyalty to Napoleon's ill-fated Bourbon successor Louis XVIII However Napoleon's final defeat at Waterloo in 1815 leaves Géricault with little to occupy him except his increasing concentration on his painting His style is moving ever faster away from the Classical mode still favored by most of his contemporaries Dramatic paintings military and equine portraits battle scenes somber landscapes notebook after notebook of vivid often roughly sketched drawings all flow from his ever more Romantic hand He is becoming noticed with both esteem and alarm Meanwhile he has fallen deeply in love with his aunt the young wife of his aging uncle The situation is agonizing he is torn apart Travel to Italy becomes a way of avoiding the passion and frustration within him About this time in July 1816 a shipwreck has occurred for awhile little noted a French frigate the Medusa sailing from Southern France to Senegal in West Africa has run aground just off the coast of Africa and has been a Master Drawings from the Yale University Art Gallery Yale University (New Haven, Conn.). Art Gallery, Suzanne Boorsch, John Marciari, Nicole Bensoussan, Yale University. Art Gallery, Margaret E. Hadley, Elisabeth Hodermarsky, Rena Hoisington, Jan Leja, Edgar Munhall, 2006-01-01 This beautiful and important book highlights the collection of European drawings at the Yale University Art Gallery, one of America's premier university museums. From intimate studies to exquisite finished compositions, this selection of works documents the history of European drawing practices beginning with late medieval model books and progressing to the verge of the modern period. The accompanying text, written by a team of scholars, offers a unique introduction to various critical and technical aspects of the study of master drawings brought to life through drawings from a range of national schools and in a variety of media. Among the drawings examined in this handsomely produced volume are an animated pen and ink sketch by Giulio Romano, a pastoral landscape by Claude Lorrain, a forceful and humorous caricature by Guercino, a scene from the epic poem Orlando Furioso by Jean Honor Fragonard, and a delicate portrait by Edgar Degas.

An Economy of Colour Geoff Quilley, Kay Dian Kriz, 2003-08-16 Now available as an eBook for the first time, this 1998 book from the Melland Schill series looks at The World Trade Organization, which was set up at the conclusion of the Uruguay Round of Trade Negotiations and came into force on 1 January 1995, forming a pillar of the international trading system. This book explains the legal framework established by the WTO and explores how it can be made to work in practice. Asif H. Qureshi provides a basic guide to the new WTO code of conduct and then focuses on implementation. First, he explains the institutional provisions of the WTO through an examination of GATT 1994 and the results of the Uruguay Round. Part Two covers techniques of implementation, and the third section covers the issues and problems of implementation relating to both developing countries and trade blocs.
