Infrastructure Margaret Birney Vickery, 2019-10-03 Landscape and Infrastructure examines the relationships between landscape painting and landscape design from the seventeenth century to the present and contemporary infrastructure projects around the globe. These seemingly disparate subjects are united by a shared concern for the pastoral middle ground, a traditionally productive landscape. By focusing an art historical lens on pre-industrial productive systems and the effects of the Industrial Revolution on the pastoral landscape tradition, we can gain a better understanding of how to weave new approaches to productive infrastructure systems such as power generation, water filtration, and food production into our contemporary landscapes. With rising demand for clean energy, clean water, and locally grown food, this study offers a historical perspective on how such systems can be integrated into our suburban and urban areas. Vestigial elements of the pastoral tradition have long held aesthetic sway in our suburbs, cities, and national parks, both in Britain and America. Now, as new energy and water-related projects encroach on these spaces, remnants of the pastoral play a crucial role in convincing neighborhood residents, municipal leaders, and energy companies or water authorities of the benefits of a neighboring infrastructure. This book investigates the history of that tradition and highlights the advantages it brings as we re-imagine infrastructure in the twenty-first century.

The 'Small Landscape' Prints in Early Modern Netherlands Alexandra Onuf, 2017-01-02 In 1559 and 1561, the Antwerp print publisher Hieronymus Cock issued an unprecedented series of landscape prints known today simply as the Small Landscapes. The forty-four prints included in the series offer views of the local countryside surrounding Antwerp in simple, unembellished compositions. At a time when vast panoramic and allegorical landscapes dominated the art market, the Small Landscapes represent a striking innovation. This book offers the first comprehensive analysis of the significance of the Small Landscapes in early modern print culture. It charts a diachronic history of the series over the century it was in active circulation, from 1559 to the middle of the seventeenth century. Adopting the lifespan of the prints as the framework of the study, Alexandra Onuf analyzes the successive states of the plates and the changes to the series as a whole in order to reveal the shifting artistic and contextual valences of the images at their different moments and places of publication. This unique case study allows for a new perspective on the trajectory of print publishing over the course of the late sixteenth and early seventeenth centuries across multiple publishing houses, highlighting the seminal importance of print publishers in the creation and dissemination of visual imagery and cultural ideas. Looking at other visual materials and contemporary sources, including texts as diverse as humanist poetry and plays, agricultural manuals, polemical broadsheets, and peasant songs, Onuf situates the Small Landscapes within the larger cultural discourse on rural land and the meaning of the local in the turbulent early modern Netherlands. The study focuses new attention on the active and reciprocal intersections between printed pictures and broader cultural, economic, and political phenomena.

Capitalism and Cartography in the Dutch Golden Age Elizabeth A. Sutton, 2015-06-05 In Capitalism and Cartography in the Dutch Golden Age, Elizabeth A. Sutton explores the fascinating but previously neglected history of corporate cartography during the Dutch Golden Age from ca 1600 to 1650 She examines how maps were used as propaganda tools for the Dutch West India Company in order to encourage the commodification of land and an overall capitalist agenda Building her exploration around the central figure of Claes Jansz Vischer an Amsterdam based publisher closely tied to the Dutch West India Company Sutton shows how printed maps of Dutch Atlantic territories helped rationalize the Dutch Republic's global expansion Maps of land reclamation projects in the Netherlands as well as the Dutch territories of New Netherland now New York and New Holland Dutch Brazil reveal how print media were used both to increase investment and to project a common narrative of national unity Maps of this era showed those boundaries commodities and topographical details that publishers and the Dutch West India Company merchants and governing Dutch elite deemed significant to their agenda In the process Sutton argues they perpetuated and promoted modern state capitalism The J. Paul Getty
