Research Transformed Into Practice:

Clinical Research Transformed Olli S. Miettinen, Johann Steurer, Albert Hofman, 2019-10-15 In this Information Age the practices of clinical medicine should no longer be based on what clinical doctors actively know Rather all of the importantly practice relevant knowledge should not only already exist but also be codified in cyberspace in directly practice guiding expert systems for the benefit of both doctors and patients everywhere Each of these systems discipline specific would prompted by a particular type of case presentation present the doctor a questionnaire specific to cases of the type at issue and document the doctor s answers to the questions If at issue would be a case of complaint about a particular type of sickness the system would translate the resulting diagnostic profile of the case into the corresponding probabilities of the illnesses to be considered Similarly if at issue would be an already diagnosed case of a particular illness the system would ask about and record the relevant elements in the prognostic profile of the case and then translate this profile into the probabilities of various outcomes to be considered probabilities specific to the choice of treatment and prospective time in addition to that profile And besides these systems would analogously address the causal origin etiogenesis of cases of particular types of illness While the requisite knowledge base for these systems notably for the probabilities in them has not been addressed by such patient oriented clinical research as has been conducted very extensively up to now this book delineates the nature of the suitably transformed research gnostic The critically transformative innovation in the research is the studies focus on Gnostic Probability Functions dia etio and prognostic in the framework of logistic regression models This book also presents a vision of how this critically transformative research would most expeditiously be provided for and also conducted among select sets of academic teaching hospitals

Knowledge Transformation in Health and Social Care

John Gabbay, Andrée le May, 2022-12-30 The term mindlines has become common currency in the world of research implementation and evidence based practice This book updates develops and applies the mindlines model more widely It sheds light on how we can realistically mobilise and transform research based evidence into practice in context This illuminating book shows how the mindlines model can be put to work It highlights how practitioners collectively share and internalise implicit flexible ways of rapidly handling complex clinical situations Drawing on research and reflective studies from practice education and guidelines development across a wide range of international health and care settings the authors unpack the general components of mindlines They find practical ways to uncover bring together and apply specific mindlines to improve practice and to develop evidence based healthcare policy practice and education in ways that capitalise on the crucial role of mindlines Closely edited by the originators of the mindlines model this book brings together the work of a cohesive group of researchers and practitioners to showcase and develop its theory and consequences It is an essential read for all those interested in knowledge mobilisation evidence based practice and research implementation both within healthcare and beyond

Lost in Practice: Transforming Nordic Educational Action Research Karin Rönnerman, Petri

Salo,2014-11-04 Lost in Practice offers a further development of the notion of Nordic educational action research as described in a earlier volume Nurturing praxis 2008 aiming to deepen and enrich understandings of the Nordic educational tradition and its various practices It explores Nordic traditions and theories such as bildung practical knowledge regime and translation theory with the aim of furthering a seminal conversation between practice theory and action research Furthermore it illuminates the use of these theories in the context of Nordic countries by presenting a number of case studies on professional development practices in which specific forms and arenas for enhancing dialogue and meaning making are in focus The practices of study and research circles peer group mentoring and dialogue conferences as developed in the Nordic countries throughout the 20th century are presented and discussed both in terms of established traditions and of practices of collaborative development The book also reflect on the regional traditions and educational practices in the Nordic countries are reflected on in the third part of the book The volume addresses teachers at all levels in the educational system particularly those who are interested in understanding educational action research and furthering collaborative forms of professional development based on insights from different traditions for understanding and furthering the development of educational practices without getting lost Human Rights Transformation in Practice Tine Destrooper,Sally Engle Merry,2018-11-09

Human rights are increasingly described as being in crisis But are human rights really on the verge of disappearing Human Rights Transformation in Practice argues that it is certainly the case that human rights organizations in many parts of the world are under threat but that the ideals of justice fairness and equality inherent in human rights remain appealing globally and that recognizing the continuing importance and strength of human rights requires looking for them in different places These places are not simply the Human Rights Council or regular meetings of monitoring committees but also the offices of small NGOs and the streets of poor cities In Human Rights Transformation in Practice editors Tine Destrooper and Sally Engle Merry collect various approaches to the questions of how human rights travel and how they are transformed offering a corrective to those perspectives locating human rights only in formal institutions and laws Contributors to the volume empirically examine several hypotheses about the factors that impact the vernacularization and localization of human rights how human rights ideals become formalized in local legal systems sometimes become customary norms and at other times fail to take hold Case studies explore the ways in which local struggles may inspire the further development of human rights norms at the transnational level Through these analyses the essays in Human Rights Transformation in Practice consider how the vernacularization and localization processes may be shaped by different causes of human rights violations the perceived nature of violations and the existence of networks and formal avenues for information sharing Contributors Sara L M Davis Ellen Desmet Tine Destrooper Mark Goodale Ken MacLean Samuel Martinez Sally Engle Merry Charmain Mohamed Vasuki Nesiah Arne Vandenbogaerde Wouter Vandenhole Johannes M Waldm ller

Processual Perspectives on the Co-Production Turn in Public Sector Organizations Thomassen, Anja Overgaard, Jensen, Julie Borup, 2020-12-11 Existing research understands co production as leading to shifts in roles of the public sector institutions and their staffs The shift is seen in the way that a discursive use of the term service provision with embedded logics encompassing fiscal accountability performance measurement efficiency and process regulation has changed towards discourses that embrace collaboration between the public sector front staff and the citizens with the aim of developing legitimate and effective welfare services that are co produced by means of active participation and distributed decision making However this change requires new approaches to the way in which the implementation of new practices and tools is executed in practice as studied and researched and how the new practices and tools are understood and evaluated in organizations Processual Perspectives on the Co Production Turn in Public Sector Organizations is an essential reference book that examines unfolds and develops approaches to co production and implementation as dynamic processual collaborative sensemaking and as requiring and resulting in capacity building and learning Moreover the book examines new approaches to engage citizens and public sector actors in collaborative and co productive processes especially with concern for new goals pertaining to sustainability social equity democratic legitimacy etc Covering topics that include knowledge management and collective leadership the book presents perspectives on capacity building learning change and evaluation in organizations and current research in different areas of the public sector It is intended for public sector administrators and managers investigating the relevancy approaches and methods in co production Furthermore it targets civil actors and welfare service users leaders and managers of public organizations researchers academicians and students in programs that include social welfare development public administration political science and organizational development

Transforming Research Excellence L. Wallace, Robert Tijssen, 2020-01-07 Modern day science is under great pressure A potent mix of increasing expectations limited resources tensions between competition and cooperation and the need for evidence based funding is creating major change in how science is conducted and perceived Amidst this perfect storm is the allure of research excellence a concept that drives decisions made by universities and funders and defines scientists research strategies and career trajectories But what is excellent science And how to recognise it After decades of inquiry and debate there is still no satisfactory answer Are we asking the wrong question Is reality more complex and excellence in science more elusive than many are willing to admit And how should excellence be defined in different parts of the world particularly in lower income countries of the Global South where science is expected to contribute to pressing development issues despite often scarce resources Many wonder whether the Global South is importing with or without consenting the flawed tools for research evaluation from North America and Europe that are not fit for purpose This book takes a critical view of these issues touching on conceptual issues and practical problems that inevitably emerge when excellence is at the center of science systems Emerging from the capacity building work of the Science Granting Councils Initiative in sub Saharan Africa it speaks to scholars as well as to managers and funders of research around the world Confronting sticky problems and uncomfortable truths the chapters contain insights and recommendations that point towards new solutions both for the Global South and the Global North
