Singh, Bhishm Kumar, 2012-12-06 Water is vital to life maintenance of ecological balance economic development and sustenance of civilization Planning and management of water resources and its optimal use are a matter of urgency for most countries of the world and even more so for India with a huge population Growing population and expanding economic activities exert increasing demands on water for varied needs domestic industrial agricultural power generation navigation recreation etc In India agriculture is the highest user of water The past three decades have witnessed numerous advances as well as have presented intriguing challenges and exciting opportunities in hydrology and water resources Compounding them has been the growing environmental consciousness Nowhere are these challenges more apparent than in India As we approach the twenty first century it is entirely fitting to take stock of what has been accomplished and what remains to be accomplished and what accomplishments are relevant with particular reference to Indian conditions Treatise on Water Science, 2010-09-01 Water quality and management are of great significance globally as the demand for clean potable water far exceeds the availability Water science research brings together the natural and applied sciences engineering chemistry law and policy and economics and the Treatise on Water Science seeks to unite these areas through contributions from a global team of author experts The 4 volume set examines topics in depth with an emphasis on innovative research and technologies for those working in applied areas Published in partnership with and endorsed by the International Water Association IWA demonstrating the authority of the content Editor in Chief Peter Wilderer a Stockholm Water Prize recipient has assembled a world class team of volume editors and contributing authors Topics related to water resource management water quality and supply and handling of wastewater are treated in depth Remote Sensing and Hydrology 2000 Manfred Owe, 2001 Proceedings: Symposium on Statistical Hydrology Held at Tucson, Arizona, August 31 - September 2, 1971, 1974 The Symposium on Statistical Hydrology has been developed to facilitate discussions between hydrologists and statisticians on problems in hydrology and the application of probabilistic and statistical methodologies to their investigation and solution Hydrology of Disasters V.P. Singh, 2012-12-06 The General Assembly of the United Nations passed a resolution on December 11 1987 designating the 1990s as the International Decade for Natural Disaster Reduction This resolution has served as a catalyst in promotion of international cooperation in the field of natural disaster reduction in initiation of wide ranging research activities on natural and man made disasters in development of technologies for assessment prediction prevention and mitigation through technical assistance technology transfer demonstration projects and education and training and in dissemination of information related to measures for assessment prediction prevention and mitigation of natural disasters Disasters are manifestations of environmental extremes Depending upon the type of disasters their occurrence may have short term and/or long term detrimental environmental consequences Disasters cannot be prevented altogether but their impact can be mitigated This book is an attempt to provide a discussion of hydrological aspects of the various types of natural disasters It is hoped that others will be stimulated to write more comprehensive texts on this subject of enormous importance Proceedings of the Institution of Civil Engineers, 2005 Integrated Water Resources Management Miguel A. Flood Risk Assessment and Management Andreas H. Schumann, 2011-01-04 Flood catastrophes which happened world wide have shown that it is not sufficient to characterize the hazard caused by the natural phenomenon flood with the well known 3M approach measuring mapping and modelling Due to the recent shift in paradigms from a safety oriented approach to risk based planning it became necessary to consider the harmful impacts of hazards The planning tasks changed from attempts to minimise hazards towards interventions to reduce exposure or susceptibility and nowadays to enhance the capacities to increase resilience Scientific interest shifts more and more towards interdisciplinary approaches which are needed to avoid disaster This book deals with many aspects of flood risk management in a comprehensive way As risks depend on hazard and vulnerabilities not only geophysical tools for flood forecasting and planning are presented but also socio economic problems of flood management are discussed Starting with precipitation and meteorological tools to its forecasting hydrological models are described in their applications for operational flood forecasts considering model uncertainties and their interactions with hydraulic and groundwater models With regard to flood risk planning regionalization aspects and the options to utilize historic floods are discussed New hydrological tools for flood risk assessments for dams and reservoirs are presented Problems and options to quantify socio economic risks and how to consider them in multi criteria assessments of flood risk planning are discussed This book contributes to the contemporary efforts to reduce flood risk at the European scale Using many real world examples it is useful for scientists and practitioners at different levels and with different interests
