Shark Utilization Marketing And Trade Fao Fisheries Technical Papers:

Shark Utilization, Marketing and Trade Stefania Vannuccini, 1999-01-01 Sharks are only a small proportion of world recorded fish landings but they are a versatile and valuable resource. They sustain important fisheries in several countries and are a cheap but valuable source of protein for coastal communities dependent on subsistence fisheries. Sharks are exploited for their meat, fins, teeth, cartilage, liver, and other internal organs. This report details species used and methods of preparation for various purposes. FAO Fisheries Technical Paper, 1999

Shark Utilization, Marketing and Trade Stefania Vannuccini, 1999 Sharks belong to the Chondrichthyes class together with skates, rays, and chimaeras and are found in a wide variety of habitats worldwide, employing many biological strategies. Although sharks make up only a small percentage of the world's recorded fish landings, they are extremely versatile and are a valuable resource. They are of primary importance in some regions of the world, sustaining important fisheries in some countries. Moreover, they are a cheap but valuable source of protein for coastal communities dependent on subsistence fisheries. Humans can utilize much of the carcass for food or other uses. Sharks are exploited for their meat, fins, skin, liver, teeth, cartilage, and other internal organs. It is not possible to utilize every shark for all these uses as the methods of preservation and preparation are often mutually exclusive and not all shark species are suitable for all applications. This report details the species used and the methods of preparation for the various purposes. It assembles information as well as the latest statistics available from those parts of the world where sharks are important economically as a substantial fisheries sector, a contribution to human food, or a valuable trading item. Management Techniques for Elasmobranch Fisheries Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, 2005-01-01 This publication describes the scientific principles and techniques used for resource management of elasmobranch fisheries with emphasis on the particular context of elasmobranchs. The management characteristics of these fishes are described, their common bycatch character, and their biological constraints on productivity, low growth rate, late maturity, and low fecundity. Stock assessment of elasmobranchs is described in the context of management objectives in a wide management context. Special attention is given to accurate species identification given the prevalent aggregating of landings data across species, genera, and often families in this group. Techniques and experiences for tagging elasmobranchs for population estimation are described as well as methods of genetic techniques for stock identification.

Report of the FAO Technical Working Group on the Conservation and Management of Sharks Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations. Technical Working Group on the Conservation and Management of Sharks, 1999-01-01

Report of the FAO Expert Consultation on the Implementation of the FAO International Plan of Action for the Conservation and Management of Sharks, Rome, 6-8 December, 2005, 2006-01-01 The FAO Expert Consultation held in Rome in December 2005 reviewed available information and national institutional and personal experiences in relation to factors governing the success of the IPOA SHARKS conservation and management programme, including the constraints to the programme.

implementation and options for improving its efficacy and effectiveness The conclusion of the consultation was that the IPOA SHARKS programme was a beneficial endeavour and that efforts to improve its effectiveness should be strengthened

Sharks of the Open Ocean Merry D. Camhi, Ellen K. Pikitch, Elizabeth A. Babcock, 2009-01-21 This important and exciting title represents the first authoritative volume focussed on pelagic open ocean sharks as a group Virtually every pelagic shark expert in the world has contributed to this landmark publication which includes the latest data and knowledge on pelagic shark biology fisheries management and conservation Pelagic sharks face unprecedented levels of exploitation in all the world's oceans through both direct fisheries and by catch and effective management for these species is contingent upon solid science and data which this book brings together for the first time All those involved in shark biology will need to have a copy of this book

A study of shark and ray non-fin commodities in Mexico Tovar-Ávila, J., Diliegos-Valencia, M.L., Castillo-Géniz, J.L., Braccini, J.M., Rentería-Bravo, J., Friedman, K., Walsh, M., 2024-07-16 The work presented here summarizes published research from Mexico also linked to an FAO summary plus studies from India Indonesia and Peru In collaboration with various country programmes and local research groups the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations FAO examined shark and ray value chains The goal was to provide valuable information for fisheries and environmental agencies shedding light on the role of non fin commodities derived from sharks and rays in fisheries and trade To effectively conserve shark and ray resources we must adopt a more holistic understanding of their fisheries and markets Historically the focus has primarily centred on regulating the export of shark fins often overlooking traditional and emerging fishing practices and markets related to other elasmobranch products such as meat skin cartilage liver oil and gill plates Due to limited examination of non fin commodities we lack clarity on their sources the extent of exploitation and their significance as drivers of elasmobranch utilization The report aims to shift attention towards non fin commodities in shark and ray management By doing so we hope to expand the range of potential interventions that can be employed to achieve sustainable elasmobranch fisheries a critical source of food security nutrition and livelihoods for coastal communities worldwide

Seafood Processing By-Products Se-Kwon Kim, 2014-04-08 The seafood processing industry produces a large amount of by products that usually consist of bioactive materials such as proteins enzymes fatty acids and biopolymers These by products are often underutilized or wasted even though they have been shown to have biotechnological nutritional pharmaceutical and biomedical applications For example by products derived from crustaceans and algae have been successfully applied in place of collagen and gelatin in food cosmetics drug delivery and tissue engineering Divided into four parts and consisting of twenty seven chapters this book discusses seafood by product development isolation and characterization and demonstrates the importance of seafood by products for the pharmaceutical nutraceutical and biomedical industries

International Law of Sharks Erika J. Techera, Natalie Klein, 2017-04-18 In International Law of Sharks Erika J Techera and Natalie Klein provide an in depth analysis of the current legal frameworks that relate to these important species The authors offer ways in which to overcome obstacles that prevent existing laws from working better and identify best practice global governance options while highlighting opportunities for legal reform Scientific evidence indicates that sharks play a critical role in maintaining marine ecosystem health yet current governance regimes have not been effective and many shark species continue to diminish In this context effective laws are critical to improve sharks conservation status This volume also explores the broader relevance of oceans governance by identifying appropriate legal frameworks and regulatory mechanisms that balance conservation and utilisation of marine species in general
