Meisels, 2000-05-22 Eighteen new chapters have been added to the 2000 edition of this valuable Handbook which serves as a core text for students and experienced professionals who are interested in the health and well being of young children It serves as a comprehensive reference for graduate students advanced trainees service providers and policy makers in such diverse fields as child care early childhood education child health and early intervention programs for children with developmental disabilities and children in high risk environments This book will be of interest to a broad range of disciplines including psychology child development early childhood education social work pediatrics nursing child psychiatry physical and occupational therapy speech and language pathology and social policy A scholarly overview of the underlying knowledge base and practice of early childhood intervention it is unique in its balance between breadth and depth and its integration of the multiple dimensions of the field Research on Support for Parents and Infants in the Postnatal Period C. F. Zachariah Boukydis, 1987 Educational and Developmental Aspects of Deafness Donald F. Moores, 1990 Educational and Developmental Aspects of Deafness details the ongoing revolution in the education of deaf children More than 20 researchers contributed their discoveries in anthropology education linguistics psychology sociology and other major disciplines with special concentration upon the education of deaf children Divided into two parts on education at home and in school this incisive book documents breakthroughs such as the public's interest in sign language the increasing availability of interpreters the growing perception of deafness as a social condition not a pathology and other positive trends It is unique as the first purely research based text and reference point for further study of the education of deaf children Children, Youth, and Families Robert N. Rapoport, 1985-10-31 This book first published in 1986 examines the connections between social science research and actions to improve the situations of children and families The World of Deaf Infants Kathryn P. Meadow-Orlans, Patricia Elizabeth Spencer, Lynne Sanford Koester, 2004 The World of Deaf Infants presents the results of a 15 year research study that has explored the impact of infant deafness on infant development on the families that support these children Social and Emotional Adjustment and Family Relations in Ethnic Minority Families Ronald D. Taylor, Margaret C. Wang, Margaret C Wang, 2013-11-26 This collection of essays addresses issues related to the intersection of family relationships and several contexts for the social and emotional development of ethnic minority adolescents The papers are organized in sections under subtitles which reflect three contextual frames through which these issues may be examined The first section focuses on the relationship between economic factors and resources on the one hand and family relations as environments for development on the other The next part focuses on family and peer networks and relations as contexts for the emotional and social development of adolescents The last section takes neighborhood and school as contexts for and determinants of social and emotional adjustment in adolescence Like much of the extant work and current thought concerning development in ethnic minority children and adolescents the authors have highlighted the more stressful and negative aspects of these several contexts There are a few explicit and several implicit references made to supportive and more positive contexts and manifestations of relationships which frame the developmental experiences of ethnic minority adolescents These serve as a reminder that many ethnic minority adolescents do overcome the odds against success and grow into healthy and wholesome adults However in large measure this book is a contribution to our understanding of the problematic circumstances under which a significant segment of the population exists reminding us that life for ethnic minority adolescents is difficult The fact that some of these young people manage to overcome the negative and stressful aspects of their experiences and defy the implicit prediction of failure to thrive is truly remarkable Family Systems and Life-span Development Kurt Kreppner, Richard M.

Lerner, 2013-05-13 This interdisciplinary volume presents international research and theories focusing on the development of the individual across the life span Centering on family as the key context influencing and being influenced by the developing person the contributors to this volume discuss an array of theoretical models methodological strategies and substantive foci linking the study of individual development the family system and the broader context of human development The volume presents continuing empirical research and theories in the realm of individual and family development and features a developmental contextual view from a process oriented vantage point Parenting Tom Luster, Lynn Okagaki, 2006-04-21 This is an update of their 1993 book with us This volume will focus on factors that influence parental behavior New additions to this volume include fathers gender of parent children with special needs ethnicity and socioeconomic status and parent e

Handbook of Marriage and the Family Marvin B. Sussman, Suzanne K. Steinmetz, Gary W. Peterson, 2013-06-29 To know where we are going as scholars educators and practitioners in the field of marriage and family life we first need to know where we have been A perusal of early texts on marriage and family life provides some thought provoking insights into the accuracy of the saying what goes around comes around It is interesting to note who has been considered to be in a position to provide information on marriage and family life Included in the eclectic collection of texts we reviewed were ministers whose focus was on spirituality doctors who emphasized medical aspects of child and adult health and public health professionals and home economists concerned with fighting disease who emphasized cleanliness order fighting germs and eliminating rodents and insects There are also philosophers who drew from ancient texts when discussing family life and a count who assembled a group of German intellectual elites to address various topics An insightful essay of this type is by Marta Karlweis 1926 in which she notes There is no other fetish that society holds to so firmly as the conception woman with all its usual associations of infantilism and dependence The child requires protection is a minor and consequently a serf but above all it possesses no spiritual existence Neither doctorates or other distinctions nor the right to vote have as yet been able to dispel this sweet idea of the childishness of woman which man cherishes p Children with Down Syndrome

Dante Cicchetti, Marjorie Beeghly, 1990-03-30 This volume offers a state of art review of what is known about young children with Down syndrome from a developmental perspective The underlying theme of the book is that children with Down syndrome despite their constitutional anomalies and their additional medical and biological problems can be understood from a normative developmental framework Interventions guided by developmental principles in the biological educational and psychological realms are more likely to result in informed knowledge about how best to help children with Down syndrome and their families Children with Down Syndrome will appeal to researchers theoreticians educators and clinicians in a range of disciplines as well as to parents social policymakers and other advocates for the best interests of children with Down syndrome

The Diversity and Strength of American Families United States. Congress. House. Select Committee on Children, Youth, and Families, 1986

Evaluating Family Programs Francine H. Jacobs, 2017-10-24 The diverse composition of American families and changing ways of raising our children have become subjects of intense scrutiny by researchers and policymakers in recent years Shifting demographics and work patterns growing numbers of women in the work force teenage pregnancy single parent families and the deinstitutionalization of the elderly disabled and mentally ill all these trends have significantly affected family life Evaluating Family Programs effectively bridges the gap between researchers and practitioners in order to bring practical understandable advice to providers of family programs and to program funders and policymakers Heather B Weiss and Francine H Jacobs have collected in this volume works which move outside the traditional approaches of their disciplines to create new models for delivering and evaluating services This sets a mood of genuine inquiry and excitement about successful aspects of programs while maintaining openness about the limitations of both research and practice By expanding the research model this work is an attempt to understand reciprocal influences of extended family culture community and social institutions It urges those who advocate program accountability to understand that not all types of evaluations are appropriate for all programs and it notes that limitations in current evaluation technologies make it difficult to evaluate outcomes Evaluating Family Programs reminds the reader that in order to develop sound family policy we must look at children and families in context Because policymakers program administrators and informed citizens have come to rely more upon the results of evaluation research we must improve our methods while not losing sight of its limitations It is a thought provoking contribution to the efforts of those who seek to support the American family with compassion understanding and realism Client-centered and Experiential Psychotherapy in the Nineties Richard Balen, 1990 This voluminous book of 47 chapters offers a good cross section of what is burgeoning in the field of client centered and experiential psychotherapy on the threshold of the nineties it does not represent a single vision but gives the floor to the various suborientations classics Rogerians client centered therapists who favor some form of integration or even eclecticism experiential psychotherapists for whom Gendlin's focusing approach is a precious way of working client centered therapists who look at the therapy process in terms of information processing existentially oriented therapists Remarkable is that for the first time in the history of client centered experiential psychotherapy the European voice rings through forcefully more than half of the contributions were written by authors from Western Europe Several chapters contain reflections on the evolution past present and future of client centered experiential psychotherapy The intensive research into the process which had a central place in the initial phase of client centered therapy is given here ample attention with several creative studies and proposals for renewal In numerous contributions efforts are made to build and further develop a theory of psychopathology the client's process the basic attitudes and task oriented interventions of the therapist The chapters dealing with clinical practice typically aim at the description of therapy with specific client populations and particularly severely disturbed clients And finally a few fields are introduced which are new or barely explored within the client centered experiential approach working with dreams health psychology couple and family therapy Family Transitions Philip A. Cowan, E. Mavis Hetherington, 2013-03-07 This volume the result of the second annual Summer Institute sponsored by the Family Research Consortium focuses on family transitions both normative and non normative The subject of family transitions has been a central concern of the consortium largely because studies of families in motion help to highlight mechanisms leading to adaptation and dysfunction This text represents a collective effort to understand the techniques individuals and families employ to adapt to the pressing issues they encounter along their life course Development as Action in Context Rainer K. Silbereisen, Klaus Eyferth, Georg Rudinger, 2013-04-17 Most contributions to this volume originated as papers given at an international conference on Integrative Perspectives on Youth Development held in Berlin West in May 1983 This conference was part of a 6 year longitudinal research program on the causes of substance use among adolescents in Berlin which is now in its fourth year The conference title deliberately did not refer to substance use However its relevance to an explanation of drug related problem behavior was made evident to everyone invited to the conference The search for integrative perspectives in youth development originated in a dilemma that became obvious during the planning of intensive research on concomitants of substance use In the methodology for research on youth development there were two lines of thought that seemed completely unrelated to each other One line of thought was oriented toward the person leaving situational aspects aside while the other concentrated on ecological or situational determinants and thus neglected the aspects of development and internal processes The integration of both these directions seemed to be an unusually promising approach for any project that aimed to understand changes in the individual within a rapidly changing urban setting The best way to come closer to a resolution of that dilemma seemed to be an intensive exchange between the American and European scientific communities on this issue

Children in Poverty Aletha C. Huston,1991 The number of children living in poverty in the United States increased dramatically during the 1980s and remains high Why are so many children growing up in poor families What are the effects of poverty on children s physical cognitive social and emotional development What role can public policy and policy research play in preventing or alleviating the damaging effects of poverty on children Children in Poverty examines these questions focusing on the child rather than on parents income or self sufficiency

Adolescents and Their Families Richard M. Lerner,Domini R. Castellino,2013-12-02 First published in 1999 The adolescent period is marked by changes in the biological psychological cognitive and social dimensions of the individual as well as by changes in the adolescents multilevel context i e the peers family school and other institutions in his or her ecology Adolescence is a dynamic period one which exemplifies the importance of understanding the relations between the developing individual and his or her changing context The articles included in this volume represent the current range of scholarship pertaining to adolescents and their families and exemplify the use of such an approach The articles underscore the continual importance of the family across adolescence
