through their methodologies and ways of authorising knowledge not only discover or reveal knowledge but produce it in ways that involve complex and often ambiguous relationships with power structures and forms of intellectual symbolic and cultural capital One major trend that emerges is that the San and Khoe can no longer be seen as people of the past but have to be acknowledged as contemporary and socially situated individuals and communities who are increasingly contesting the representations which others have imposed on them This book was originally published as a special issue of Critical Arts A Journal of South North Cultural and Media Studies

Perfumery Steve Van Toller, George H. Dodd, 2013-04-17 THE SENSE OF SMELL The nose is normally mistakenly assumed to be the organ of smell reception It is not The primary function of the nose is to regulate the temperature and humidity of inspired air thereby protecting the delicate linings of the lungs This is achieved by the breathed air passing through narrow passageways formed by three nasal turbinates in each nostril The turbinates are covered by spongy vascular cells which can expand or contract to open or close the nasal pathways The olfactory receptors innervated by the 1st cranial nerve are located at the top of the nose There are about 50 million smell receptors in the human olfactory epithelia the total size of which in humans is about that of a small postage stamp with half being at the top of the left and half at the top of the right nostril The receptive surfaces of olfactory cells are ciliated and extend into a covering layer of mucus There is a constant turnover of olfactory cells Their average active life has been estimated to be about 28 days Secret Cities of Old South America Harold T.
