Bad Christians, New Spains Byron Ellsworth Hamann, 2019-10-28 This book centers on two inquisitorial investigations both of which began in the 1540s One involved the relations of Europeans and Native Americans in an Oaxacan town in New Spain today's Mexico The other involved relations of Moriscos recent Muslim converts to Catholicism and Old Christians people with deep Catholic ancestries in the Mediterranean kingdom of Valencia in the old Spain Although separated by an ocean the social worlds preserved in the inquisitorial files share many things By comparing and contrasting the two inquisitions Hamann reveals how very local practices and debates had long distance parallels that reveal the larger entanglements of a transatlantic early modern world Through a dialogue of two microhistories he presents a macrohistory of large scale social transformation We see how attempts in both places to turn old worlds into new ones were centered on struggles over materiality and temporality By paying close attention to theories and practices of reduction and conversion Hamann suggests we can move beyond anachronistic models of social change as colonization and place questions of time and history at the center of our understandings of the sixteenth century past The book is an intervention in major debates in both history and anthropology about the writing of global histories our conceptualizations of the colonial the nature of religious and cultural change and the roles of material things in social life and the imagination of time

Building Yanhuitlan Alessia Frassani, 2017-10-12 Through years of fieldwork in the state of Oaxaca Mexico art historian and archaeologist Alessia Frassani formulated a compelling question How did Mesoamerican society maintain its distinctive cultural heritage despite colonization by the Spanish In Building Yanhuitlan she focuses on an imposing structure a sixteenth century Dominican monastery complex in the village of Yanhuitlan For centuries the buildings have served a central role in the village landscape and the lives of its people Ostensibly there is nothing indigenous about the complex or the artwork inside So how does such a place fit within the Mixteca where Frassani acknowledges a continuity of indigenous culture in the towns plazas markets churches and rural surroundings To understand the monastery complex and Mesoamerican cultural heritage in the wake of conquest Frassani calls for a shifting definition of indigenous identity one that acknowledges the ways indigenous peoples actively took part in the development of post conquest Mesoamerican culture Frassani relates the history of Yanhuitlan by examining the rich store of art and architecture in the town s church and convent bolstering her account with more than 100 color and black and white illustrations She presents the first two centuries of the church complex s construction works maintenance and decorations as the product of cultural political and economic negotiation between Mixtec caciques Spanish encomenderos and Dominican friars The author then ties the village s present day religious celebrations to the colonial past and traces the cult of specific images through these celebrations history Cultural artifacts Frassani demonstrates do not need pre Hispanic origins to be considered genuinely Mesoamerican the processes attached to their appropriation are more meaningful than their having any pre Hispanic past Based on original and unpublished documents and punctuated with stunning photography Building Yanhuitlan combines archival and ethnographic work with visual analysis to make an innovative statement regarding artistic forms and to tell the story of a remarkable community

Kroefges,2015-04-02 Bridging the Gaps Integrating Archaeology and History in Oaxaca Mexico does just that it bridges the gap between archaeology and history of the Precolumbian Colonial and Republican eras of the state of Oaxaca Mexico a cultural area encompassing several of the longest enduring literate societies in the world Fourteen case studies from an interdisciplinary group of archaeologists anthropologists ethnohistorians and art historians consciously compare and contrast changes and continuities in material culture before and after the Spanish conquest in Prehispanic and Colonial documents and in oral traditions rooted in the present but reflecting upon the deep past Contributors consider both indigenous and European perspectives while exposing and addressing the difficulties that arise from the application of this conjunctive approach Inspired by the late Dr Bruce E Byland s work in the Mixteca which exemplified the union of archaeological and historical evidence and inspired new generations of scholars Bridging the Gaps promotes the practice of integrative studies to explore the complex intersections between social organization and political alliances religion and sacred landscape ethnic identity and mobility colonialism and resistance and territoriality and economic resources

Archaeologies of Empire Anna L. Boozer, Bleda S. Düring, Bradley J. Parker, 2020-10-15 Throughout history a large portion of the world s population has lived under imperial rule Although scholars do not always agree on when and where the roots of imperialism lie most would agree that imperial configurations have affected human history so profoundly that the legacy of ancient empires continues to structure the modern world in many ways Empires are best described as heterogeneous and dynamic patchworks of imperial configurations in which imperial power was the outcome of the complex interaction between evolving colonial structures and various types of agents in highly contingent relationships The goal of this volume is to harness the work of the next generation of empire scholars in order to foster new theoretical and methodological perspectives that are of relevance within and beyond archaeology and to foreground empires as a cross cultural category This book demonstrates how archaeological research can contribute to our conceptualization of empires across disciplinary boundaries
