Communicating Politics Mitchell S. McKinney, 2005 Half of our eligible citizens fail to cast a presidential ballot and many more than half routinely ignore state and local elections Does this phenomenon point to a crisis of democracy or does such behavior simply reflect indifference or even contentment among the public Should we be alarmed that so many of our citizens seem disinterested and unwilling to participate in the various activities and forms of association that constitute civic life If we are concerned by such matters what might be done to reengage those who are seemingly disengaged This book explores these questions and examines the well being of our civic condition at the beginning of the twenty first century Grounded in a communication perspective we view the fundamental nature of a democracy as that of a civic dialogue an ongoing conversation between our elected leaders or political candidates and the citizens they lead or wish to lead Accordingly the studies presented in this volume examine our civic sphere and the electoral process as a communicative interaction between elected officials political candidates the media and citizens

Congress Senate,1953 Media and Politics in South Korea,

1960-2022 Ki-Sung Kwak,2024-04-16 This book examines the constantly changing nature of the relationship between the state and the media within South Korea's political landscape It traces developments as South Korea became gradually more democratic in the decades after 1960 and goes on to consider more recent developments which include democratic erosion and the deepening political division and their effects on the media including the paralleling of this deepening political division within the media itself It explores the issues that have affected the relationship between the media and the political power assesses the impact of new developments in media and communication technologies and concludes by discussing how the legacy of authoritarianism has affected political reporting and the press party relationship New Journalism Ecologies in East and Southern Africa Trust Matsilele,Shepherd Mpofu,Dumisani Moyo,2023-03-24 This volume presents case studies of news media employing and integrating social media into their news production practices It links social media use to journalistic practices and news production processes in the digital age of the Global South Critically the chapters look at seminal cases of start up news media whose content is informed by trends in social media ethical considerations and participatory cultures spurred by the wide use of social media There has been considerable research looking at the potential of new media technologies traditional journalism and citizen reporting The extent to which these new media technologies and citizen journalism have morphed or reconfigured traditional journalism practice remains debatable Currently there are questions around the limits of social media in journalism practice as the ethical lines continue to become blurred It is this conundrum of the role of social media in the reconfiguration of the media news making production and participatory cultures that requires more investigation Social media has also turned the logic of the political economy of media production on its head as citizens can now produce package and distribute news and information with shoestring budgets and in authoritarian regimes with no license of practice This new political economy means the power that special interest groups used to enjoy is increasingly slipping from their hands as citizens take back the power to appropriate social media journalism to counter hegemonic narratives Citizens can also perform journalistic roles of investigating and whistleblowing but with a lack off or limited regulation This volume seeks to explore and untangle these issues and provides an invaluable resource for researchers across the field of journalism mass media and communication studies Citizens Or Consumers: What The Media Tell Us About Political Participation Lewis, Justin,Inthorn, Sanna,Wahl-Jorgensen, Karin,2005-09-01 Based on the largest study of the media coverage of public opinion and citizenship in Britain and the United States this book argues that while most of us learn about politics and public affairs from the news media we rarely see or read about examples of an active engaged citizenry Citizen Journalism Stuart Allan,Einar Thorsen,2009 Citizen Journalism Global Perspectives examines the spontaneous actions of ordinary people caught up in extraordinary events and compelled to adopt the role of a news reporter This collection of twenty one chapters investigates citizen journalism in the West including the United States United Kingdom Europe and Australia as well as its development in other national contexts around the globe including Brazil China India Iran Iraq Kenya Palestine South Korea Vietnam and even Antarctica Its aim is to assess the contribution of citizen journalism to crisis reporting and to encourage new forms of dialogue and debate about how it may be improved in the future The book contains contributions by Mark Deuze about The Future of Citizen Journalism and Paul Bradshaw about Wiki Journalism
