The Cultures of Markets Janelle Knox-Hayes, 2016-06-24 Anthropogenic climate change poses a grave threat to societies around the world The greenhouse gases that generate climate change are produced by virtually every sector of every economy The predominant response of governments around the world is to mitigate climate change through the capping and trading of emissions This book explores the establishment of emissions trading as a form of environmental market based governance in the United States Europe Australia South Korea Japan and China The book

conceptualizes markets as institutions and analyzes them as a system of climate governance To this end it argues that international efforts to promulgate markets run up against local cultures of markets that shape economic practices and knowledge to different degrees While the global agenda under the United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change has sought to develop similar systems to enable interconnected and synchronized emissions reductions each of the cases analyzed here has produced different results The markets and climate policies established reflect the syncretic impact of socio political and cultural context on the institutional transfer of markets Each country expresses a varying degree of ease or unease with the establishment of markets as systems of climate governance Exploration of market adaptation adds new insights to theories of varieties of capitalism The book also examines the material implications of emissions markets on the environment and climatic systems In sum the study finds that cultures of markets present a substantial challenge to a universalist prescription for resolving climate change and highlights issues at the interface of political and economic governance in different political economies This includes issues of citizen state and industry participation and the materiality of economic and financial productivity

Dixon,2003-04-30 Dixon and his colleagues provide a behaviorist perspective on governance Their concern is with the governed s responses to those who seek to govern them their governors and the counter responses that they induce from the governors They take as axiomatic that the governed are not a homogenized and amorphous them in the them us dichotomy reduced to what Carlyle called a dead logic formula thereby for the purpose of this analysis leave begging all the relevant questions The governed are not a disembodied abstraction they are an aggregate of men and women of flesh and blood In a corporation they are corporate directors whose governors are those who own or perhaps have a stake in that corporation corporate managers whose governors are the corporate directors corporate employees whose governors are the corporate managers In a society they are individuals or groups of individuals perhaps in corporations located within its jurisdiction whose governors are the members of societal political and administrative elites At the global level they are individuals or groups of individuals in countries and corporations within the jurisdiction of international governmental organizations and international regimes whose governors are those who seek to control those global governance mechanisms Whether the governed's response to their governors process is one of compliance or antagonism and how the governors response to any antagonism has implications for governance capacity good governance and governability A provocative study that will be of interest to students and scholars of political theory international relations and management and organizational theory as well as those who are concerned with issues of governance at all levels corporate societal and global

Lowering the Cost of Emission Reduction: Joint Implementation in the Framework Convention on Climate Change M.A. Ridley, 2012-12-06 Lowering the Cost of Emission Reduction by Dr Michael Ridley investigates a novel way to reduce the cost of carbon dioxide and sulphur dioxide emission reduction This book asks whether allowing countries to substitute emission reduction undertaken abroad in lieu of emission reduction at home will reduce the cost of emission reduction and allow more rapid and acute falls in pollution Analysing US Department of Energy data on US emission reduction projects undertaken in Eastern Europe and Central America this book explains differences in the cost of emission reduction by method and by country The book sets out the conditions that would allow a joint implementation system to evolve into a full blown tradable permits system Political and practical objections to joint implementation are aired and addressed This book is targeted at the environmental policy community government officials academics the NGO community economists and financiers members of large corporations and museum educators everywhere

Global Governance Meghnad Desai, Paul Redfern, 1995-01-01 This is the first volume arising from the work of the Centre for the Study of Global Governance based at the London School of Economics Governance in this context should not be confused with government it is not the idea of one world government which is being revived Global governance as a concept and as a programme needs to be defined in the context of four pillars post mural post imperial post Keynesian and post industrial The two political pillars the post mural and the post imperial define the constraints on the UN system The two economic pillars run across the political and are reconstituting the world in a way more radical than the political This volume examines the ethical ecological and economics issues emerging from the changing global order
