Nurses On The Move Migration And The Global Health Care Economy:

Nurses on the Move Mireille Kingma, 2018-07-05 South African nurses care for patients in London hospitals recruit Filipino nurses to Los Angeles and Chinese nurses practice their profession in Ireland In every industrialized country of the world patients today increasingly find that the nurses who care for them come from a vast array of countries In the first book on international nurse migration Mireille Kingma investigates one of today's most important health care trends The personal stories of migrant nurses that fill this book contrast the nightmarish existences of some with the successes of others Health systems in industrialized countries now depend on nurses from the developing world to address their nursing shortages This situation raises a host of thorny questions What causes nurses to decide to migrate Is this migration voluntary or in some way coerced When developing countries are faced with nurse vacancy rates of more than 40 percent is recruitment by industrialized countries fair play in a competitive market or a new form of colonialization What happens to these workers and the patients left behind when they migrate What safeguards will protect nurses and the patients they find in their new workplaces Highlighting the complexity of the international rules and regulations now being constructed to facilitate the lucrative trade in human services Kingma presents a new way to think about the migration of skilled health sector labor as well as the strategies needed to make migration work for individuals patients and the health systems on which they depend

Global Health Worker Migration Margaret Walton-Roberts, 2023-07-13 International skilled health worker migration is a key feature of the global economy a major contributor to socio economic development and reflective of the transnationalization of health and elder care that is underway in most OECD nations The distribution of care and health workforce planning has previously been analysed solely within national contexts but increasingly scholars have shown how care deficits are being addressed through transnational responses This Element examines the complex processes that feed health worker migrants into global circulation the losses and gains associated with such mobility and examples of good practices where migrants sending and destination communities experience the best possible outcomes It will approach this issue through the lens of problems and solutions making connections across the micro meso and macro within and across the sections

The Question of Skill in Cross-Border Labour Mobilities Gracia Liu-Farrer,Brenda S.A. Yeoh,Michiel Baas,2023-03-31 Selecting migrants based on skill has become a widely practised migration policy in many countries around the world Since the late 20th century research on skilled and highly skilled migration has raised important questions about the value and ethics of skill based labour mobility More recent research has begun to question the concept of skill and skill categorisation in both government policy and academic research Taking the view that skills are socially constructed categories and highly malleable concepts in practice this edited volume centres the discussion on the following questions Who are the arbitrators of skill What constitutes skill And how is skill constructed in the migration process and in turn how does skill affect the mobility The empirical studies in this volume show that diverse actors are involved in the process of identifying evaluating and shaping migrant skill The interpretation of migrants skill is frequently distorted by their ascriptive characteristics such as race ethnicity gender and nationality reflecting the influence of colonial legacy global inequality as well as social stratification Finally this edited volume emphasises the complex and frequently reciprocal relationship between skill and mobility This book will be of interest to researchers and advanced students of Sociology Human Geography Politics Social Anthropology Economics and Social Work It was originally published as a special issue of the Journal of Ethnic and Migration Studies

The Migration Industry and the Commercialization of International Migration Thomas Gammeltoft-Hansen, Ninna Nyberg Sørensen, 2013 Migration has become business big business Over the last few decades a host of new business opportunities have emerged that capitalize both on the migrants desires to migrate and the struggle by governments to manage migration From the rapid growth of specialized transportation and labour immigration companies to multinational companies managing detention centres or establishing border security to the organized criminal networks profiting from human smuggling and trafficking we are currently witnessing a growing commercialization of international migration This volume claims that today it is almost impossible to speak of migration without also speaking of the migration industry Yet acknowledging the role the migration industry plays prompts a number of questions that have so far received only limited attention among scholars and policy makers The book offers new concepts and theory for the study of international migration by bringing together cross disciplinary theoretical explorations and original case studies It also provides a global coverage of the phenomena under study covering migrant destinations in Europe the United States and Asia and migrant sending regions in Africa Asia and Latin America
