Missionary Writing And Empire 1800 186:

Missionary Writing and Empire, 1800-1860 Anna Johnston, 2003-08-07 Anna Johnston analyses missionary writing under the aegis of the British Empire Johnston argues that missionaries occupied ambiguous positions in colonial cultures caught between imperial and religious interests She maps out this position through an examination of texts published by missionaries of the largest most influential nineteenth century evangelical institution the London Missionary Society Texts from Indian Polynesian and Australian missions are examined to highlight their representation of nineteenth century evangelical activity in relation to gender colonialism and race

Beyond Conversion and Syncretism David Miles Richardson, 2011-10-01 The globalization of Christianity its spread and appeal to peoples of non European origin is by now a well known phenomenon Scholars increasingly realize the importance of natives rather than foreign missionaries in the process of evangelization This volume contributes to the understanding of this process through case studies of encounters with Christianity from the perspectives of the indigenous peoples who converted More importantly by exploring overarching general terms such as conversion and syncretism and by showing the variety of strategies and processes that actually take place these studies lead to a more nuanced understanding of cross cultural religious interactions in general from acceptance to resistance thus enriching the vocabulary of religious interaction The contributors tackle these issues from a variety of disciplinary perspectives history anthropology religious studies and present a broad geographical spread of cases from China Vietnam Australia India South and West Africa North and Central America and the Caribbean

Reading Robinson Anna Johnston, Mitchell Rolls, 2008 READING ROBINSON COMPANION ESSAYS TO FRIENDLY MISSION brings together essays from leading Australian and international historians in a timely analysis of the monumental Friendly Mission the Tasmanian Journals and Papers of George Augustus Robinson 1829 1834 edited by NJB Plomley and republished in 2008 Until now Friendly Mission has rarely been considered in a context beyond the immediacy of Van Diemen's Land Yet George Augustus Robinson's diverse writings constitute a body of work that typically has one set of meanings for local readers and another for those outside its sphere of production Robinson's texts are exemplary of the ways in which colonial texts circulated around what Alan Lester Professor of Historical Geography at the University of Sussex has called imperial networks READING ROBINSON while remaining cognisant of local resonances extends FRIENDLY MISSION from parochial particularity and situates it within international contexts both in terms of contemporary accounts of colonial settler contact conflict with indigenes and current scholarship analysing this material

Entanglements of Empire Tony Ballantyne, 2015-03-16 Entanglements of Empire explores the political cultural and economic entanglements and irrevocable social transformations that resulted from Maori engagements with Protestant missionaries at the most distant edge of the British empire The first Protestant mission to New Zealand established in 1814 saw the beginning of complex political cultural and economic entanglements with Maori Entanglements of Empire is a deft reconstruction of the cross cultural translations of this early period Misunderstanding was rife the physical body itself became the most contentious site of cultural engagement as Maori and missionaries struggled over issues of hygiene tattooing clothing and sexual morality In this fascinating study Tony Ballantyne explores the varying understandings of such concepts as civilization work time and space and gender and the practical consequences of the struggles over these ideas The encounters in the classroom chapel kitchen and farmyard worked mutually to affect both the Maori and the English worldviews Ultimately the interest in missionary Christianity among influential Maori chiefs had far reaching consequences for both groups Concluding in 1840 with the signing of the Treaty of Waitangi and the new age it ushered in Ballantyne's book offers important insights into this crucial period of New Zealand history International Bibliography of Book Reviews of Scholarly Literature Chiefly in the Fields of Arts and Humanities and the Social Sciences, 2004

Explorations and Entanglements Hartmut Berghoff, Frank Biess, Ulrike Strasser, 2018-11-16 Traditionally Germany has been considered a minor player in Pacific history its presence there was more limited than that of other European nations and whereas its European rivals established themselves as imperial forces beginning in the early modern era Germany did not seriously pursue colonialism until the nineteenth century Yet thanks to recent advances in the field emphasizing transoceanic networks and cultural encounters it is now possible to develop a more nuanced understanding of the history of Germans in the Pacific The studies gathered here offer fascinating research into German missionary commercial scientific and imperial activity against the backdrop of the Pacific's overlapping cultural circuits and complex oceanic transits

Women and the White Man's God Myra Rutherdale, 2007-10-01 Between 1860 and 1940 Anglican missionaries were very active in northern British Columbia Yukon and the Northwest Territories To date histories of this mission work have largely focused on men while the activities of women either as missionary wives or as missionaries in their own right have been seen as peripheral at best if not completely overlooked Based on diaries letters and mission correspondence Women and the White Man's God is the first comprehensive examination of women's roles in northern domestic missions The status of women in the Anglican Church gender relations in the mission field and encounters between Aboriginals and missionaries are carefully scrutinized Arguing that the mission encounter challenged colonial hierarchies Rutherdale expands our understanding of colonization at the intersection of gender race and religion This book is a critical addition to scholarship in women's Canadian Native and religious studies and complements a growing body of literature on gender and empire in Canada and elsewhere Internationale Bibliographie der Rezensionen wissenschaftlicher Literatur, 2004 At Home in Many Worlds Raoul David Findeisen, 2009 This volume is dedicated to one of the founding figures of Israeli Chinese studies Professor Irene Eber of The Hebrew University of Jerusalem It assembles more than two dozen essays by colleagues from all over the world that reflect not only the wide range of her scholarly interests but above all the fields of research which would not have been established without her and where her contributions will remain Accordingly the section Philosophy in China and Intellectual History discusses the thorny and complex process of organizing the heritage from the earliest constructed traditions in Han times around the beginning of our era up to the debates on modernization in present day China After an excursion in Chinese Literature much space is devoted to Translating the Bible in China a topic on which her numerous studies have proved seminal and that deals with Chinese perceptions As its complement perceptions of China in systematic and historical perspective are at the core of the section devoted to Jewish Life and Letters in the World The contributions share their approach of paying particular attention to the translation processes strictly speaking and to the hermeneutical process of understanding across time and space more generally A comprehensive list of publications by Irene Eber concludes the volume
