Shakespearean Objects in the Royal Collection, 1714-1939 Kirsten Tambling, 2025-09-22 The British royal collection includes nearly 2 000 objects with a connection to Shakespeare What stories do these objects tell of the relationship between the man often described as Britain's national poet and Britain's royal family Royal collecting of Shakespeare did not really begin until 1714 and has therefore broadly tracked the development and entrenchment of the Hanoverian and latterly the Saxe Coburg Gotha royal family Not entirely coincidentally this period also saw a general increase in public interest in objects associated with Shakespeare's life and biography often to the detriment of Shakespeare's works a development partially spearheaded by the Shakespeare Jubilee masterminded by the actor David Garrick at Stratford upon Avon in 1769 The histories of specific works of art in the royal collection from Thomas Gainsborough's painting of Mary Robinson to a collection of relic objects relating to Herne's Oak and Shakespeare's mulberry tree reveal how royal engagement with Shakespearean objects between 1714 and 1939 contributed to the development of a new constitutional settlement between the monarchy and its subjects under George IV Queen Victoria and George V and Queen Mary During this period objects relating to Shakespeare increasingly regarded by the royal family as nostalgic souvenirs from a fantastical national past were useful tools in shoring up these ideas and in yoking the fortunes of the British monarchy to a new vision of shared national history

Lublin, 2016-05-13 Although scholars have long considered the material conditions surrounding the production of early modern drama until now no book length examination has sought to explain what was worn on the period's stages and more importantly how articles of apparel were understood when seen by contemporary audiences Robert Lublin's new study considers royal proclamations religious writings paintings woodcuts plays historical accounts sermons and legal documents to investigate what Shakespearean actors actually wore in production and what cultural information those costumes conveyed Four of the chapters of Costuming the Shakespearean Stage address categories of seeing visually based semiotic systems according to which costumes constructed and conveyed information on the early modern stage The four categories include gender social station nationality and religion The fifth chapter examines one play Thomas Middleton's A Game at Chess to show how costumes signified across the categories of seeing to establish a play's distinctive semiotics and visual aesthetic

Shakespeare as Literary Dramatist Lukas Erne, 2003-03-13 In this 2003 study Lukas Erne argues that Shakespeare apart from being a playwright who wrote theatrical texts for the stage was also a literary dramatist who produced reading texts for the page The usual distinction that has been set up between Ben Jonson on the one hand carefully preparing his manuscripts for publication and Shakespeare the man of the theatre writing for his actors and audience indifferent to his plays as literature is questioned in this book Examining the evidence from early published playbooks Erne argues that Shakespeare wrote many of his plays with a readership in mind and that these literary texts would have been abridged for the stage because they were too long for performance The variant early texts of Romeo and Juliet Henry V and Hamlet are shown to reveal important insights into the different media for which Shakespeare designed his plays
