Making Music Together An Interactionist Perspective On Smallgroup Performance In Jazz:

Making Music Together Peter Reinholdsson, 1998 Storytelling in Jazz and Musicality in Theatre Sven

Bjerstedt, 2021-05-18 Art forms tend to mirror themselves in each other In order to understand literature and fine arts better we often turn to music speaking of the tone in a book and of the rhythm in a painting In attempts to understand music better we turn instead to the narrative arts speaking of the story of a musical piece This book focuses on two examples of such conceptual mirror reflexivity narrativity in jazz music and musicality in spoken theatre These intermedial metaphors are shown to be significant to the practice and reflection of performing artists through their ability to mediate holistic views of what is considered to be of crucial importance in artistic practice analysis and education This exploration opens up possibilities for new theoretical and practical insights with regard to how the borderland between temporal art forms can be conceptualized The book will be of interest not only to scholars of music and theatre but also to those who work in the fields of aesthetics intermedial studies cognitive linguistics arts theory communication theory and cultural studies Expertise in

How and to what extent do people take into account the intentions of others Alessandro Duranti sets out to answer this question showing that the role of intentions in human interaction is variable across cultures and contexts Through careful analysis of data collected over three decades in US and Pacific societies Duranti demonstrates that in some communities social actors avoid intentional discourse focusing on the consequences of actions rather than on their alleged original goals In other cases he argues people do speculate about their own intentions or guess the intentions of others including in some societies where it was previously assumed they avoid doing so To account for such variation Duranti proposes an intentional continuum a concept that draws from phenomenology and the detailed analysis of face to face interaction A combination of new essays and classic re evaluations the book draws together findings from anthropology linguistics and philosophy to offer a penetrating account of the role of intentions in defining human action
