Shattered Subjects Suzette Henke,2000 This text explores the autobiographical testimonies of six 20th century women authors whose writings employ narratives of scriptotherapy in order to heal the wounds of psychological trauma This psychoanalytic study focuses on the sexual textual inscription of traumatic narrative as the focal point of a large body of autobiographical practice representing the genre of narrative recovery The literary testimonies of Colette Hilda Doolittle Anais Nin Audre Lorde Janet Frame and Sylvia Fraser provide evidence of post traumatic stress disorder precipitated by rape incest childhood sexual abuse unwanted pregnancy pregnancy loss or a severe illness that threatens the integrity of the body The compelling writings produced by these experiences are examined for their patterns of similarity and their points of uniqueness The book suggests that the powerful medium of written autobiographical testimony may make the resolution or reconfiguration of the most emotionally distressing experiences possible

White Masculinity in the Recent South Trent Watts, 2008-05 From antebellum readers avidly consuming stories featuring white southern men as benevolent patriarchs hell raising frontiersmen and callous plantation owners to postCivil War southern writers seeking to advance a model of southern manhood and male authority as honorable dignified and admirable the idea of a distinctly southern masculinity has reflected the broad regional differences between North and South In WHITE MASCULINITY IN THE RECENT SOUTH thirteen scholars of history literature film and environmental studies examine modern white masculinity including such stereotypes as the

Realism's Others Eva Aldea, Geoffrey Baker, 2010-07-12 For at least a century scholarship on realist narrative and occasional polemics against realist narrative have assumed that realism promotes the values of sameness against those of otherness and that it does so by use of a narrative mode that excludes certain epistemologies ideologies and ways of thinking

However the truth is more complex than that as the essays in this volume all demonstrate Realism s Others examines the various strategies by which realist narratives create the idea of difference whether that difference is registered in terms of class ethnicity epistemology nationality or gender The authors in this collection examine in detail not just the fact of otherness in some canonical realist and canonical magical realist and postmodern novels but the actual means by which that otherness is established by the text These essays suggest that neither realist narrative nor narratives positioned as anti realist take otherness for granted rather the texts discussed here actively create difference and this creation of difference often occasions severe difficulties for the novels representational schema How does one represent different types of knowledge other aesthetic modes or other spaces for example in texts whose epistemology has long been seen as secular and empirical whose aesthetic mode has always been approached as pure descriptive mimesis and whose settings are largely domestic These essays all begin with a certain collision of nationalities of classes of representational matrices of religions and go on to chart the challenges that this collision presents to our ideas or stereotypes of realism or to the possibilities of writing against and beyond realism This question motivates examination of key realist or social realist texts in some of these essays by Honor de Balzac George Eliot Franz Grillparzer Theodor Storm Gottfried Keller Theodor Fontane Wilhelm Raabe Mar a Amparo Ruiz de Burton Henry James William Dean Howells Charles Chesnutt Theodore Dreiser H T Tsiang Alan Sillitoe and Richard Yates However it is no less central a question in certain non realist texts which engage realist aims to a surprising degree often to debate them openly some of these essays discuss in this light fantastic magical realist and postmodern works by Abram Tertz Paul Auster Alejo Carpentier Toni Morrison Gabriel Garc a M rquez Salman Rushdie and A S Byatt Realism becomes more than an aesthetic aim or narrative mode It becomes rather a value evoked and discussed by all of the works analyzed here in order to reveal its impact on fiction s treatment of ethnicity nationality ideology space gender and social class

Filming History from Below Efrén Cuevas, 2022-01-11 Traditional historical documentaries strive to project a sense of objectivity producing a top down view of history that focuses on public events and personalities In recent decades in line with historiographical trends advocating history from below a different type of historical documentary has emerged focusing on tightly circumscribed subjects personal archives and first person perspectives Efr n Cuevas categorizes these films as microhistorical documentaries and examines how they push cinema s capacity as a producer of historical knowledge in new directions Cuevas pinpoints the key features of these documentaries identifying their parallels with written microhistory a reduced scale of observation a central role given to human agency a conjectural approach to the use of archival sources and a reliance on narrative structures Microhistorical documentaries also use tools specific to film to underscore the affective dimension of historical narratives often incorporating autobiographical and essayistic perspectives and highlighting the role of the protagonists personal memories in the reconstruction of the past These films generally draw from family archives with an emphasis on snapshots and home movies Filming History from Below examines works including

Porter Forges's films dealing with the Holocaust such as The Maelstrom and Free Fall documentaries about the Israeli Palestinian conflict Rithy Panh's work on the Cambodian genocide films about the internment of Japanese Americans during the Second World War such as A Family Gathering and History and Memory and Jonas Mekas's chronicle of migration in his diary film Lost Lost Lost
