Foreign Direct Investment Inflows Into the South East European Media Market Zvezdan Vukanović, 2016-07-25 This book offers a strategic analysis of current and future perspectives of Foreign Direct Investment (FDI) inflows into the South East European media market. The author develops a hybrid FDI business model strategy to guide media companies wishing to more effectively position and leverage their media infrastructure within the increasingly globalized and expanding media market. By conducting sixteen comparative and exploratory case studies of the South East European media market, the author explores how specific microeconomic factors influence spillover effects, absorption capacities and investment incentives between local and foreign firms through FDI inflows. The book is directed towards researchers and students as well as practitioners/professionals involved with media organizations. Foreign Direct Investment as a Tool for Poverty Reduction in Developing Countries Ronald K.S.

Wakyereza, 2019-10-15 The textbook experience of poverty can be witnessed in a number of developing countries in Sub-Saharan Africa, South East Asia and Latin America. Accordingly, Foreign Direct Investment (FDI) has been identified as an important tool for poverty reduction as it is noted to accelerate economic growth and employment in a nation and is currently an essential issue for countries such as Uganda. This book finds that Ragnar's 1953 Vicious Circle of Poverty remains undisputed even today, showing that attracting FDI is not the end but that a nation's absorption capacity is equally paramount. The implications of the FDI frog leap theory for developing countries and the Community Capital Absorption Capacity Development (CCACD) framework provide plausible poverty reduction approaches in the 21st century. Without such measures, bringing an end to poverty is likely to elude governments and multinational corporations in developing countries.

Foreign Direct Investment in Bahrain Lobna Ali Al-Khalifa, 2010-05 A significant volume of literature has been developed that seeks to provide an explanation for the growth of FDI and its impact on less developed countries The literature is characterized by diversity and controversy Based on it a range of reasons for encouraging investment have been proposed including its favorable effects on employment levels the balance of payments and balance of trade of the host country and also the potential for acquisition of technology and skills Cave 1982 and Dunning 1993 Equally the potentially negative effects of growing levels of foreign investment on domestic market structures and national sovereignty have long been the focus of attention Vernon 1971 and

Jenkins 1987 More recent studies focused on the positive effect FDI can create through the integration of a host country into the global economy and the system of international division of labor based on fragmentation of production Gereffi and Korzeniewicz 1994 and Henderson Decken Hess Coe and Yeung 2002 Little if any research has examined the impact of FDI on the oil monarchies Conventional expectations persisted that once they enter the post oil phase of their histories it will be difficult for them to uphold their political legitimacy and survive intense domestic and international pressures upon their regimes Taeker 1998 and O Reilly 1999 It has been argued that oil income enable them to pacify opponents by providing their subjects with jobs that pay well and has had detrimental effect on both economic development and political liberalization These expectations have tended to be contradicted by actual development The private sector has become remarkably strong in the oil monarchies and their governments were not highly resistant to change as depicted by the rentier state paradigm Mahdavy 1970 and Beblawi 1987 Taking Bahrain as a case study this thesis argues that despite its limitations as a small nation and the paucity of its oil reserves Bahrain punched well above its weight due to its open economy and foreign direct investment Its domestic economy is well integrated into the global market It was able to exploit some of the opportunities that were presented by economic globalization when niches were opened or vacated within the networks of global production It has developed energy intensive industries aluminium and petrochemicals and became the major financial centre of the Middle East Yet in spite of the government incentives it still faces some challenges in attracting FDI in downstream activities related to oil and aluminium which suggests that additional reforms are needed
