Representations In Archaeology:

Representations in Archaeology Jean-Claude Gardin, 1992-01-01 Representations in Archaeology Jean-Claude Gardin, Images, Representations and Heritage Ian Russell, 2006-11-24 Recent archaeological theory has shown that images of the past have carried a particularly strong resonance within modern social groups. This volume explores the immeasurable impact that the phenomenon of archaeology has had on the representation of the past in the modern world. Modern society's archaeological imagination conceives of archaeology as a producer of images of the past which become representations of modern group identities. If archaeology is utilized by public groups to construct and represent identities, then what are archaeologists to do with that public? The very fact that the public is interested in the past and in archaeological research is an opportunity for archaeology to engage that public. Participation in the public's modern interest in archaeology, however, puts archaeology at risk. The growing role of archaeology and heritage within the economics of tourism has led to a commodification of archaeological knowledge and experience for consumption. This volume begins a discourse on the implications of performing archaeology in a world dominated by modern trends of mass production, mass replication and representation of cultural forms and mass consumption of images of the past. The contributors explore to what extent we are experiencing a crisis of representation of the past due to contemporary consumption of mass-produced replicas, simulations, images and experiences of the past. To work through this crisis, the contributors in this volume are exploring opportunities for development within archaeological thought and practice. Their arguments illustrate a move towards active participatory and poetic archaeological thought and practice. Rather than focusing on what is produced through process, artifacts, monuments, interpretive centers, etc., they are concerned with what they are doing about taking part about participating reflexively in the tradition of understanding and expressing understanding of the past. This volume does not conjure up romantic beliefs about the project of archaeology, but rather it signals a fundamental revision of archaeology, not what it is, but what it can do. Archaeology Bjørnar Olsen, 2012-11-19 This book exhorts the reader to embrace the materiality of archaeology by recognizing how every step in the discipline's scientific processes involves interaction with myriad physical artifacts ranging from the camel hair brush to profile drawings to virtual reality imaging. At the same time, the reader is taken on a phenomenological journey into various pasts, immersed in the lives of peoples from other times, compelled to engage their senses with the sights, smells and noises of the public and places whose remains they study. This is a refreshingly original and provocative look at the meaning of the material culture that lies at the foundation of the archaeological discipline. Michael Brian Schiffer, author of The Material Life of Human Beings. This volume is a radical call to fundamentally rethink the ontology, profession and practice of archaeology. The authors present a closely reasoned, epistemologically sound argument for why archaeology should be considered the discipline of things rather than its more commonplace definition as the study of the human past through material traces. All scholars and students of archaeology will need to read and contemplate this thought provoking book Wendy Ashmore Professor of Anthropology UC Riverside A broad illuminating and well researched overview of theoretical problems pertaining to archaeology The authors make a calm defense of the role of objects against tedious claims of fetishism Graham Harman author of The Quadruple Object

Archaeology After Interpretation Benjamin Alberti, Andrew Meirion Jones, Joshua Pollard, 2016-06-16 A new generation of archaeologists has thrown down a challenge to post processual theory arguing that characterizing material symbols as arbitrary overlooks the material character and significance of artifacts This volume showcases the significant departure from previous symbolic approaches that is underway in the discipline It brings together key scholars advancing a variety of cutting edge approaches each emphasizing an understanding of artifacts and materials not in terms of symbols but relationally as a set of associations that compose people's understanding of the world Authors draw on a diversity of intellectual sources and case studies paving a dynamic road ahead for archaeology as a discipline and theoretical approaches to material culture

Discourse and Argumentation in Archaeology: Conceptual and Computational Approaches Cesar Gonzalez-Perez, Patricia Martin-Rodilla, Martín Pereira-Fariña, 2023-11-03 This book covers the topic of discourse and argumentation in archaeology with an aim to serve the archaeology community The book presents discourse and argument analysis approaches and techniques in an affordable manner and applied to archaeological situations It focuses on techniques and approaches that can be applicable to multiple situations periods and cultures The book begins with an introduction to discourse and argumentation analysis as a general field and also as an auxiliary technique to archaeology The work includes conceptual applications ranging from causality ontological connections vagueness social production of discourse and public debates The work also devotes a section to computational approaches and describes the specifics of some well known families of algorithms such as lexical processing information extraction or sentiment analysis The conclusion comments on the future and which reflects on the previous chapters and discusses how the presented techniques and approaches should be adapted or improved for easier and more powerful application to archaeology Contributing authors bring perspectives from archaeology linguistics and computer science

Agency in Archaeology Marcia-Anne Dobres, John Robb, 2014-06-11 Agency in Archaeology is the first critical volume to scrutinise the concept of agency and to examine in depth its potential to inform our understanding of the past Theories of agency recognise that human beings make choices hold intentions and take action This offers archaeologists scope to move beyond looking at broad structural or environmental change and instead to consider the individual and the group Agency in Archaeology brings together nineteen internationally renowned scholars who have very different and often conflicting stances on the meaning and use of agency theory to archaeology The volume is composed of five theoretically based discussions and nine case studies drawing on regions from North America and Mesoamerica to Western and central Europe and ranging in subject from the late Pleistocene hunter gatherers to the restructuring of gender relations in the north eastern US

The Cultural Life of Images Brian Molyneaux, 1997 Using a wide range of subjects this

Economic Representations , Representations John Bennet, 2021-08-30 This volume presents a series of reflections on modes of communication in the Bronze Age Aegean drawing on papers presented at two round table workshops of the Sheffield Centre for Aegean Archaeology on Technologies of Representation and Writing and Non Writing in the Bronze Age Aegean Each was designed to capture current developments in these interrelated research areas and also to help elide boundaries between science based and humanities based approaches and between those focused on written communication especially its content and those interested in broader modes of communication Contributions are arranged thematically in three groups the first concerns primarily non written communication the second mainly written communication and the third blurs this somewhat arbitrary distinction Topics in the first group include use of color in wall paintings at Late Bronze Age Pylos a re interpretation of the Harvester Vase from Ayia Triada re readings of the sequence of grave stelae at Mycenae of Aegean representations of warfare and of how ritual architecture is represented in the Knossos wall paintings and the use of painted media to represent depictions in other lost media such as cloth Topics in the second group range from defining Aegean writing itself through the contexts for literacy and how the Linear B script represented language to a historical exploration of early attempts at deciphering Linear B In the third group Linear B texts and archaeological data are used to explore how people were represented diacritically through taste and smell and how different qualities of time were expressed both textually and materially the roles of images in Aegean scripts complemented by a Peircian analysis of early Cretan writing a consideration of the complementary role of non literate sealing and literate writing practices and concludes with a further exploration of the color palette used at Pylos The Oxford Handbook of Public Archaeology Robin

Skeates, Carol McDavid, John Carman, 2012-01-05 Divided into four distinct sections and drawing across various disciplines this volume seeks to reappraise the place of archaeology in the contemporary world by providing a series of essays that critically engage with both old and current debates in the field of public archaeology Archaeological Semiotics Robert W. Preucel, 2010-04-26 This interdisciplinary book examines archaeology's engagement with semiotics from its early structuralist beginnings to its more recent Peircian encounters It represents the first sustained engagement with Peircian semiotics in archaeology as well as the first discussion of how pragmatic anthropology articulates with anthropological archaeology Its central thesis is that archaeology is a distinctive kind of semiotic enterprise one devoted to giving meaning to the past in the present through the study of materiality It compliments standard studies of linguistics and reformulates contemporary theories of material culture Providing an introduction to Saussure and a review of his legacy across structural symbolic and cognitive anthropology Preucel goes on to present the Peircian alternative and highlights its influence on pragmatic anthropology Of special interest are the discussions of the interrelations of structuralism and processual archaeology poststructuralism and postprocessual archaeologies and cognitive science and cognitive archaeology The author offers two original case studies demonstrating how material culture pragmatically mediates social relations one focusing on the aftermath of the Pueblo Revolt from 1680 1694 and the other on the New England utopian community of Brook Farm from 1842 1846 Throughout his analysis Preucel emphasizes the close links between archaeology and other social sciences But he also contends that archaeology by virtue of the powerful ideological character of the past can open up new spaces for discourse and dialogue about meaning and in the process make a valuable contribution to contemporary semiotics

Reading the Body Alison E. Rautman, 2000 In this volume classical archaeologists and anthropologists discuss mutually beneficial perspectives in method and theory as these relate to issues of gender

Gender and Change in Archaeology Nona Palıncaş, Ana Cristina Martins, 2024-03-29 This volume presents the various ways in which the study of gender makes a difference in archaeological research the archaeological academic milieu and the wider public's thinking about gender and considers avenues of future development It addresses questions such as why gender matters for archaeology while examining gender from various angles including aspects such as subjectivity embodiment diet multifaceted perspectives and intersectionality and in various periods prehistory Ancient Egypt Roman antiquity the Middle Ages and the modern and contemporary periods It also discusses the relationship between archaeology and other academic fields involving the study of gender as well as representations and debates on gender in the media The theme gender and change in archaeology emerged out of concerns voiced within the Archaeology and Gender in Europe AGE working community of the European Association of Archaeologists EAA with respect to the future of gender archaeology This book unites researchers of gender archaeology from two perspectives that of gender archaeologists from academic milieus where the study of gender has long been established and who in the meantime came to feel that this avenue of inquiry had become predictable and lost its provocative power and that of gender archaeologists from countries where this field was only recently introduced and who while more enthusiastic about the utility of gender archaeology are concerned with how to disseminate it among skeptical peers Both groups of archaeologists mainly argue that four decades on the study of gender in archaeology is still able to generate considerable change in our understanding of past and present day societies The volume is primarily of interest to archaeologists and researchers of gender studies

Archaeology and Photography Lesley McFadyen, Dan Hicks, 2020-08-05 Does a photograph freeze a moment of time What does it mean to treat a photographic image as an artefact In the visual culture of the 21st century do new digital and social forms change the status of photography as archival or objective or are they revealing something more fundamental about photography's longstanding relationships with time and knowledge Archaeology and Photography imagines a new kind of Visual Archaeology that tackles these questions The book reassesses the central place of Photography as an archaeological method and re-wires our cross-disciplinary conceptions of time objectivity and archives from the History of Art to the History of Science Through twelve new wide-ranging and challenging studies from an emerging generation of archaeological thinkers Archaeology and Photography

introduces new approaches to historical photographs in museums and to contemporary photographic practice in the field The book re frames the relationship between Photography and Archaeology past and present as more than a metaphor or an analogy but a shared vision Archaeology and Photography calls for a change in how we think about photography and time It argues that new archaeological accounts of duration and presence can replace older conceptions of the photograph as a snapshot or remnant received in the present The book challenges us to imagine Photography like Archaeology not as a representation of the past and the reception of traces in the present but as an ongoing transformation of objectivity and archive Archaeology and Photography will prove indispensable to students researchers and practitioners in History Photography Art Archaeology Anthropology Science and Technology Studies and Museum and Heritage Studies Naked Truths Ann O Koloski-Ostrow, Claire L Lyons, 2003-09-01 The articles in Naked Truths demonstrate the application of feminist theory to a diverse repertory of classical art they offer topical and controversial readings on the material culture of the ancient Mediterranean This volume presents a timely provocative and beautifully illustrated re evaluation of how the issues of gender identity and sexuality reveal naked truths about fundamental human values and social realities through the compelling symbolism of the body Comics and Archaeology Zena Kamash, Katy Soar, Leen Van Broeck, 2022-10-06 This book adds to the scant academic literature investigating how comics transmit knowledge of the past and how this refraction of the past shapes our understanding of society and politics in sometimes damaging ways The volume comes at these questions from a specifically archaeological perspective foregrounding the representation and narrative use of material cultures It fulfils its objectives through three reception studies in the first part of the volume and three chapters by comic creators in the second part All six chapters aim to grapple with a set of central questions about the power inherent in drawn images of various kinds Anthropomorphic Representations in the Cucuteni-Tripolye Culture Dan Monah, 2016-06-07 This book applies the view of Dan Monah 1943 2013 to the analysis of the Cucuteni Tripolye anthropomorphic representations
