Research In Educational Settings:

Case Study Research In Educational Settings Bassey, Michael, 1999-05-01 Readers are taken through the various stages in conducting case study research including a helpful account of data collection and data analysis methods Structured narrative and descriptive approaches to writing case study reports are also discussed Research in Educational Settings Geoffrey Maruyama, Stanley L. Deno, 1992-05-06 This volume aims to help prospective educational researchers plan their research in schools more carefully It focuses on such issues as access and credibility in the school traditional issues of designing research questions that emerge as the design is imposed on the school culture and setting particularly with regard to school staff and student assessment the length of interventions and whether or not to schedule follow up studies and how to interpret and communicate findings to schools and policy makers Using personal experiences from their field research to illustrate key concepts the authors have also included a research project to clarify the practical issues of school research

Life History Research in Educational Settings Ivor Goodson, Patricia J. Sikes, 2001 It has long been recognised that life history method has a great deal to offer to those engaged in social research Indeed right from the start of the twentieth century eminent sociologists such as W I Thomas C Wright Mills and Herbert Blumer have suggested that it is the best the perfect approach for studying any aspect of social life In recent years life history has become increasingly popular with researchers investigating educational topics of all kinds including teachers perceptions and experiences of different areas of their lives and careers curriculum and subject development pedagogical practice and managerial concerns Life History Research in Educational Settings sets out to explore and consider the various reasons for this popularity and makes the case that the approach has a major and unique contribution to make to understandings of schools schooling and educational experience however characterised The book draws extensively on examples of life history research in order to illustrate theoretical methodological ethical and practical issues Policy Research in Educational Settings Jenny

Ozga, 1999-11-16 This book argues for independent critical research on education policy in the context of attacks on the quality and usefulness of educational research in general It takes issue with the argument promoted by government departments and agencies that education policy research should be limited to work that assists policy makers Against this position the book advocates independent critical research that scrutinizes policy in relation to its consequences for equality and social justice It argues that practitioners and academic researchers should form a research community that develops its own knowledge base from which so called evidence based policymaking in education may be assessed and challenged The book offers guidance on the theoretical and methodological resources available to practitioners and others with an interest in doing research on policy and discusses some of the main issues and problems in doing policy research on education It offers examples of research on policy at different system levels pursuing themes such as globalization changing governance of education selection choice and exclusion managerialism and the feminisation of educational management It argues for attention to the history of policy in education as a resource for understanding the present and concludes with recommendations for future research in areas where contestation of official agendas is needed The Research Process in Educational Settings Robert G. Burgess, 2011-12-08 This book presents a series of research biographies based on research experiences in the study of educational settings The main aim is to provide a set of first person accounts on doing research that combine analysis with description The contributors have been drawn from the disciplines of sociology and educational studies and have all conducted ethnographic work or case studies in a variety of educational settings Historical Research in Educational Settings Gary McCulloch, William Richardson, 2000 This work explores how to set about historical research in education It locates this field in relation to changes in educational research historical research and a range of social sciences It offers a theoretical guide to the rationales and problems of the field as well as to current opportunities for research It also gives practical advice for getting started and for suitable research methods in different kinds of projects and in doing so draws critically on international literature It includes detailed case studies on the following topics in historical research curriculum and classrooms Foucauldian interpretations the Alternative Road literacy in the nineteenth century and the university history curriculum Professional Development Through Action Research in Educational Settings Christine O'Hanlon, 1996 Describes ways of using action research to improve teaching and learning Fieldwork in Educational Settings Sara Delamont, 2002-11-01 Extensively revised and updated this new edition of Fieldwork in Educational Settings will be welcomed by researchers and academics in education and the social sciences Embracing both sociological and anthropological approaches to qualitative research the book covers education inside and beyond schools It emphasises writing up ethnographic research and getting the project finished and is packed with examples from research in progress This new edition brings the original text right up to date for new researchers There is an additional chapter on computer software for data handling and attention is given to the implications of postmodernism for writing up research The examples given are taken from the latest research replacing those from the first edition This is an indispensable handbook by an author whose work on this subject is widely recognised as being an essential resource for the researcher in education
