Turner argued that the European heritage of Americans was less important in understanding the country they had made than their own experience in settling a continent. It was the circumstances of life on the frontier in fact a succession of frontiers that moved inexorably westward that were a determining influence on American character and institutions. Turner read this paper propounding his thesis at the meeting of the American Historical Association in Chicago July 12 1893 as part of the World's Columbian Exposition. It was timely he suggested because the Census of 1890 had announced the closing of the frontier in the United States and thus the end of an important stage of American development The Shaping of the American Past, 1865 to Present Robert Kelley, 1990-01-01
