Abstract

This study explores the relationship between humor, creativity, rationality, intuitiveness, and decision-making quality, all of which are vital in organizational management and success. Despite the importance attached to decision-making, prior research has not fully addressed how humor and creativity interact with rationality. Drawing from psychology, cognitive science, and management studies, we investigate how humor and creativity jointly influence cognitive reflection and decision quality. Using a sample of 998 participants and employing a mediating-moderation PROCESS model, our findings indicate that rational individuals tend to make higher-quality decisions, with affiliative humor mediating this relationship. Furthermore, we observed that employees' creativity levels moderated this relationship, especially among rational employees with high creativity, who made higher-quality decisions. These findings highlight the interconnectedness of humor, creativity, and rationality in decision-making processes, offering practical implications for organizational behavior and management practices. Understanding this interplay can provide a nuanced approach to enhancing decision-making processes in management, emphasizing the value of humor in organizational contexts.

Introduction

Decision-making is a fundamental process that significantly influences organizations' success and sustainability. At its core, decision-making involves choosing from alternative courses of action based on the evaluation of relevant information and potential outcomes (Salas et al., 2010). The quality of decision-making is crucial because it directly affects an organization's capacity to achieve its goals and maintain a competitive edge. By emphasizing the importance of quality in decision-making, organizations can better navigate challenges and capitalize on opportunities, ensuring long-term success and resilience (Johnson & Walker, 2023). Specifically, high-quality decisions are characterized by thorough analysis, consideration of diverse perspectives, and a balanced assessment of risks and opportunities.

In this study, we aim to investigate the effect of (1) cognitive reflection versus rationality and (2) creativity and humor on the quality of decision-making. Cognitive reflection (CR) refers to the mental process of consciously evaluating and re-evaluating one's initial thoughts and intuitions before deciding. CR involves a deliberate and analytical approach to problem-solving, whereby individuals question their automatic responses and consider alternative perspectives and information. This reflective thinking is crucial for avoiding cognitive biases and errors in judgment, leading to more accurate and rational decision-making. In organizational contexts, fostering cognitive reflection can enhance the quality of decisions (Frederick, 2005; Sirota et al., 2021). Notably, Frederick (2005) developed a test to measure CR (CRT), which will be used in this study.

Our study involves two more independent variables – vital drivers of innovation and competitive advantage – namely, creativity and humor. Organizational creativity involves generating novel and valuable ideas, solutions, and approaches to improve products, services, decision-making

The Shaping of Rationality J. Wentzel van Huyssteen, 1999-07-20 This book arises out of a deep fascination with the relationship between human intelligence and rationality and with how our fragile but uniquely human ability to be rational invariably affects our everyday lives as well as our involvement with faith theology and the spectacular scientific achievements of our time After carefully analyzing the notion of rationality and examining how the skill of rationality is being challenged by postmodern culture J Wentzel van Huyssteen argues that it is precisely the problem of rationality that holds the key to understanding the complex forces shaping the radically different domains of religion and science today The Shaping of Rationality

Scientific Models for Religious Knowledge Andrew Ralls Woodward, 2018-08-14 Most comparisons of science and religion are really comparisons of science and Christianity or science and Islam and so forth In Scientific Models for Religious Knowledge the author aims to get outside typical polarized debates between traditional a priori theism and radical scientific naturalism Instead a new science and religion compatibility system between a scientific study of religion and a religious epistemology is our new elusive problem Moreover we shall look at a comparison and contrast of modern science with the simple deference of the human mind to the actions of culturally postulated superhuman agents This book pays critical attention to the contributions of scholars in the philosophy of religion the philosophy of science and the scientific study of religion Scientific Models for Religious Knowledge is useful for readers looking to expand their learning in the philosophies of science and religion as these subjects are taught and analyzed in modern research universities

Human Origins and the Image of God Lilley & Pedersen, eds., 2017 How did human beings originate What if anything makes us unique These questions have long been central to philosophers theologians and scientists This book continues that robust interdisciplinary conversation with contributions from an international team of scholars whose expertise ranges from biology and anthropology to philosophical theology and ethics The fourteen chapters in this volume are organized around Wentzel van Huyssteen's pioneering work in human rationality embodiment and evolutionary history Bringing a variety of diverse perspectives to bear on a hotly debated issue Human Origins and the Image of God showcases new research by some of today's finest scholars working on questions regarding human origins and human uniqueness

God's Action in Nature's World Nathan Hallanger, 2016-04-22 In 1981 Robert John Russell founded what would become the leading center of research at the interface of science and religion the Center for Theology and the Natural Sciences Throughout its twenty five year history CTNS under Russell's leadership has continued to guide and further the dialogue between science and theology Russell has been an articulate spokesperson in calling for creative mutual interaction between the two fields God's Action in Nature's World brings together sixteen internationally recognized scholars to assess Robert Russell's impact on the discipline of science and religion Focusing on three areas of Russell's work methodology cosmology and divine action in quantum physics this book celebrates Robert John Russell's contribution to the interdisciplinary engagement between the natural sciences and theology

Essays in Postfoundationalist Theology Jacobus Wentzel Van Huyssteen, 1997 This collection of essays boldly addresses many of the challenges faced by Christian theology in the context of contemporary postmodern thought Handling abstract topics in a remarkably clear and concise way J Wentzel van Huyssteen presses the case for a postfoundationalist theology as a viable third option beyond the extremes of foundationalism and nonfoundationalism Van Huyssteen discusses themes related to rationality epistemology and philosophy of science In the process he critically engages the work of such thinkers as Wolfhart Pannenberg Nancey Murphy Jerome Stone and Gerd Theissen The result is a convincing argument that only a truly accessible and philosophically credible notion of interdisciplinarity will be able to pave the way for a plausible public theology that can play an important intellectual role in our fragmented culture today

Agreeable Agreement Minna Hietamäki, 2011-10-20

In recent bilateral ecumenical dialogue the aim of the dialogue has been to reach some form of doctrinal consensus. The three major chapters of the book discuss the variety of forms of doctrinal consensus found in ecumenical dialogues among Anglicans, Lutherans, and Roman Catholics. In general, the dialogue documents argue for agreement/consensus based on commonality or compatibility. Each of the three dialogue processes has specific characteristics and formulates its argument in a unique way. The Lutheran-Roman Catholic dialogue has a particular interest in hermeneutical questions and proposes various forms of differentiated or perspectival forms of consensus. The Anglican-Roman Catholic dialogue emphasises the correctness of interpretations. The documents consciously look towards a common future, not the separated past.
