Burbank potato a large hardy variety of potato considered much superior to the small easily spoiled type then grown In 1875 Burbank moved to Santa Rosa California and established a nursery garden and a greenhouse that were the site of his experiments for the next 50 years There he developed the edible thornless Opuntia cactus several improved varieties of fruits and vegetables several new strains of roses and many other ornamental and decorative flowers and plants and a new fruit called the plumcot which is a cross between the plum and the apricot At the time of his death he had more than 3000 experiments under way and was growing more than 5000 distinct botanical species native to many parts of the world His work stimulated worldwide interest in plant breeding Burbank s primary concern was the development of new varieties of plants His ability to perform experiments that produced plants with favorable characteristics depended more on his sense of intuition than on strict scientific methodology However Burbank was influenced by certain scientific theories such as the formerly accepted theory of the inheritance of acquired characteristics affirmed by Jean de Lamarck and others Burbank s writings include Luther Burbank His Methods and Discoveries 12 vol 1914 15 and How Plants Are Trained to Work for Man 8 vol 1921 This set was prepared from the author s original field notes covering more than 100 000 experiments made during forty years devoted to plant improvement LUTHER BURBANK Luther 1849-1926 Burbank, Luther Burbank Society, John Whitson, 2016-08-29 This work has been selected by scholars as being culturally important and is part of the knowledge base of civilization as we know it This work was reproduced from the original artifact and remains as true to the original work as possible Therefore you will see the original copyright references library stamps as most of these works have been housed in our most important libraries around the world and other notations in the work This work is in the public domain in the United States of America and possibly other nations Within the United States you may freely copy and distribute this work as no entity individual or corporate has a copyright on the body of the work As a reproduction of a historical artifact this work may contain missing or blurred pages poor pictures errant marks etc Scholars believe and we concur that this work is important enough to be preserved reproduced and made generally available to the public We appreciate your support of the preservation process and thank you for being an important part of keeping this knowledge alive and relevant Luther Burbank, His Methods and Discoveries and Their Practical Application Luther Burbank, 1915 Luther Burbank; His Methods and Discoveries and Their Practical Application Luther Burbank, 2013-09 This historic book may have numerous typos and missing text Purchasers can usually download a free scanned copy of the original book without typos from the publisher Not indexed Not illustrated 1915 edition Excerpt Almonds on the Stem The pMure suggest the tough leathery character of the seed covering that makes us the almond fruit Unlike Its allied stone fruits the almond has been selected for the seed Itself not for the pulp that surrounds It Mr Burbank has shown that the pulp may also be made attractive through hybridizing and selection as we shall see ing the effect of hybridizing hundreds of other species it is interesting to make inquiry as to why the first generation hybrids of the plum and almond showed such anomalous diversity I am inclined to think that the answer may be found in the assumption that either one parent or the other was itself a hybrid Perhaps both parents were hybrids The fact that almonds are known to cross with the peach and the nectarine to which reference will be made more at length presently lends color to this assumption And of course there is no question that the Japanese plums are largely hybridized In a word then the hybrids produced by cross pollenizing the Japanese plum and the almond were probably in reality second generation hybrids having the strains of other species than the almond and the Japanese plum in their veins Be this as it may the facts as to the curious diversity among the plum almond hybrids have more than passing interest It should further be recorded that the diversity in size was matched by the wide range of diversity in minor characteristics The bark and leaves varied extensively among the different hybrids on some trees the buds were round and plump and on others long and sharp Many of the trees produced somewhat abundant blossoms and the individual blossoms varied widely in color and in size But there were other trees that produced no blossoms whatever under any
